I perceived. I took care. I am SHADOW. I to mesilf. I would not. I can learn. I asked you. I whispered. I feel that. I am humble. I tell thee. I heed thee. I have seen. I love thee. I defy thee. I have seen.

I was saying. I calculated. I could wish. I considered. I endeavored. I thought so. I interposed. I beg pardon. I know G----. I pressed it. I touched it. I endeavored. I interposed. I considered. I cannot say. I am enabled. I wish to be. I seized him. I remembered. I considered. I had fallen. I thus mused. I thus mused. I cannot say. I then slept. I endeavored. I was mortal. I shall need. I am--misery. I could find. I was galled. I discovered. I discovered. I remembered. I was absent. I found that. I am certain. I best might. I found that. I considered. I was asleep. I determined. I killed one. I obeyed her. I considered. I approached. I could bear. I remembered. I really was. I was imbued. I confess it. I ejaculated. I am monarch. I was saying. I die for it. I grew angry. I must admit. I-n-d-e-e-d-. I was forced. I am assured. I ever heard. I could bear. I made haste. I ejaculated. I could not). I considered. I should say. I pronounced. I should say. I thus spoke. I had fallen. I did myself. I have noted. I endeavored. I was hipped. I was saying. I was saying. I will amend. I did imbibe. I cannot die. I would give. I revell'd.

I said before. I said before. I said before. I shot upward. I will detail. I received it. I mean de bug. I dug eagerly. I had made it. I could speak. I at once saw. I beseech you. I then sought. I was puzzled. I am in error. I am innocent. I am innocent. I now propose. I guessed odd. I mean to say. I became that. I still lived. I am impelled. I cannot tell. I say "mind. I addressed M. I have spoken. I had learned. I should read. I have judged. I fled aghast. I there found. I behold thee. I mistake not. I had swooned. I had escaped. I had escaped. I went abroad. I said before. I led at Eton. I do not wish. I scrutinized. I now to fear. I had invoked. I had visited. I before said. I said before. I should then. I took notice. I said before. I had with me. I stood erect. I said before. I ever beheld. I could guess. I relate them. I endeavoured. I did of mine. I had in hand. I could judge. I said before. I had swooned. I mean to say. I describe it. I regarded it. I mutteringly. I say de more. I remember it. I said before. I have always. I say nothing. I thanked him. I saw plainly. I mistake not. I said before. I com'd ere. I should keep. I ask him why. I must except. I say nothing. I knocked off. I--I went off. I was obliged. I was sitting. I watched him. I had shot Mr. I anticipated. I percaved it. I am not sure. I am alluding. I was in Rome. I am Epicurus. I toasted him. I make Beauty. I was napping. I their slave. I'm certain. I cannot pray. I did inherit. I but dreamed. I do remember. I not descend.

I have already. I reached home. I brought them. I had acquired. I had expected. I had expected. I was existing. I had expected. I had expected. I had expected. I disappointed. I was inclined. I became aware. I find that Mr. I must confess. I don't know. I sent for you. I sent for you. I hurried home. I again looked. I perceive him. I quietly fell. I will explain. I shall arrive. I had supposed. I do not speak. I have adduced. I have already. I did not wish. I found myself. I have no name. I regarded him. I have related. I did not care. I took courage. I am persuaded. I approached M. I thought then. I had finished. I said at last. I know not how. I shall perish. I know not why. I have painted. I paused again. I again paused. I became blind. I remember--ah. I have guarded. I must confess. I felt nothing. I took courage. I became aware. I forbear--for. I dreaded that. I have alluded. I misanthropic. I am not Timon. I found myself. I was pursuing. I sauntered on. I would convey. I looked at it. I be satisfied. I fled in vain. I fled in vain. I had expected. I thrust it in. I were cousins. I perused them. I found myself. I followed him. I had no light. I had expected. I spoke to him. I had supposed. I spoke to him. I could devise. I was deceived. I before spoke. I can remember. I must believe. I hope to live. I could endure. I called aloud. I know nothing. I was consumed. I spoke boldly. I said nothing. I may thus say. I don't know. I have to tell. I commenced it. I can tell you. I can tell you. I--I could not. I sobbed aloud. I--I could not. I would or not. I presented it. I know fellows. I did not take. I nodded again. I soliloquized. I then thought. I _wouldn't_. I looked about. I must confess. I will not say. I lay darkling. I much mourned. I know nothing. I fell at once. I turned to Mr. I believe that. I say no trace. I had proposed. I would define. I sat divining. I can not feel. I am happy now. I am happy now. I could awaken. I' the pouts. I did not know. I heard it not. I heard it not. I would adjust. I not tell you. I was mistaken. I would retire. I'll entwine.

I know you will. I began to rave. I had remaining. I had taken off. I had undergone. I ebber did see. I have depended. I discovered it. I took a candle. I arose at once. I say signature. I remarked that. I may have made. I will tell you. I here demanded. I have referred. I cannot divine. I am a stranger. I will tell you. I really--think. I was astounded. I know him well. I have to offer. I had asked him. I married early. I alone fed him. I approached it. I was in search. I had destroyed. I certainly was. I vowed revenge. I will not fail. I heard no more. I stepped on it. I felt very--oh. I left in doubt. I was merciless. I uplifted them. I had proceeded. I slept soundly. I had no desire. I well remember. I took the helm. I expected much. I was perishing. I could command. I never learned. I saw and heard. I looked upward. I also got down. I recognized it. I forget myself. I looked upward. I felt--not saw. I had no bodily. I felt--not saw. I first saw you. I observed that. I felt it to be. I first saw her. I had been told. I could command. I am twenty-two. I say precisely. I was a sad dog. I do not choose. I can recollect. I supposed them. I had travelled. I can recommend. I really pitied. I should prefer. I was desperate. I observed also. I was not aware. I see how it is. I was suspended. I do assure you. I see you again. I am Baal-Zebub. I saw and heard. I was deposited. I was presented. I say it myself. I suffered much. I well remember. I was surprised. I won't do it. I have employed. I got in return. I see how it is. I think of whom. I tell you what. I perceive that. I remember once. I confess again. I long for rest. I am very happy. I speak of love. I have told you. I see no reason. I heard a voice. I me thee stand. I wake and sigh. I now with thee.

I see thee stand. I shall not name. I conceived that. I conceived that. I placed the keg. I began to doubt. I made no remark. I was astonished. I have just said. I mean to say is. I say approaches. I say "at will. I am more struck. I feel convinced. I went upon deck. I gained my feet. I have ever seen. I looked upon it. I will translate. I have my doubts. I looked dizzily. I can understand. I held my breath. I gazed about me. I only half felt. I should mention. I rapped heavily. I not so term it. I will make none. I looked upwards. I have my doubts. I have my doubts. I have my doubts. I grew impatient. I now recognized. I gazed about me. I could not help. I could not hear. I followed it up. I know that here. I have mentioned. I have ever seen. I said to myself. I should call it. I have said that. I arose from bed. I finally comply. I at length flee. I had my head in. I worked hastily. I admit the deed. I gazed upon her. I could not tell. I was well aware. I loved in youth. I had lifted him. I remembered all. I was bewildered. I could not tell. I rose boldly up. I would hesitate. I turned my head. I now begged him. I must have been. I have ever seen. I have described. I should suppose. I have spoken of. I shall not name. I shrieked aloud. I have mentioned. I first heard it. I rubbed my eyes. I had no concern. I had entered it. I have the honor. I saw distinctly. I could thus see. I confess myself. I felt mortified. I could not rely. I understand you. I made sure that. I have succeeded. I certainly will. I think me of it. I may so call it. I myself possess. I knew very well. I had insinuated. I was left alone. I feel convinced. I think so still. I would be plain. I should observe. I comprehend you. I admit it to be. I said to myself. I said at length. I thin to meself. I iver lit it go. I am in no hurry. I--" "Indeed. I bade him write. I reached my hat. I will drop them. I'll see to it. I feet have been. I saw thee stand.

I thought it best. I was vain enough. I managed rightly. I had anticipated. I thought it best. I had been guilty. I am now speaking. I had anticipated. I thought it best. I keer for de bug. I should be alone. I made up my mind. I say proficiency. I remember aright. I am now awaiting. I had anticipated. I left last night. I have adduced it. I saw him no more. I saw in the hold. I did not despair. I should remember. I am sorry to say. I was about to do. I intend all else. I am about to pen. I be to expect it. I detail with awe. I had been guilty. I had anticipated. I brought it home. I held in my hand. I have long known. I knew not whence. I paused abruptly. I could not laugh. I plastered it up. I again slumbered. I resist its glow. I reject the idea. I had before seen. I remember aright. I advanced a step. I remembered them. I began to murmur. I had been and am. I must so term it. I had no positive. I left him for Mr. I am alive to-day. I had anticipated. I discovered that. I was overpowered. I had rescued him. I turned the note. I once more arose. I could not utter. I had thrown down. I made up my mind. I again descended. I had anticipated. I remembered that. I soon discovered. I have ever known. I have ever known. I feared to tread. I reeled and fell. I had ever beheld. I wrote him again. I spoke at length. I can promise you. I believe my eyes. I so much admired. I spoke of myself. I spoke of myself. I ever did see'. I saw him no more. I am sorry to say. I thought of love. I yelled to Diana. I gathered enough. I reason a priori. I beg your pardon. I can't do what. I had half arisen. I had treated him. I shall not strip. I thought strange. I made up my mind. I spoke the words. I clearly saw Mrs. I can't help it. I couldn't help. I did a good deal. I consider myself. I reject the idea. I remember aright. I remember aright. I saw Jew pedlars. I will say 'one. I see you know me. I have a penchant. I have a penchant. I should still be. I beg your pardon. I beg your pardon. I raised my voice. I should read you. I loved so dearly. I behold thee not. I be baffled thus. I do believe thee. I do believe thee. I'll taunt thee. I'll taunt thee. I wot not of them. I say established. I first drew life. I feel hath flown. I have revell'd.

I attached the car. I was glad of this. I had by this time. I mentioned before. I perceived a thin. I became quite ill. I lent him the bug. I was still chilly. I don't see them. I sincerely pitied. I cannot recollect. I began distinctly. I removed the slip. I turned homewards. I swung the beetle. I must acknowledge. I need not mention. I took the pistols. I do _not_ know it. I never so knew it. I knew it would be. I have before said. I am happy to find. I found it logical. I shall never know. I entered the room. I was not deceived. I say insufferable. I at first thought. I can never forget. I heard them--many. I would be avenged. I forget your arms. I entered the room. I found by my side. I unclosed my eyes. I say to my horror. I could never gain. I doubted the care. I became a new man. I wish to describe. I afterwards found. I am about to give. I grew self-willed. I have before said. I will not mention. I will say no more. I have said before. I reached the nail. I could well spare. I turned the paper. I partook heartily. I objected to this. I could not get up. I will not mention. I now found myself. I never saw before. I did not hesitate. I knew would ensue. I mentioned before. I felt a new being. I could not fathom. I pondered upon it. I mean to say that. I pinched my limbs. I was really awake. I said these words. I was urged partly. I assumed the name. I vill now say dat. I expressed to her. I live--let me see. I called with Capt. I read them to you. I ever forget thee. I fancied it alive. I prayed for death. I be talking apout. I had a drop in it. I nodded once more. I smiled knowingly. I am out of breath. I have before said. I may just mention. I lifted them down. I say"--[here Mr. I say this proudly. I ask the question. I lay outstretched. I never could tell. I suggest the idea. I thought very odd. I am in for it now. I'm the happiest. I will return anon. I walked forlornly.

I had already drawn. I bade her good-bye. I made them undergo. I said thoughtfully. I was thunderstruck. I lost not a moment. I had to gib for em. I went to the table. I am all impatience. I am not ungrateful. I closed the window. I have already said. I have lately heard. I have already said. I have as yet urged. I have already said. I found D-- at home. I bade him farewell. I was going to make. I say 'his wishes. I have been denying. I feel able to make. I do not comprehend. I should think of M. I explained to them. I was not satisfied. I visited the ruins. I have already said. I leaped to my feet. I must satisfy them. I to your long life. I term perverseness. I wear these chains. I still lay quietly. I stumbled and fell. I had been deceived. I proceeded at once. I gasped for breath. I struggled no more. I sank into slumber. I hesitated to ride. I was not surprised. I never could solve. I could not resolve. I myself had eloped. I out-Heroded Herod. I loved the old man. I thrust in my head. I drew back--but no. I chuckled at heart. I scarcely breathed. I then smiled gaily. I answered cheerily. I am not understood. I now think of them. I sprang out of bed. I had forced my way. I made him no reply. I made him no reply. I now remember that. I have already said. I gasped for breath. I have already told. I instantly came up. I had so served him. I had said was true. I plunged boldly in. I was more cautious. I would also remark. I found in the eyes. I had been watching. I could not imagine. I repeat I am dying. I never ascertained. I say "at present. I was still looking. I turned on my heel. I awaited the reply. I attended her home. I had a firm friend. I sincerely believe. I am enabled to say. I turned up my nose. I rightly remember). I think it deserved. I know to be a fact. I intended to write. I rush upon my fate. I paused for breath. I thought of myself. I thought of Pompey. I have already said. I ventured to reply. I pe do mit te wing. I clearly perceived. I ran at full speed. I shall cork the MS. I ran to uplift him. I called assistance. I hazarded a remark. I was actually dead. I may so express it. I AM a business man. I was not surprised. I uncovered my eyes. I fancy I know them. I had seen him take. I had been insulted. I inserted a chisel. I had not forgotten. I wint aisy to work. I should have added. I think of Epicurus. I must die on shine. I wished the morrow. I flung the shutter. I lie so composedly. I have not seen him. I clutch thee--thus. I think extravagant. I walked beside her.

I and my Annabel Lee. I found this machine. I shall never forget. I was not aware that. I have detailed some. I had hitherto taken. I observed this last. I had then ever seen. I drop him down fuss. I recollected myself. I have fairly stated. I return the earlier. I have little to say. I know not how it is. I read--and devoutly. I can't stand that. I now began to watch. I think a Roman nose. I say to my surprise. I not only neglected. I approached and saw. I dared_--it was now. I beheld him no more. I have no engagement. I did not understand. I resumed the trowel. I spoken these words. I would have done it. I well remember that. I arrived at the rag. I put forward my arm. I knew that surprise. I fell suddenly calm. I beheld it drawn up. I have observed that. I talked "of worms. I not bid thee arise. I could have fancied. I know not how it is. I say I knew it well. I arose from my seat. I forget her tonnage. I became very uneasy. I now threw over him. I continued to snore. I have before stated. I have before stated. I should live or die. I could not perceive. I saw--not so Rowena. I linger by her side. I spoke with passion. I turned the reverse. I was saying when Mr. I'll be into 'em. I think we mentioned. I had first seen her. I assure you--savage. I am not Suky Snobbs. I shall call Hermann. I carried to Hermann. I was aware that Mrs. I heard nothing more. I have to dispose of. I _couldn't_ stand. I don't believe it. I was not avaricious. I have spoken to you. I breathed no longer. I am not able to say. I now see distinctly. I am simply Hop-Frog. I descried not a few. I therefore told him. I was about to reply. I saw him run nimbly. I have just observed. I am fond of variety. I was embalmed alive. I speak figuratively. I think--not of them. I once could foresee. I have before quoted. I rest so composedly. I weep--while I weep. I am vexed to see it. I've news for thee. I myself hear it now. I will live For thee. I hardly know myself. I am glad to see you. I admired its effect. I slumber'd--Death. I _can_ hope--Oh God. I have won the Earth. I WREATHED in myrtle. I swear I mean alone. I walked at eventide.

I covered up the hole. I began to get uneasy. I now considered that. I finally thought not. I could see no reason. I took him up at last. I had now to complain. I must have my reward. I have prevailed upon. I looked at the paper. I searched my pockets. I drew the scarabæus. I took it for granted. I constructed a table. I replied unwittingly. I now remembered that. I now hold in my hand. I am not _sure_ of it. I escaped destruction. I will enclose the MS. I were not well aware. I am willing to do so. I spoke freely with M. I begged him to state. I use this expression. I prepared to go home. I wish you all health. I have already spoken. I had so long endured. I continued the story. I have said thus much. I shall be fetterless. I sprang upon my feet. I flew to the ottoman. I reached out my hand. I still lay prostrate. I struggled violently. I might refer at once. I remained motionless. I have been impressed. I say that this house. I could scarcely give. I noiselessly entered. I was about to insist. I knew the sound well. I had never loved her. I had several reasons. I looked at the watch. I felt carefully over. I discovered a string. I had previously done. I am firmly convinced. I immediately grasped. I now went down again. I had ceased speaking. I could not ascertain. I could not ascertain. I hearkened entranced. I had heard the noise. I pause to relate how. I am greatly mistaken. I kissed her forehead. I now arose hurriedly. I turned upon my heel. I am five feet eleven. I endeavored to reply. I now hold in my hand. I should like to know. I say--don't I know. I pulled out my watch. I confined my remarks. I witnessed so lavish. I have no doubt of it. I should like to know. I distinctly remember. I have great reliance. I continued my survey. I soon found that Mrs. I thought of his wife. I distinctly heard Mr. I knew it--he is over. I have lost my breath. I had no breath to be. I entered the chamber. I am a methodical man. I was fairly eighteen. I turned my attention. I mistake not greatly. I could neither speak. I made my way quietly. I was much astonished. I tell you what it is. I lent a helping hand. I was present when Mr. I giv'd her flipper. I have just mentioned. I am willing to admit. I should have thought. I am willing to grant. I fell into catalepsy. I dare not even write. I believed in with me. I blame not the world. I at least may recall. I kneel to In the sad. I rest so contentedly. I might have sworn it. I might have sworn it. I will not understand. I mistake not greatly. I know--I know it all. I could speak of love. I will not fight thee. I have no words--alas. I turned away to thee. I let them pass me by.

I paid them all I owed. I took the opportunity. I determined to depart. I retired again to bed. I betook myself to bed. I was seized possessed. I have the honor to be. I must not forget here. I must not forget here. I knew it was secreted. I keep a tellin on you. I'll break your neck. I was dreadfully weary. I came to draw upon it. I looked in the drawer. I reply that the skull. I saw designed upon it. I can scarcely say why. I placed it in the pan. I could do it by guess. I examined with my own. I made upon your fancy. I would divert inquiry. I could not understand. I turned to the porter. I agreed with him--for. I could not understand. I made the lids quiver. I went about the house. I avoided the creature. I set myself forthwith. I must not only punish. I laid the second tier. I not been thus prolix. I remodelled them thus. I cannot help--pity me. I was permitted to sit. I struggled for breath. I breathed more freely. I now lay upon my back. I grew frantically mad. I endeavored to shriek. I had bound up my head. I first saw the valley. I held him out my hand. I found myself with Mr. I think it was his eye. I heard a slight groan. I knew that sound well. I now grew very pale. I talked more fluently. I seek not to convince. I bounded to the table. I have faithfully said. I came to let you know. I thought of the water. I had at first started. I saw there were three. I could breathe at all. I became fully aroused. I was first imprisoned. I could recover breath. I continued my efforts. I should be the holder. I had then ever beheld. I find also this entry. I am not much mistaken. I still had the musket. I had reached her feet. I hesitated for a name. I beheld only--Morella. I bore her to the tomb. I left Charlottesville. I said "disappointed. I thus feasted my eyes. I fancied that a blush. I found Talbot at home. I took in high dudgeon. I see it--I see it all. I tell you what you do. I may state the system. I will change my plate. I discovered at length. I wrote as he dictated. I could make no excuse. I cannot listen to you. I am permitted to make. I congratulated myself. I returned to seek Mrs. I made out pretty well. I had so long pondered. I fully understand you. I need scarce tell you. I say ship of the line. I descended to details. I entreated--he smiled. I implored--he laughed. I preached--he sneered. I threatened--he swore. I would hold my tongue. I intend to insult him. I may be misunderstood. I was so dispirate mad. I pity and forgive him. I not been a Scarabeus. I shall behold no more. I dream I know not how. I go not down to-night. I have no faith in him. I wandered of the idol.

I conveyed to the depot. I have spoken of before. I had taken for granted. I am willing to confess. I could not distinguish. I have formerly alluded. I most willingly detail. I threw off an overcoat. I mean de bug--dare now. I bring dis here pissel. I should tell it at all. I accompanied my friend. I tell you--do you hear. I saw no mode of escape. I showed him the insect. I made diligent inquiry. I clambered to its apex. I was sure you were mad. I was thinking of -----, I will not say just yet. I now especially advert. I can choose my current. I have little to record. I had imagined possible. I have not been engaged. I presume you know that. I understand you aright. I let him have the bolt. I conceived it possible. I had hoped it might be. I say it unhesitatingly. I sent for you to-night. I had some acquaintance. I now have to relate is. I exerted all my powers. I had accomplished this. I assigned it with mine. I spent most of my time. I knew myself no longer. I continued my caresses. I permitted it to do so. I breathed as a freeman. I felt creeping upon me. I grew angry and cursed. I encountered my friend. I cannot be responsible. I hesitated--I trembled. I reapproached the wall. I have erected a better. I was myself a decorist. I had found many angles. I now noticed the floor. I busied myself in vain. I have already observed. I have before described. I had found in the road. I extinguished the lamp. I could not distinguish. I experienced no relief. I was anxiously seeking. I put in a dark lantern. I moved it slowly--very. I did not move a muscle. I had never beheld them. I coveted them so madly. I passed under the ship. I was forced to abandon. I could not see my hand. I looked at it directly. I had been able to read. I was in immediate want. I found voice to answer. I was thus representing. I have taken to tell it. I felt a hard substance. I heard a crash on deck. I have mentioned before. I have taken to tell it. I now detain the reader. I define that sentiment. I cannot bear to dilate. I recrossed the chamber. I shudder while I write. I read to be discovered. I shrank from amid them. I live a thousand years. I wonder who she can be. I stood thus in despair. I paused for an instant. I knew you were jesting. I say you will be there. I continued to practise. I can't precisely say. I have already observed. I have only to add that. I must bring this paper. I am willing to confess. I zit here at your zide. I was utterly astounded. I was therefore obliged. I found it inconvenient. I repeatedly urged them. I was already possessed. I discovered that had I. I endeavored to confute. I caught somebody elses. I may so express myself. I was a very little boy. I have discovered a way. I have already observed. I shudder while I speak. I am forbidden to shave. I have already observed. I could frequently read. I had never seen before. I had seen him at first. I begged him to believe. I demonstrated--in vain. I'll bet you a trifle. I am not ashamed to say. I live a thousand years. I've been a gintleman. I am constrained to say. I am constrained to say. I turned it upside down. I saw on it a large box. I presume you are aware. I concluded not to hear. I have been just urging. I stood there wondering. I knew thou wouldst not. I go--to--morrow we meet. I am the veriest coward. I knew your father well. I am speaking of poetry. I had earlier known-- O. I will no requiem raise.

I found the day breaking. I found it six o'clock. I was now rising rapidly. I fear you are no artist. I supposed it to be such. I endeavored to remember. I placed it in a tin pan. I made the division thus. I perceived a white spot. I have been anticipating. I judged from his manner. I now looked at the nail. I made an end of reading. I need scarcely tell you. I was startled by a loud. I had before encountered. I became aware of a dull. I could not see his face. I confided it to any one. I knew him as a courtier. I regarded only as ruses. I glanced at this letter. I had previously arrived. I might have entertained. I beg a thousand pardons. I have already described. I was induced to proceed. I closed them altogether. I have last described it. I have already described. I had been passing alone. I have easily remembered. I had not opened my eyes. I might make its circuit. I could reach the latter. I lay breathlessly still. I arose from the attempt. I rushed from the margin. I withstand its pressure. I took vigorous exercise. I have already spoken of. I now saw was the result. I hereditarily possessed. I say to my astonishment. I had waited a long time. I dismembered the corpse. I was singularly at ease. I did not fail to ponder. I had seen and undergone. I perceived at once that. I had a limited sympathy. I was excessively amused. I was entirely satisfied. I became somewhat uneasy. I patted him on the head. I was aware of this fact. I had made him no answer. I sprang forward quickly. I had been in bad health. I had for some time past. I could form no estimate. I perceived a vast crowd. I offered this assurance. I kissed a million times. I was to see him at once. I immediately took leave. I gave it a twist or two. I am very much surprised. I took to be Chimpanzees. I accordingly grew angry. I was presently relieved. I thought very bad taste. I fell into a great rage. I felt sufficiently safe. I was descending rapidly. I could recover my sight. I exerted myself in vain. I had never yet seen her. I did not so much regard. I ventured a jest or two. I sleep soundly at night. I succeeded to a miracle. I continued my soliloquy. I remembered with a sigh. I ask it of business men. I and my seven ministers. I will make a man of you. I had been ill in health. I'll bet you so and so. I com'd from Connaught. I have in the houl world. I beg a thousand pardons. I shall introduce to you. I want In proper dignity. I've news for you both. I have a crucifix myself. I do--indeed I pity thee. I hear thy gentlest tone.

I went immediately to bed. I told them I had in view. I felt any emotion at all. I now began to experience. I now determined to adopt. I unfastened one of these. I pushed in or pulled out. I found him well educated. I done pass fibe big limb. I did not fail to observe. I frankly confided to him. I have just left the deck. I took to be a commission. I do not quite understand. I made the re-examination. I had not as yet explored. I had of seeing the world. I have last described him. I was thoroughly unnerved. I would unburthen my soul. I doubted to whom I spoke. I could not decypher them. I am on my way to Luchesi. I still quickened my pace. I have torn out my tongue. I have dreamed of success. I remained without motion. I occasioned much trouble. I remained without motion. I could not help thinking. I shudder in regarding it. I could not force it open. I had room for none other. I was so utterly benumbed. I come to this resolution. I have since been assured. I saw nothing of Augustus. I lay in a kind of stupor. I relapsed into my stupor. I was now beneath the dog. I was snoring very loudly. I can make on the subject. I got hold of my penknife. I took notice of his eyes. I desired them to go back. I struggled _not to think. I would have picked it up. I should not have doubted. I heard her voice no more. I joined the weaker party. I looked toward Templeton. I became my original self. I naturally dislike these. I doubt it for an instant. I had yet a resource left. I may say it was horrific. I suppose you say dat dat. I shall presently explain. I haven't a doubt of it. I very much fear it is so. I die--for thee--for thee. I wish to look through it. I shall forbear to dilate. I but too soon discovered. I was not at all deceived. I died For thee--for thee. I was about throwing away. I am te _Angel ov te Odd_. I am te _Angel ov te Odd_. I had no reason to expect. I will be done boring you. I observed it attentively. I could not help thinking. I first visited the ship). I shall be done by and by. I pleaded urgent business. I feel the least indebted. I was not quite satisfied. I will bring fire to thee. I hear no longer that mad. I felt singularly aroused. I grew wearied unto death. I knew he could not do it. I saw him high in the air. I had no leisure to think. I could not find anywhere. I myself among the number. I am not altogether blind. I had a wretched headache. I know not what they mean. I have a garden of my own. I sat engaged in guessing. I saw thee half reclining. I sighed to him before me. I was not conscious of it. I hate--I loathe the name. I wish to speak with thee. I might have been induced. I have reach'd to power. I admire Thy distant fire.

I may depend upon your aid. I have chosen a broad text. I gazed on it with earnest. I solicited their services. I first untied one of them. I continued it much longer. I am not quite a blockhead. I thought you were jesting. I was busied in reflection. I more particularly allude. I am detailing any mystery. I thought this an odd term. I should rather undervalue. I made the attempt in vain. I continue the translation. I sailed in the year 18-- . I observed a very singular. I did so I can hardly tell. I fell back within the bed. I took the entire building. I fear you are right there. I will hand you the letter. I will therefore guess odd. I meant in suggesting that. I dispute the availability. I called for the snuff-box. I stepped to the card-rack. I met in my former voyages. I placed myself as desired. I had let the foresail run. I have often thought since. I could not help observing. I resigned him to his fate. I need not go into details. I could not have said this. I had not a moment to lose. I should behold it no more. I quivered not in a muscle. I know not how it was--but. I had indeed been prepared. I fancied that I perceived. I here started as he spoke. I now saw him--what he was. I shall not die of a cough. I had completed the eighth. I may answer your question. I fancied that each shadow. I did not fail to see that. I thought an urgent manner. I am now rapidly departing. I quickly unclosed my eyes. I at once saw could not be. I cautiously moved forward. I proceeded for many paces. I am cognizant of my state. I was not within the vault. I had been unable to solve. I could not help observing. I am but fulfilling a duty. I shall not venture to say. I stab you where you stand. I refrained and kept still. I dragged him to the floor. I foamed--I raved--I swore. I spoke to her of marriage. I held them in every light. I strived to decypher them. I supposed him intoxicated. I could stand it no longer. I had abandoned the design. I go up and close the trap. I groped along in the dark. I tried in vain to account. I was not at all surprised. I could crawl along at all. I succeeded in reaching it. I examined them one by one. I then supposed him hungry. I would hold it to my face. I had fallen upon my knees. I could not have spoken it. I began to entertain hopes. I was excessively agitated. I told him to take courage. I was completely exhausted. I could say in a mild tone. I forced myself to look up. I had been plunged beneath. I then thought of anything. I did at length attempt it. I cast it aside as useless. I regarded the sweet mouth. I wished to show her (what. I took interest in nothing. I am by no means deficient. I had hitherto experienced. I wear this dear eye-glass. I meant the younger beauty. I'll oblige you for once. I thought it just possible. I feel humbled to the dust. I had on the crimson satin. I allude to the filling up. I shall make two divisions. I had taken Pompey's arm. I could not help surmising. I called Pompey to my side. I'll have none o' them. I will merely observe that. I would say more than this. I now felt a little stupid. I made an effort to get up. I could speak to the point. I found myself established. I was Peter Proffit at all. I could get at in a minute. I had been unable to solve. I had found in his library. I thought a cruel calmness. I could always detect them. I perceived that his linen. I could stand it no longer. I vowed to serve him as St. I discovered what I sought. I'll give ye yur flipper. I find they keep very well. I did not distinctly learn. I then mentioned our steel. I have been up since seven. I maintain that the phrase. I would nevertheless limit. I love should come to weep. I said--"What is written. I knew thou wouldst not go. I am the Earl of Leicester. I ever I behold Thy dreamy.

I mention this circumstance. I then made fast the buckle. I writhed my person over it. I had so lately experienced. I finally arose for the day. I passed the day in reading. I continued to near the ice. I lost sight of it entirely. I examined all my apparatus. I am truly sorry to hear it. I stumbled and fell forward. I then supposed to be paper. I say all this will be seen. I told the captain my fears. I will therefore guess even. I wish to find out how wise. I reflected upon the daring. I think it was) and the rat. I threw myself upon my face. I threw myself flat on deck. I recovered myself a little. I have it from his own lips. I say to you that I am dead. I pen the damnable atrocity. I again plunged into excess. I knew that it had loved me. I now habitually frequented. I been able to meet with it. I found him a bounden slave. I shuddered knowing not why. I came close unto the shore. I read the fables of sorrow. I had borne as I best could. I was so pleased to see him. I looked at him in surprise. I must positively leave you. I struggled with its weight. I fell prostrate in a swoon. I have more than once heard. I had been greatly mistaken. I was an imbecile--an idiot. I took desperately to heart. I could find words to reply. I thought of my precautions. I staggered forward at once. I myself wore at the moment. I heard many things in hell. I did not hear him lie down. I refrained and stood still. I showed them his treasures. I shuddered in her presence. I invoked of Him and of her. I recommended myself to God. I was burning up with fever. I passed the blade along it. I moved with this intention. I recovered from this state. I never once opened my eyes. I knew to be in my vicinity. I struggled to gain my feet. I have felt it in the ocean. I have never known in woman. I could not help perceiving. I had taken no note of time. I am not prepared to assert. I should be somewhat minute. I was absolutely fascinated. I poured out my whole heart. I learned from my betrothed. I handed my adored wife out. I havn't married my great. I was so especially edified. I know to-morrow's Sunday. I say that to-day is Sunday. I left the place in disgust. I can't see what he means. I assume upon myself to say. I passed beneath the portal. I resumed my contemplations. I think it was the figure V. I had rolled up to the fire. I arose with a shining pate. I immediately went on board. I resolved to quiz him well. I may mention a low sobbing. I have not the least desire. I waited till I was sixteen. I will say nothing about it. I am not well enough versed. I did not think he could do. I felt particularly puzzled. I have already said that Mr. I git out o' the spalpeen. I was writing an Exposition. I was still rubbing my eyes. I arise from dreams of thee. I place Taste in the middle. I but know that I love thee. I have When I am very happy. I thought not of the jewels. I feel thou lovest me truly. I left behind me in an hour. I had no being--but in thee.

I soon grew as poor as a rat. I had no fear on her account. I fell in the first instance. I could not do without sleep. I did not wish to keep awake. I could in no manner account. I became excessively alarmed. I arose from a sound slumber. I have also me and the earth. I presume that is sufficient. I had frequently done before. I have something to tell you. I wish to see you to--_night_. I felt inexpressibly shocked. I recovered from this stupor. I immediately kindled a fire. I proceeded to use the glass. I left 'the devil's seat. I should have proven no more. I received answer as follows. I complained of my weak eyes. I was at a loss how to reply. I felt somebody grasp my arm. I took these gentlemen aside. I looked around triumphantly. I became aware of a distinct. I saw that he spoke in a low. I gave utterance to a threat. I perceive you are afflicted. I might as well here mention. I will not attempt to define. I at once started to my feet. I was the veriest of cowards. I became irresistibly drowsy. I rushed to its deadly brink. I knew that the fit was over. I discarded my medical books. I have ever known leads them. I first drew near the domain. I had time to observe of her. I knew what the old man felt. I had been too wary for that. I bade the gentlemen welcome. I claim to be my own writing. I experienced upon awakening. I lay in an utterly helpless. I put it to the dog's nose. I fell violently to the left. I had first entered the hold. I got into Augustus' berth. I address myself principally. I ever remember to have seen. I would endeavor to free him. I had at first perceived her. I fell senseless to the deck. I convinced him of his error. I fallen with my full weight. I ever found Ligeia at fault. I regarded my friend Morella. I grew furious through delay. I most unfeignedly surprised. I could muster at the moment. I mean Moissart and Voissart. I know myself to be a sinner. I half resolved to turn back. I perceived it slightly open. I take it upon myself to say. I felt inexpressibly alarmed. I screamed to Pompey for aid. I felt that in a few minutes. I felt convinced that myself. I saw skulking into his hole. I certainly never saw before. I give you back your tobacco. I had been dozing only three. I was too well used to these. I had reached the conclusion. I continue the investigation. I was not long in hesitation. I was taken up into a garret. I became troubled with ennui. I turned again to her sister. I fairly shouted with terror. I referred only to the earth. I say with a sensual delight. I now directed his attention. I can soon tell who they are. I shall learn no more of him. I said nothing but the truth. I'll bet you what you dare. I'll bet the Devil my head. I'll bet the Devil my head. I bore the insult like a man. I take my place by the stile. I quote only a portion of it. I feel I am better at length. I should not sing at all-- V. I tell My love to thee alone.

I was still rapidly ascending. I went to sleep as I proposed. I had any previous experience. I was sadly vexed and puzzled. I tell you that I felt a hope. I see you profit by my advice. I take to be the royal palace. I would abide by its decision. I could ascertain its meaning. I mean its extreme porousness. I remember his merriment well. I had not known where we were. I was summoned to his bedside. I say that it resembles death. I made the attempt and failed. I easily dislodged the bricks. I propped it in that position. I knew that he was not asleep. I called aloud-- "Fortunato. I called again-- "Fortunato. I rejected a thousand schemes. I turned--I gasped for breath. I have termed the first stage. I been remanded to my dungeon. I had counted fifty-two paces. I watched it for some minutes. I cared much about the matter. I describe it--piece by piece. I slowly and quietly withdrew. I fairly chuckled at the idea. I kept pushing it on steadily. I held the lantern motionless. I was awakened from a slumber. I proceeded with less trouble. I am as comfortable as can be. I amused myself for some time. I met with some hard obstacle. I had brought from the barrel. I drained it to the last drop. I saw that Peters still lived. I therefore took Parker aside. I summoned up all my strength. I could see nothing of Peters. I hardly know for what reason. I caught eagerly at this hope. I could see of these wretches. I have surely heard her speak. I felt my heart cease to beat. I walked on for several hours. I struggled--I gasped--I died. I believe that I am well made. I at length gave up the chase. I had not properly considered. I wish you to wear spectacles. I go marry my seconde usbande. I mean Croissart and Froisart. I only tink proper to mean it. I had discovered her identity. I don't know any such thing. I go entirely round the globe. I am quite ashamed to confess. I was really in a great hurry. I entered the ominous archway. I entered the ominous archway. I abandoned the arm of Pompey. I still find great difficulty. I am sure-- "Cast off there. I felt nothing of trepidation. I offered the balm of my vows. I somewhat softened the Angel. I must have let go altogether. I am almost devoured by ennui. I resolved to have my revenge. I was not altogether the butt. I commenced a vigorous search. I had already made up my mind. I submitted with a good grace. I _must_ hear--do tell--go on. I staggered into an arm-chair. I selected my street-crossing. I feel no stupor--none at all. I made my way into the street. I pulled his nose--he blew it. I began not to like it at all. I still think him baby Dammit. I had time to make any remark. I came across an old dry well. I was as mad as a grasshopper. I have tasted--that is to say. I would limit to enforce them. I do not believe it beguiling. I wish'd to be again of men. I have not always been as now. I BENEATH the vine-clad eaves.

I had more than half suspected. I jerked my way bodily upwards. I then finally made up my mind. I did this at some little risk. I had heard of the student who. I was evidently approaching it. I went to bed in great anxiety. I turned from them in contempt. I have also to inform you that. I forget the title of the work. I had only known you were here. I retained my seat by the fire. I let myself down to the ledge. I had been attended by Jupiter. I let it fall it from the tree. I know no fruiterer whomsoever. I could see no possible object. I am now awaiting a person who. I have not asserted that it is. I need give myself any concern. I will tell you in a few words. I don't like to say how much. I had two stout boys of my own. I forget the sensations of awe. I dare not attempt to describe. I shall employ in the ultimate. I might test these particulars. I now blindly abandoned myself. I soundly and tranquilly slept. I folded my arms upon my bosom. I stepped back from the recess. I have strayed and gazed alone. I judge from this circumstance. I felt that I lay upon my back. I suppose myself actually dead. I had counted forty-eight more. I could not at first determine. I was tied by no separate cord. I lay upon some hard substance. I thrust him furiously from me. I closed the door with an oath. I can tell you the whole story. I went boldly into the chamber. I thought the heart must burst. I brought chairs into the room. I fancied a ringing in my ears. I call upon her name--Berenice. I had done a deed--what was it. I may relate of the later time. I stationed myself by the mast. I had expected a similar reply. I heard the trap open and shut. I not been too greatly excited. I threw myself on the mattress. I endeavoured in vain to reply. I suffered less than any of us. I now thought it possible that. I advanced upon the assailants. I sank upon an ottoman near me. I could not have been deceived. I felt that my vision grew dim. I now made sure that I dreamed. I seated myself beneath a tree. I should have shown you before. I not ready speak de too moshe. I had an ancestor of that name. I opened the drawing-room door. I anticipate it by three hours. I've been onry for dis hour. I determined to follow my nose. I wish you could have seen him. I resolved to be more cautious. I will get upon your shoulders. I thought necessary to be done. I made my retreat to the Baron. I have no change for a hundred. I did not precisely comprehend. I represent this matter fairly. I could not help regarding Mrs. I thought of these expressions. I could not even open my mouth. I gave him afterward a receipt. I am sorry that I cannot reply. I have unaccountably forgotten. I now perceived was performing. I am not to be beat by a clock. I resolved to be off forthwith. I was knocked all out of shape. I've seen more living beauty. I remember these conversations. I regarded the terrific animal. I was now immeasurably alarmed. I'll bet you what you please. I'll make ye a present of it. I intended the corpse to speak. I stepped over to the pyramids. I have no earthly acquaintance. I'll let you have it--hiccup. I had reached the "Ponnonner. I called attention to the fact. I was either dead or should be. I found it past four o'clock. I--as the eagle from his tower. I fell in love with melancholy.

I have it on the best authority. I threw myself doggedly into it. I directed my steps toward home. I intended making it applicable. I began to take of my situation. I believed indefinitely farther. I had little further hesitation. I experienced a sensible relief. I was pleased at the occurrence. I was not prepared to find them. I might think proper to attempt. I was now close upon the planet. I felt it impossible to explain. I am not now writing a treatise. I could not possibly understand. I said 'legitimate deductions. I had not been once 'at fault. I will answer the advertisement. I have scarcely anything to add. I had at first seen in the hold. I left for him in the card-rack. I forget what specious pretence. I made the best of my condition. I learn from the "Isitsoornot. I tremble at the least exertion. I am going to tell you occurred. I began to feel a little uneasy. I dragged my watch from its fob. I now see the confusion of idea. I had not seen him for ten days. I am almost ashamed to own--yes. I shudder to name--and for this. I the blessing of Rest any more. I burned to say if but one word. I shudder at the thought of any. I heard it--yet I dared not--oh. I not that my senses were acute. I dared not--_I dared not speak. I hearkened in vain for a reply. I had myself carefully disposed. I take pleasure in being minute. I supposed to be Johannisberger. I was lost in reveries of death. I exacted the most sacred oaths. I well remember it had no trees. I bade them search--search well. I turned them in every attitude. I knew that it was now midnight. I had seen it frequently before. I looked at it for some minutes. I bowed down without a struggle. I was quite as brave as himself. I flew to him and raised him up. I was not to make my appearance. I followed at a little distance. I would make my way to the trap. I fell impetuously to the earth. I concluded to be a chain-cable. I had not entertained it before. I was to remain for the present. I called aloud to my companions. I therefore returned in despair. I have never known her at fault. I have some explanation to make. I will call upon you at B--'s. I caught only the lines--Ninon. I yield to your entreaties--and. I know nothing about him at all. I turned short upon Bluddennuff. I shall not attempt to describe. I had no intention of offending. I surely do not hear you aright. I am the Signora Psyche Zenobia. I may be allowed the expression. I am the Signora Psyche Zenobia. I understand for the life of me. I have to say by way of apology. I betook myself again to my nap. I have the honor of sending you. I am to this mode of travelling. I mean the truth of Gravitation. I should have been much more so. I was prepared for eccentricity. I knew to be no solution at all. I was so unlucky as not to know. I would go to the fountain-head. I gave it a kick out of the way. I see with the eyes of his make. I succumbed to the fierce fever. I betook myself to remonstrance. I had made an end of my lecture. I am quite sure you will win it. I came to think of these things. I givd the flipper a big squaze. I mean taken out of the carcass. I stand beneath the mystic moon.

I soon rose above the difficulty. I had played the three creditors. I took to be very dirty foolscap. I deemed it proper to take leave. I at first supposed to be a goat. I am as much in the dark as ever. I proceeded to examine the place. I moved it cautiously up or down. I get a glimpse of it afterwards. I contrived to give him the slip. I should ever resume the subject. I readily fell in with his humor. I wholly neglect to bid him call. I find _all_ currents against me. I had scarcely completed my work. I bade the Minister good morning. I was informed by the man-animal. I no longer hesitated what to do. I was especially fond of animals. I was yet withheld from so doing. I felt no embarrassment whatever. I staggered to the opposite wall. I dread the events of the future. I shuddered the more thrillingly. I dared not--I _dared_ not speak. I was going back into the morass. I could not laugh with the Demon. I staggered onward for some time. I proceeded with extreme caution. I groped my way back to the wall. I raised food to my burning lips. I at length felt that I was free. I was permitted to accompany him. I turned the corner of the gable. I found myself a student at Eton. I put my foot over the threshold. I frequently engaged him in play. I arose and argued about trifles. I felt that I must scream or die. I longed with a phrenzied desire. I surveyed their characteristics. I dwelt upon their peculiarities. I was suffering much from thirst. I was in possession of my senses. I could bring it into view again. I gathered up as well as I could. I had now only about a gill left. I again heard the word "Arthur. I felt his hand upon my shoulder. I was convinced that he was dead. I should remain near the opening. I secured near the companion-way. I know not what else to imagine). I should attend to my own safety. I knew would speedily be enacted. I retired to one end of the hulk. I felt some curiosity to examine. I found myself nearly suffocated. I could at least doubt no longer. I entered into a series of tests. I am not sure that you are wrong. I seemed to rise from the ground. I was then only twenty years old. I became convinced that the lady. I possibly put upon such conduct. I should be introduced by Talbot. I strolled moodily up the street. I am scarcely qualified to judge. I would have escorted her myself. I am not the husband of my great. I have been absent just one year. I am a man of my word--mark that. I mastered before I was breeched. I came of age my father asked me. I engaged rooms in Jermyn street. I must do him the justice to say. I cannot let you see my patients. I call him the tee-totum because. I have a right to our patronymic. I remember still more distinctly. I don't much like this tobacco. I should have concluded it to be. I'll rap you again mid me vist. I jumped up to examine the clock. I made up my mind to take a wife. I perceived the Angel of the Odd. I again nodded my head in assent. I am not at heart an antiquarian. I see--the balloon has collapsed. I have sinned--c'est vrai--but. I was rejoiced to see that of Mr. I paused for a reply--with which. I am not in any respect a genius. I was about fifteen years of age. I was a thankful boy in the main. I want the damages at a thousand. I wouldn't have put up with it. I met with a ray from the Future. I had seen on the evening before. I offer the sad history appended. I have a clear conscience myself. I just ripped out wid a big oath. I have known some very bad souls. I would have been such a--hiccup. I placed my head upon the pillow. I was convinced it was all right. I pacified Psyche and kissed her. I know I am shorn of my strength. I DWELT alone In a world of moan. I had better Follow his lordship. I gazed awhile On her cold smile. I am drunk with love Of the dead.

I beg you to take out of the tomb. I am not positive about the date). I found the medium I had imagined. I had indeed made a narrow escape. I admit the opinion of Copernicus. I not seen you for so long a time. I prepared to accompany the negro. I will remain with you a few days. I thought the blaze had caught it. I have described in the Frenchman. I mentioned to you how singularly. I will render the animal at least. I shall be sorry to part with him. I can understand from the Prefect. I could distinctly see the bottom. I heard the voice of an old Swede. I have it from the "Isitsoornot. I found myself at one time saying. I read it with profound attention. I would rather sleep more soundly. I were awake I should like to die. I wish you would explain yourself. I really knew little of my friend. I met the physician of the family. I endeavored to believe that much. I was fearful of losing a bargain. I perceive you have an engagement. I had fettered him to the granite. I have strayed through many a dim. I lost myself forthwith in revery. I emptied the vessel at a draught. I threw my straining vision below. I need not remind the reader that. I fell a prey to perpetual horror. I breathed the free air of Heaven. I continued in the same direction. I secretly felt that I feared him. I--shall I describe my sensations. I grew furious as I gazed upon it. I have told you that I am nervous. I had made an end of these labors. I asked myself the question aloud. I soon recovered from its effects. I determined to go at all hazards. I'd want you for to know better. I felt strangely confused in mind. I found after some little trouble. I could move first one of my legs. I prevailed upon them to lie down. I could say or do to the contrary. I thought the savage would go mad. I could not help feeling distrust. I sunk down with a bursting heart. I have graven it within the hills. I found the gentleness of breadth. I will content myself with saying. I felt assured was Madame Lalande. I am Napoleon Bonaparte Froissart. I rushed from the room in despair. I'll explain it all in a minute. I's to gouge out all their eyes. I remembered having been informed. I be talk apout vat I tink proper. I was too late for my appointment. I was too much exhausted to speak. I found it quite impossible to do. I engaged passage from Charleston. I saw him lash himself to the box. I have since found to be the case. I thought myself sure of my prize. I had all the sentiments of a dog. I am sure--at some public meeting. I say to all this--what _could_ I. I'll thank you now for that arm. I could not altogether comprehend. I turned my handsome person about. I never dabbled in flashy matters. I had to walk so much and so fast. I can force three crops in a year. I have never written a moral tale. I remonstrated--but to no purpose. I must be permitted to call queer. I ever know him to say after that. I bedewed his grave with my tears. I turned my head round afther her. I leaped out of bed in an ecstasy. I hold thy flower--enamelled shore. I love thee--love thee--love thee. I knew at the time You were wrong. I spoke to her of power and pride.

I felt in both my breeches pockets. I say the mean or average interval. I must consider my theory in fault. I had completed these arrangements. I immediately betook myself to bed. I aroused by my trusty chronometer. I slept until next morning soundly. I contracted an intimacy with a Mr. I got it from him the next morning. I am considered a good artist--and. I made my sketch of the scarabæus. I became perfectly certain of this. I considered all these particulars. I suggest nothing here as probable. I have no suspicion of this person. I feel as I have never felt before. I flung it far away into the ocean. I muttered a hurried prayer to God. I had been advised to study Cousin. I was in the dying man's chamber. I questioned the sleep-waker again. I made use of the customary passes. I rapidly made the mesmeric passes. I will not attempt to expound them. I had so much of my old heart left. I longed to destroy it with a blow. I aimed a blow at the animal which. I uplifted myself upon the pillows. I caught a glance of it in profile. I placed my hand upon his shoulder. I may explain to you why I am here. I repeat it--as thou _shouldst be_. I have therefore framed for myself. I had been reserved for the latter. I felt that it was of joy--of hope. I even went so far as to fear that. I could not summon courage to move. I felt my wrists for the bell-rope. I stopped to reconnoitre the scene. I can now in any manner experience. I will not now venture to describe. I busied myself in earnest inquiry. I ceased to think upon the subject. I soon found him of weak intellect. I hastened to prevent an intrusion. I undid the lantern cautiously--oh. I pondered upon their conformation. I shall tell of the earlier period. I prove traitorous to that promise. I thought only of them--and of her. I now boomed along before the wind. I have since had reason to believe. I had myself tied around his waist. I discovered it to be empty--Tiger. I was now in a high state of fever. I took the remains of the ham-skin. I succeeded beyond my expectations. I was so affected by their conduct. I had not noticed in him until now. I now assumed a different demeanor. I was indebted for my preservation. I now think of our egregious folly. I fastened this rope to the bushes. I to them devoutest of astrologers. I sat by the side of her ebony bed. I had regarded her thus enshrouded. I listened--in extremity of horror. I had never spoken to the daughter. I felt his hot breath upon my face. I dreamed would serve me no longer. I fell in with an immense populace. I became much attached at Calcutta. I entered a box at the P---Theatre. I traced the lady to her residence. I'm a man of my word--now be off. I am a day in advance of your time. I would be so kind as to come down. I threw up my hands and endeavored. I was very glad to get rid of them. I shall make upon your imagination. I am by no means naturally nervous. I could not pretend to be positive. I never heard a more fluent talker. I was exceedingly tempted to do so. I positively started at the change. I had capital blacking and brushes. I have already mentioned--the idea. I will equip you as ourang-outangs. I can only get a good look at them. I shall soon find out who they are. I had reason to be sorry afterward. I did not think it profound myself. I made sure that he would clear it. I don't care who the devil he is. I winked at her hard wid both eyes. I shud like to be tould who it was. I was observing a little while ago. I might have been a little nervous. I have already described it to you. I roamed with my Soul-- Of cypress. I said--"She is warmer than Dian. I journeyed--I journeyed down here. I have heard much of this Politian. I can not speak but with reverence. I ween But they have vanished long.

I was a child and _she_ was a child. I sauntered along the dusky streets. I proceeded to procure at intervals. I proceeded immediately to business. I afterward had time for reflection. I lay down in the bottom of the car. I was suddenly aroused from slumber. I could not see the vast difference. I still fell with horrible rapidity. I am sure you must see the antennæ. I noticed a scythe and three spades. I could scarcely refrain from tears. I placed the parchment in your hand. I held the vellum again to the fire. I am now called upon to make public. I might have adduced other examples. I might safely leave it where it is. I presume you smile at the sequitur. I speak of coincidences and no more. I mean the steel rod--not the vanes. I found the ship in fifteen fathoms. I glanced at the painting hurriedly. I mean the affair of the Rue Morgue. I presume you looked to the mirrors. I have no better advice to give you. I could do no more than I have done. I knew one about eight years of age. I fashion the expression of my face. I made the wild attempt you suggest. I had never let go of the ring-bolt. I secured myself in my new position. I could make out nothing distinctly. I presume that I conversed with him. I perceive external things directly. I was brought to think of my friend. I have alluded first occurred to me. I perceived a tremor about the lips. I neither expect nor solicit belief. I felt satisfied that all was right. I walked the cellar from end to end. I speak is a dreary region in Libya. I said to him--"My dear Fortunato. I followed immediately at his heels. I spoke with a distinct enunciation. I beheld her magical figure no more. I resumed my tour around the prison. I could not help supposing it to be. I surveyed the ceiling of my prison. I then saw confounded and amazed me. I once again struggled to cry aloud. I have called the gate of the vista. I not indeed been living in a dream. I demand the questions "Who is he. I looked in upon him while he slept. I kept quite still and said nothing. I resolved to open a little--a very. I saw that Berenice stood before me. I had no thoughts but for the teeth. I pass the barrier in Time's path. I owned a sailboat called the Ariel. I can hardly tell what possessed me. I would bring the watch to your box. I struggled forward by slow degrees. I immediately set about the attempt. I could in no manner account for it. I had as yet only examined his paws. I heard him moving among the lumber. I was seized with a violent tremour. I was still in the hold of the brig. I forced him to the vessel's side. I was completely beneath the vessel. I scarcely made a struggle for life. I could collect my scattered senses. I heard a deep groan just at my ear. I could overcome in no other manner. I have never been able to ascertain. I might have been easily aware that. I gazed day after day upon her holy. I had found it impossible to resist. I need say nothing farther about it. I cannot tell how to account for it. I shell have to x this ere paragrab. I might overtake him during the day. I will thank you to behave yourself. I will thank you to behave yourself. I PRESUME everybody has heard of me. I have long known how to appreciate. I am always led away by my feelings. I tore out a vast quantity of black. I had an appointment of consequence. I visited the ship (the fourteenth). I still retain a sense of propriety. I had afforded sufficient amusement. I should have entered more minutely. I am constitutionally nervous--this. I have a passion for fine shoulders. I thought you _knew_ all about _him. I did only a retail business myself. I allowed him a third of the profit. I saw that he must be "born again. I was obliged to follow him closely. I pulled aff me hat with a flourish. I could not have told from Menander. I being aged one year and one month. I to suppose by your permitting Tom. I shave and swallow a cup of coffee. I shudder at the notes Of the bells. I speak to him--he speaks of Lalage. I espied A snow-white mountain lamb. I wrapp'd myself in grandeur then.

I privately dug a hole two feet deep. I then filled up the remaining holes. I attained the height of fifty yards. I fell down in the bottom of the car. I thought only of preserving my life. I should discover it--that is to say. I discovered to my infinite surprise. I should not have been at all uneasy. I had at first so horribly conceived. I ventured to unscrew the tourniquet. I boosed in dat sabage kind ob style. I had made the drawing of the beetle. I saw my own sketch upon the reverse. I could not have failed to notice it. I have seen the captain face to face. I have received personal information. I can compare to nothing but thunder. I knew very well that we were doomed. I say that he will never be bodiless. I even offered her personal violence. I encountered on the way contributed. I did not feel at liberty to dispute. I did not differ from him materially. I am not more certain that I breathe. I knew my acquaintance to be wealthy. I call to mind flatness and dampness. I fell I had counted fifty-two paces. I put a portion of it within my lips. I struggled to perfect--to regain it. I saw that a vast number had changed. I would wish them to seek out for me. I grew perfectly sober in an instant. I make no apology for this behaviour. I had no doubt unwittingly placed it. I took the one offered me by Preston. I found myself within a strange city. I became intimate with the son of Mr. I was just about falling into a doze. I never was so astonished in my life. I distinctly felt the brig in motion. I gave up the search for the present. I now imagined that he was suffering. I lost sight of the glimmer entirely. I was enabled to draw near the light. I was aware of an exceedingly slight. I could not succeed in this directly. I had to pass directly over his body. I devoured with the greatest avidity. I thought would carry away the masts. I could not distinguish what he said. I then spoke to Peters and to Parker. I move my right arm in any direction. I could now contain myself no longer. I can cure thirty piculs by the fire. I scrambled one or two paces forward. I cannot forbear alluding to it here. I have relied altogether upon memory. I met the glance of her meaning eyes. I kept no reckoning of time or place. I stepped boldly and briskly forward. I gazed wonderingly for many minutes. I would be doing with an opera-glass. I decided upon escorting her thither. I asked him for a new copy of Horace. I would step with him into his study. I felt within me the divine afflatus. I'll let 'em know a thing or two. I was attended by one negro--servant. I thus formed the third of the party. I stood at the head of the staircase. I was aroused by the voice of Pompey. I felt in my pocket for my snuff-box. I still continued incapable of sight. I now considered it high time to die. I had thrown myself over a precipice. I let go my hold with the right hand. I considered as sufficiently settled. I had serious scruples of conscience. I looked at the passengers in masses. I discerned two remarkable divisions. I at length came within sight of him. I now felt an interest all-absorbing. I caught him gnawing a pack of cards. I forebore to intrude with my advice. I giv'd her a big wink jist to say. I was as wide awake as a man need be. I cannot enter into details just now. I lie down by the side Of my darling. I hear Politian was a melancholy man. I will not raise a hand Against thee.

I am so vain as to hope you will like. I also dug a hole three feet in depth. I drew up to my eyes each of my hands. I not justifiable in supposing with M. I at length discovered it to be blood. I anticipated nothing less than death. I could not help making anticipations. I can give you some idea of the shape. I am anxious to oblige you in any way. I got de lef eye now--here de lef eye. I dropped the obsolete word 'hostel. I see a vast hubbub in the hippodrome. I pledge you the honor of a gentleman. I should hold it not only as possible. I repeat that it is no more than fact. I watched it attentively until sunset. I will not fall to make the endeavour. I stood in the very midst of them all. I am perfectly willing to take advice. I ran at full speed up into the hills. I fell at full length upon the ground. I not--and very surely do I not dream. I am not more sure that my soul lives. I thus readily accounted to my reason. I scarcely knew what I uttered at all. I rushed to the chair in which he sat. I not heard her footstep on the stair. I hastened to make an end of my labor. I re-erected the old rampart of bones. I reflected upon my absolute security. I felt an icy chill creep to my heart. I cannot help preferring the Antinous. I felt that my senses were leaving me. I feared to look upon things horrible. I saw indistinctly and by much effort. I had fallen into an habitual see-saw. I was quickly and impetuously smitten. I occupied had no bedding of any kind. I saw that we were of the same height. I took my visitors all over the house. I have derived a type of unloveliness. I found myself sitting in the library. I used frequently to go home with him. I found that something had gone wrong. I contrived to raise him partially up. I bethought myself of the cold mutton. I endeavored to make my way toward it. I was at a loss what course to pursue. I now screamed at the top of my voice. I do not wish to omit them altogether. I never fancied any stationary object. I held out my hand with the splinters. I felt toward my poor fellow-creature. I saw them get springs upon the cable. I have been made aware of the feeling. I am compelled to consider a magnetic. I had observed that she recognized me. I will place it upon my-- upon my nose. I will place it upon my--upon my nose. I gave it a pull or two upon the spot. I could not be sure that she was sane. I am that very Signora Psyche Zenobia. I resolved to clamber up to this hole. I behold--is that the departed spirit. I caught a glimpse of his countenance. I even to hint at half the variations. I am not to be insulted with impunity. I shall be doubly dammed--voilà tout. I implore you to put back for the box. I gave my lady a pat on the one cheek. I started to the extremity of the pew. I well remember that my first thought. I procured a stiff piece of whalebone. I who told Aristotle that by sneezing. I purchase my spirits vivente corpore. I am exceedingly fond of Welsh rabbit. I merely wished to ask you a question. I have found that whatever it lost me. I saw thee once--once only--years ago. I must not say how many--but not many. I not grasp Them with a tighter clasp. I will kneel to thee And worship thee. I do remember it--what of it--what then. I was walking with the Count San Ozzo. I demanded of a scholar some time ago. I Thy world has not the dross of ours. I bade the dream Upon thy spirit flee.

I afterward carefully examined my head. I say it may be readily conceived that. I threw him downward with all my force. I should meet the surface of the earth. I had now every reason to be terrified. I determined to endure as I best could. I was coming home I met Lieutenant G--. I will send Jup down for it at sunrise. I hesitate to believe that the phrases. I merely wish you to bear in mind that. I have just given--because here it was. I stepped to the unobstructed casement. I halloed to him with all my strength. I again looked fixedly at the painting. I glanced at its face by the moonlight. I saw our exact position in an instant. I had never perfectly succeeded before. I had little thought of succeeding now. I must perish in this deplorable folly. I hold to be the most wonderful of all. I was returning home from the Piazzetta. I shuddered because no sound succeeded. I was consumed with intolerable thirst. I felt that the struggle would be over. I neither hoped nor desired it to stop. I mean it as synonymous with happiness. I am sorry to confess it) little faith. I had determined to stop for the night. I have found the perfection of natural. I shall be pardoned for seeking relief. I considered his intolerable arrogance. I had little time given for reflection. I had given myself up entirely to wine. I could see him as he lay upon his bed. I then replaced the boards so cleverly. I talked more quickly--more vehemently. I feared I should not be able to write. I had a relation living in New Bedford. I had eaten just before going to sleep. I at last found myself partially awake. I placed the paper on a book as before. I threw myself again upon the mattress. I could not make out all that was said. I would summon up what spirits I could. I could convince Parker of his mistake. I have no doubt that to this expedient. I then drew him up for about four feet. I let go at once my grasp upon the peg. I knew not what to think of his apathy. I peered into the large eyes of Ligeia. I was but as a child groping benighted. I made an end of these lines--"O God. I could no longer hide it from my soul. I casually made the acquaintance of Mr. I could obtain no satisfactory account. I first became acquainted with the two. I bathed my hands and my head and neck. I had been suddenly converted to stone. I was forced to take Talbot's advice. I continued to watch her unremittingly. I was greatly and immediately relieved. I stood petrified with horror and rage. I had the supreme bliss of meeting her. I had inquired for Talbot at his hotel. I would find stowageroom for it myself. I'll--why I'll oblige you for once. I should enter into some account of it. I knew that Pompey was beneath my feet. I made an endeavor to hand her a chair. I have never yet been able to find out. I find it incumbent upon me to request. I was accosted by the Angel of the Odd. I was arrested by the cry of the Angel. I should have in drawing off my gloves. I dismissed my curiosity for the nonce. I was going from my hotel to the wharf. I discovered that I had lost my breath. I alit upon my feet within the vehicle. I should be interred in a public vault. I failed to take the fullest advantage. I swallowed some very capital articles. I felt it a duty to go that same night. I went to work in it with a good heart. I mean it as synonymous with happiness. I believe the world has never yet seen. I understand not what you hinted to me. I know him by the bleating of his lips. I had fully satisfied him on this head. I wore a pair of caoutchouc over-shoes. I kicked him--he called for the police. I would have won for the Arch-Enemy Mr. I ever came across in all my born days. I'm going to give you the good rason. I have his agreement in my pocket-book. I found a very eager company assembled. I could not help observing that (owing. I hold that a long poem does not exist. I make Beauty the province of the poem. I heard not any voice except thine own. I will think of it--I will not send it. I do devote thee In the name of Lalage. I always thought The Earl a gloomy man. I'd throw me on her throbbing breast. I could dwell Where Israfel Hath dwelt.

I gave her what little money I had left. I saw nothing but the ocean and the sky. I now unpacked the condensing apparatus. I refastened the loops--not to the hoop. I assumed the cryptograph to be English. I almost envy you the possession of him. I doubt if there were not a dozen gangs. I experienced neither very intense cold. I have never given the matter a thought. I only trust that Allah will forgive me. I could not make him hear a single word. I think there can be no manner of doubt. I spoke to him frankly upon the subject. I found myself was very large and lofty. I lack words to express the full extent. I turned and looked again upon the rock. I will not impose upon your good nature. I took from their sconces two flambeaux. I pondered upon the means of the murder. I have been at some trouble to explain). I felt then the consummation of my fate. I once more relapsed into insensibility. I trembled at the sound of my own voice. I could see into the innermost recesses. I rapped with my stick against the door. I would submit no longer to be enslaved. I uttered seemed as new fuel to my fury. I would quit forever its happy recesses. I felt the greatest desire to go to sea. I was ashamed to betray any trepidation. I summoned up the resolution of despair. I should keep out of the way until dark. I found that it led into the after hold. I could have neither stirred nor spoken. I endeavored in vain to call it to mind. I was relieved by the sagacity of Tiger. I expostulated with him for a long time. I had acquired much influence over him). I should never have conceived of myself. I cannot now bring these points to mind. I have spoken of the learning of Ligeia. I bent to them my ear and distinguished. I held to the lips of the fainting lady. I shuddered at its too perfect identity. I saw--I felt--I knew that I was deeply. I beheld the entire profile of the face. I resolved to act with a manly decision. I sacrifice every feeling for your sake. I sacrifice every feeling for your sake. I will endeavor to delineate one by one. I am--that is to say I was--a great man. I had never visited a place of the kind. I can give you some veal a la Menehoult. I am forced to acknowledge my ignorance. I had all along been sufficiently aware. I had brought with me from Philadelphia. I called upon Ritzner with this epistle. I felt too drowsy to take out my watch). I write altogether for my own amusement. I here take the liberty of recommending. I soon took great pleasure in observing. I made several attempts at conversation. I did not in the least scruple to seize. I stood upon the principle of the thing. I left at once the employment of Messrs. I repeat that in landscape arrangements. I walk through the valley of the Shadow. I fancy it was the parrot at the window. I begin to see who these people are now. I followed him in the wildest amazement. I persist in my pursuit of the stranger. I found myself lauding his wicked jokes. I was not immediately prepared to reply. I addressed him with those simple words. I have never yet been able to ascertain. I wish I may be drownthed dead in a bog. I entered its examination was commenced. I allude to the heresy of _The Didactic. I remember it was in the bleak December. I saw but them-- saw only them for hours. I not save _One_ from the pitiless wave.

I internally vowed the bitterest revenge. I would make no difficulty in disclosing. I intended to do with all this apparatus. I will mention them more fully hereafter. I not discharged the ballast which I did. I had now ascended to so vast a distance. I did n't like de look oh de bug mouff. I don't blieve 'tis more dan he know. I was in the very act of crumpling it up. I have said that the scrap was parchment. I pitied him from the bottom of my heart. I shall say nothing more upon this point. I waited for some explanation from Dupin. I found the ship quivering to its centre. I take to be only one remove from a fool. I have read something of the kind before. I involuntarily closed my eyes in horror. I entered the Gothic archway of the hall. I had taken but few turns in this manner. I even welcomed his presence as a relief. I resumed the narrative of Sir Launcelot. I found myself crossing the old causeway. I lay close within shelter of the lilies. I looked upon the characters of the rock. I suffered him to hurry me to my palazzo. I might doze as I contemplated the scene. I might have construed into a compliment. I saw the lips of the black-robed judges. I saw them writhe with a deadly locution. I suffered it to remain for many minutes. I had avoided by the merest of accidents. I gasped and struggled at each vibration. I shrunk convulsively at its every sweep. I perceived the loosening of the bandage. I was subjected haunted me day and night. I was seized and shaken without ceremony. I thought upon other subjects than Death. I knew it was the groan of mortal terror. I had directed the ray as if by instinct. I have followed the Prince's statement. I extinguished the light with great care. I was again awakened in a similar manner. I ever forget my feelings at this moment. I had in some degree satisfied my thirst. I have spoken of the stowage of the brig. I at length completely came to my senses. I was suddenly called to my recollection. I was destined to be at length encircled. I endeavored to banish these reflections. I sunk into visions of Ligeia--and again. I had long ceased to struggle or to move. I should be precipitated into some abyss. I could not be mistaken in its character. I at once saw was of extraordinary value. I kept my eyes riveted on Madame Lalande. I know not how adequately to describe it. I did by the powerful aid of the glasses. I wish I may be everlastingly confounded. I inquired--"one of your own invention. I will seek out their writings forthwith. I see you are a pupil after my own heart. I felt they would be entirely sufficient. I had two humble but faithful companions. I told him so in a speech of some length. I threw myself headlong into the current. I pumped for them with much perseverance. I thus learned the following particulars. I then concluded to be totally destroyed. I never beheld them in perfection before. I was no sooner seated at the card-table. I was not in the best humor in the world. I have the greatest pleasure in so doing. I was making money at this business when. I was now utterly amazed at his behavior. I addressed myself to the task forthwith. I was after the squazing of her flipper. I would not enfeeble them by dissipation. I allude to his lines beginning--"Come. I Have sought it oft where it should lie. I will not fight thee-- indeed I dare not. I say that dream was fraught With a wild. I would control As a spell upon his soul.

I resided at the time of my disappearance. I found the balloon sufficiently inflated. I had lost neither ballast nor provisions. I still ascended with sufficient rapidity. I as yet suffered no bodily inconvenience. I have no doubt he reached home in safety. I even been able to place a window at top. I became strongly impressed with the idea. I must wait until I see the beetle itself. I now stepped into the boat and made sail. I had charge of a couple of dark lanterns. I accordingly went over to the plantation. I offered to pay her well for her trouble. I am no more able to answer than yourself. I do not hesitate to say that I am amazed. I certainly expected that you would do so. I proceeded to think thus--_a posteriori_. I gently raised the sash for a few inches. I see that no animal but an Ourang-Outang. I quote a passage or two from its columns. I fear that I shall never see Marie again. I have not slept since quitting Wheal-Vor. I mean the habit of referring occurrences. I merely laughed at his last observations. I protracted my visit as long as possible. I act as a partisan of the lady concerned. I succeeded so well in this endeavor that. I was enabled to converse with it readily. I thanked the man-animal for its kindness. I felt the sickening sweep of the descent. I was able to obtain an unobstructed view. I do not in the slightest degree question. I mean the unparticled or ultimate matter. I delight to have allayed your suspicions. I rode over a short causeway to the house. I began to grope with it about the recess. I forced the last stone into its position. I arrested myself in the act of murmuring. I felt a maddening desire to shriek aloud. I have seen none more classically regular. I found myself accordingly at his Palazzo. I had always deemed them--but yet strange. I began my tour with the wall to the left. I saw several enormous rats traversing it. I might find myself the tenant of a grave. I select for record but a solitary vision. I was left to the guidance of my own will. I scrupulously concealed such disturbance. I stepped up to it in extremity of terror. I might not disturb the old man's sleep. I removed the bed and examined the corpse. I went down to open it with a light heart. I have been at some trouble in explaining. I again looked at the speaker attentively. I had examined only one side of the paper. I fail in the one I was now about to make. I suffered a great deal from sea-sickness. I found that my legs failed me altogether. I advised them to chew it and spit it out. I felt my knees strike violently together. I threw my vision far down into the abyss. I revelled in recollections of her purity. I stepped beneath the light of the censer. I had seen the faint traces of the shadow. I remained gazing upon the body of Rowena. I amused myself by observing the audience. I see the sun rise one hour before you do. I now began to feel my way in the science. I don't speak of the political articles. I will not describe the city of Edinburgh. I have received your note of this evening. I had been reading Glover's "Leonidas. I entertained feelings of warm friendship. I sauntered with him backward and forward. I left the Misses Cognoscenti immediately. I saw the fat lady blush and whisper to G. I know not what of agitation and mistrust. I was almost seriously disposed to defend. I have never been quite able to determine. I have some faint notion of what you mean. I presume to interrupt you for one moment. I am somewhat at a loss to comprehend you. I spoke of our gigantic mechanical forces. I saw but them--they were the world to me. I firmly do believe-- I _know_--for Death. I mourn not that the desolate Are happier.

I lay the whole night buried in meditation. I had so well secured them in their places. I lay still for about a quarter of an hour. I had been wrong in supposing this density. I do n't tink noffin about it--I nose it. I found no paper where it was usually kept. I hope that I am right in this supposition. I will make a clean breast if I die for it. I have imagined to paralyze the single man. I have thought proper to premise thus much. I find it impossible to maintain a footing. I can open any chamber or cabinet in Paris. I had ever known the good gentleman before. I allude won all the marbles of the school. I thought it a pity not to give him a clue. I never had an opportunity of ascertaining. I found myself on the surface of the ocean. I see--but it is a thing difficult to tell. I mean that it resembles the ultimate life. I think they have hit the time very nearly. I proceeded without hesitation--exchanging. I fancied that the cat avoided my presence. I had inflicted upon the unoffending brute. I resigned myself thenceforward to despair. I presently recognised it as that of Usher. I might read the characters upon the stone. I passed down a long and winding staircase. I replied to the yells of him who clamored. I experienced all the pangs of suffocation. I should be impeded by the walls of a tomb. I succeeded in dislodging a small fragment. I fancy that I have seen refuted the dogma. I felt angry with him for bearing the name. I feel that a shadow gathers over my brain. I stayed at his school until I was sixteen. I discovered it to be a solid mass of iron. I had then been in the hold for three days. I had brought with me the two pump-handles. I regained the partial use of my right arm. I now experienced was nearly insupportable. I succeeded in bringing up two case-knives. I advanced to the region of the forecastle. I reached the side of the vessel in safety. I was afraid he would expire upon the spot. I spoke to Captain Guy of my apprehensions. I was possessed with a passion to discover. I saw not then what I now clearly perceive. I betook myself to the task of restoration. I could perceive its every nook and corner. I have been a devoted admirer of the women. I bethought me of applying to my companion. I observed my opportunity and accosted her. I had better remain unobserved where I was. I wear this dear eye-glass as an eye-glass. I was entirely ignorant of their notoriety. I remember it very well--very queer indeed. I beg a thousand pardons for the suspicion. I have heard so much is no longer in force. I will be happy to take you over the house. I supposed to be the "monstrum horrendum. I will just help myself to some of the ham. I really could have wept for the poor lady. I like to be particular) and about seventy. I pulled back at once--but it was too late. I was aroused to a sense of exquisite pain. I could hear but indistinctly without ears. I even fancied that I had misconceived him. I see--I thought you had been home with it. I may be permitted to testify my gratitude. I gave the matter no further consideration. I know not how the entanglement took place. I could not help feeling deeply interested. I considered a pointed and positive insult. I can recommend you to him with confidence. I was making more noise than was necessary. I found myself driving a flourishing trade. I never met with any attempt at imposition. I had to make up my packet of sham letters. I washed my hands of the matter in disgust. I repeat that the principle here expressed. I still dully felt that you sat by my side. I saw a strong shudder come over his frame. I suggested--"the gentleman says 'ahem. I made light o' the matter and kipt dark. I may as well take this occasion to remark. I regret that I am unable to remember them. I replied--"This is nothing but dreaming. I would have thee drop Thy riotous company. I done aught To grieve thee or to vex thee. I will shake off that nature Which from my. I love a sheep from the bottom of my heart.

I propose to lecture at the Society Library. I thought it high time to take my departure. I had therefore every reason to be grateful. I had lost about half a moderate basin full. I determined upon giving them their liberty. I cut loose from the balloon the car itself. I may say that it is a very excellent skull. I there became acquainted with a Monsieur C. I saw you were still thinking of the stones. I readily discovered and pressed the spring. I am wrong in my induction from this ribbon. I do not feel myself at liberty to disclose. I fear futurity itself will offer me no key. I first trod the deck of this terrible ship. I have had long experience in these affairs. I speak has come in the shape of a crotchet. I was rather surprised to hear him say that. I cannot deny that there has always existed. I cannot hold out beyond to-morrow midnight. I took from my waistcoat-pocket a pen-knife. I felt it had given me no reason of offence. I was aroused from sleep by the cry of fire. I looked upon my future felicity as secured. I had walled the monster up within the tomb. I could but partially perceive his features. I walked through the morass of water-lilies. I went down into the recesses of the morass. I heard the furious vibrations of the chain. I need not vex you with impertinent details. I was accustomed to revel in this sentiment. I had murdered--and beckoned me on to death. I chanced upon a certain rivulet and island. I came upon them suddenly in the leafy June. I have no right to be merry at your expense. I discovered a passage underlined in pencil. I saw them fashion the syllables of my name. I saw that from them there would be no help. I still continued to step cautiously onward. I dared not go farther than this reflection. I have spoken of two openings into the vale. I had wandered from the road to the village. I had worn was of a rare description of fur. I felt a light hand placed upon my shoulder. I called to mind that she had loved me long. I mused upon the alteration in their nature. I mistrust the perfect sanity of the record. I let him go in the extremity of my despair. I recovered some degree of presence of mind. I was then to report myself to my companion. I left the house for the New Bedford packet. I had exactly resumed my original situation. I thought he was upon the point of swooning. I considered a sure prospect of deliverance. I communicated this object to my companions. I find that the same ground was traced over. I then remained motionless for some moments. I soon found that what he said was too true. I would have soothed--I would have reasoned. I saw that there lay upon the golden carpet. I experienced a deep sentiment of animosity. I looked inquisitively at Monsieur Maillard. I had expected more resolution at his hands. I have been assured that the finest writing. I assented to a proposition so very obvious. I fully succeeded in my arduous undertaking. I left instructions with her to that effect. I merely regarded him with an imploring air. I confess that I felt indescribably puzzled. I speak could bona fide and actually happen. I really believe you don't know me at all. I scarcely hope to be believed when I state. I did not reply to their absurd proposition. I was now out of employment for some months. I was thus occupied in scrutinizing the mob. I had done all that could be required of me. I may see whether you go over it handsomely. I concluded that his feelings had been hurt. I must not be understood to speak literally. I plumped on the left side of her leddyship. I wheeled a cushioned seat in front of bird. I betook myself to linking Fancy unto fancy. I feel thou art not gone--yet dare not look. I met with this idea in an old English tale. I was ambitious--have you known The passion.

I partially recovered the sense of existence. I was neither astonished nor horror-stricken. I was still too stupid to be anything at all. I gazed afar down within the yawning abysses. I suffered no pain or uneasiness of any kind. I came suddenly into still noonday solitudes. I at length hit upon the following expedient. I now lamented that my great elevation would. I again saw the line of ice to the northward. I should have no opportunity of observing it. I still continued in the plane of the elipse. I finally threw open the gum-elastic chamber. I propose to speak more at length here-after. I would n't take hold ob him wid my finger. I cotch him wid a piece ob paper dat I found. I saw you I have had great cause for anxiety. I had completed my examination of the beetle. I began to hope that the farce was at an end. I was too much amazed to think with accuracy. I had completed the drawing I gave it to you. I stared at the speaker in mute astonishment. I will tell you all I know about this affair. I mean the way he has ' _de nier ce qui est. I have not the slightest fear for the result. I thought nothing could defer beyond an hour. I have been guilty of certain doggrel myself. I saw nothing to excite particular suspicion. I screamed at the top of my voice in his ear. I drew nearer and nearer to my dreadful doom. I had propounded to him a few minutes before. I made an endeavor to re-compose the patient. I made no scruple of maltreating the rabbits. I very carefully went over the new brickwork. I again uplifted my eyes to the house itself. I gazed upon him with a feeling half of pity. I was skilful in the Italian vintages myself. I knew my victim's habit of reading in bed. I had no means of ascertaining at the moment. I could arrest here the descent of the steel. I have broken the fastenings above the elbow. I had but escaped death in one form of agony. I dismissed forever my charnel apprehensions. I did not hit upon the village before sunset. I remained standing on the brow of the slope. I was never able to ascertain with precision. I perceived my own already hanging on my arm. I habitually regarded the elevated character. I had made an opening sufficient for my head. I cut off the head and the arms and the legs. I could only hope for belief among my family. I knew little about the management of a boat. I could in my chilled and agitated condition. I concluded that he had received some injury. I had none--nor had I slept during that time. I had every cause to expect a speedy release. I did not see Augustus for about three hours. I could hear distinctly from my hiding-place. I fell into a state of partial insensibility. I suddenly discovered a sail to the eastward. I jumped into the hole by the side of Peters. I had no lack of what the world calls wealth. I stirred not--but gazed upon the apparition. I never spoke of passion nor thought of love. I had ever before seen teeth in a human head. I bent my steps immediately to the mountains. I was in a condition little short of madness. I immediately picked up and presented to her. I have yielded to your passionate entreaties. I'm all soul) and sometimes "a butterfly. I strolled forth in the goodly city of Edina. I called Pompey's attention to the subject. I had no relief to expect from my associates. I say that it bore resemblance to the fervid. I am not to be bothered by any similar query. I shall want some silver for the Post Office. I had sipped served to embolden me no little. I assure you that I do not exaggerate at all. I avoided him during the rest of the passage. I could not be properly said to sleep at all. I was attracted by certain singular cautious. I happened to meet Captain Hardy in Broadway. I never heard a clearer nor a stronger voice. I ever heard in all the days of my existence. I had noticed upon our original introduction. I suffered no one to play the possum with me. I mean to say that the Deity does not create. I threw myself passionately back in my chair. I am endeavoring to think of something novel. I am the most distinguished of ecclesiastics. I have permission to unswathe it and open it. I should have been without bowels and brains. I tremble like one who stands upon a volcano. I would awake To the terror of the lone lake.

I devoted every spare moment to their perusal. I was also agreeably surprised to find myself. I had in consequence nothing better to expect. I have not been quite well for some days past. I was pondering upon what was best to be done. I pass ten minutes of more intense excitement. I had already established a kind of connexion. I had put together two links of a great chain. I perceive we have arrived at the city itself. I avoid claiming a property of so great value. I regard the project as thoroughly successful. I became acquainted with the maps of Mercator. I could in no manner understand what was said. I should not have recognised the place at all. I attracted my brother's attention by signs. I told them my story--they did not believe it. I consented of course to make this experiment. I had put him to sleep with little difficulty. I have been sleeping--and now--now--I am dead. I experienced the full power of such feelings. I given Fortunato cause to doubt my good will. I broke and reached him a flagon of De Grâve. I could scarcely get rid of it for an instant. I saw that the decrees of what to me was Fate. I strove to imagine where and what I could be. I resolved to cross the area of the enclosure. I had taken for masonry seemed now to be iron. I counted the rushing vibrations of the steel. I had not counted in vain upon their voracity. I have no name in the regions which I inhabit. I had thrown a cloak over my dressing wrapper. I found that the noise was not within my ears. I should ever broach the subject to him again. I could not dwell with any degree of patience. I was smothered to death between huge pillows. I felt a strong vibration in the side next me. I pressed it with somewhat more determination. I then invariably found him lying on his back. I was wondering how they came in such a place. I despaired of deriving any service from them. I could not endure the thought of killing him. I made a movement toward the mouth of the box. I perceived a large brig bearing down upon us. I continued to chew pieces of it at intervals. I forbore to tell them of her for the present. I dwell upon the appalling scene which ensued. I could not help thinking some of it affected. I was to know something more of these islands. I thought it fishy and otherwise disagreeable. I found that Peters and Allen had followed me. I had luckily with me a pocketbook and pencil. I saw--distinctly saw--a tremor upon the lips. I chafed and bathed the temples and the hands. I found food for consuming thought and horror. I found myself at the foot of a high mountain. I am forced to class it among other phenomena. I at length caught the eyes of Madame Lalande. I now resolved to make it avail me to the end. I had been in the habit of watching her house. I was thus deprived of the pleasure of seeing. I was born somewhere in the city of Fum-Fudge. I approached the artist and turned up my nose. I thought the opportunity too good to be lost. I have heard has been at third or fourth hand. I am not particularly partial to veal a la St. I will have none of their rabbit au-chat--and. I cannot help agreeing with Monsieur Maillard. I had no wish to put an end to the conference. I must look you out a little specimen of each. I perceive sitting with a grace so melancholy. I know I can trust you--and of advertising it. I seized a salt-cellar which lay within reach. I to my wife on the morning after our wedding. I applied my thumb and forefinger to its nose. I acknowledged his kindness in my best manner. I got to be well known as a man to be trusted. I was often present at Toby's chastisements. I mean to say any thing against his character. I threw open an adjacent window of the bridge. I knew very well that I had hould of her hand. I turned round to the little Frinch furrenner. I am little more than seven hundred years old. I am about to read is from his last long poem. I do abhor The unsatisfactory and ideal thing. I hesitated to insert from the 'Minor Poems.

I repaired eagerly to the bookseller's stall. I deposited a canister containing fifty pounds. I now proceeded to untie the knot of my cravat. I would have to deduct the radius of the earth. I could catch my breath only at long intervals. I could feed them at any moment when necessary. I had again lost sight of land to the eastward. I was falling--falling with the most impetuous. I now scrutinized the death's-head with care. I believe you are as well acquainted as myself. I mean the line Perdidit antiquum litera sonum. I saw you draw yourself up to your full height. I had traced the secret to its ultimate result. I lose it through idle apprehensions of danger. I have said above upon this topic must suffice. I made my way unperceived to the main hatchway. I have been looking at the timbers of the ship. I do not remember that I ever beheld him again. I then endured have broken me up body and soul. I suppose it was despair that strung my nerves. I am pleased in being able to state positively. I was awake I knew what you meant by "spirit. I requested the gentlemen present to examine M. I soon found a dislike to it arising within me. I was answered by a voice from within the tomb. I felt that I breathed an atmosphere of sorrow. I cursed the elements with the curse of tumult. I ceased my labors and sat down upon the bones. I placed it partially in its destined position. I was half stifled by their thronging pressure. I took notice that to my right as I stepped in. I opened it--you cannot imagine how stealthily. I talked more freely to get rid of the feeling. I had an affection far more ardent than common. I pushed it strongly--it was nevertheless firm. I had covered the paper in my previous attempt. I could endure my terrible situation no longer. I now crawled with great caution toward Parker. I cut off a small portion of the leather trunk. I would not hesitate to throw him into the sea. I had anticipated (a breeze rapidly coming in). I knew not whether it was for me or against me. I was so much startled that I could do nothing. I should have been precipitated into the abyss. I first became acquainted with the lady Ligeia. I would in vain attempt to portray the majesty. I groaned in anguish at the pitiable spectacle. I was about turning my eyes to the prima donna. I stepped into B--'s and inquired for Talbot. I shall have no difficulty in smuggling you in. I could not help perceiving were of high value. I could not refrain from stepping into a hotel. I had lived with the old gentleman all my life. I resolved to be guided by the paternal advice. I had personal knowledge of the superintendent. I thought it better to let our society have it. I speak I was habited in a crimson satin dress. I truly think that no person at the university. I am about to leave the country for some years. I com'd here for to let you zee for yourzself. I knelt at her feet in gratitude and adoration. I found it about four o'clock in the morning. I rather think it was a ringing in my own ears. I accordingly thought proper to model my reply. I felt sure of satisfying my curiosity at once. I succeeded perfectly well at the first effort. I was now forced to adventure for a livelihood. I could adopt was to alter my line of business. I cannot tell what was the association of idea. I had never before been in a similar situation. I observed that it was then past two o'clock. I am convinced that every thing is going wrong. I most cherished Deserved to be dearest of all. I move As I lie at full length-- But no matter. I should remember well-- The sun-ray dropp'd.

I then took opportunities of conveying by night. I threw out from the car a quantity of feathers. I had put the cat and kittens in a small basket. I found the balloon at an immense height indeed. I hailed it as a happy omen of ultimate success. I even been awake at the time of the occurrence. I have much to say of the climate of the planet. I'm feared--'twas de berry day you was dare. I will tell you which way to go--and here--stop. I had become most unaccountably interested--nay. I seemed to grasp the full secret of the riddle. I was permitted to be at the expense of renting. I do believe that she is invariably superficial. I shall gain more time than in any other manner. I speak of these things only as of coincidences. I shall from time to time continue this Journal. I had ventured upon deck and thrown myself down. I have been all my life a dealer in antiquities. I had an object apart from these considerations. I attributed to its having been recently spread. I had not sooner perceived the object thereupon. I mention not so much on account of its novelty. I beheld him gazing upon vacancy for long hours. I tell you that she now stands without the door. I dreaded the first glance at objects around me. I brought to mind the inquisitorial proceedings. I could form no guess at the shape of the vault. I had nearly performed the circuit of the vault. I was enraptured he rejected without hesitation. I would fain have them believe that I have been. I could not bring myself to hate him altogether. I say that I felt all the horrors of the damned. I not bitter cause to curse him within my heart. I was hurrying to make my way into her presence. I could scarcely contain my feelings of triumph. I felt myself getting pale and wished them gone. I paced the floor to and fro with heavy strides. I swung the chair upon which I had been sitting. I did not make up my mind to do as he suggested. I at length breathed a faint ejaculation to God. I had nothing but death to expect as the result. I should undoubtedly have fallen upon some plan. I say that it was found to be full of port wine. I could find means in any manner to prevent him. I found myself about twenty yards from the hulk. I took from my coat-pocket a white handkerchief. I should institute no inquiries upon this point. I deserved to be so blessed by such confessions. I could not hear--of motions which she then saw. I cannot conceal it from my own perception that. I was reduced to an absolute groping of the way. I wiped them carefully with a silk handkerchief. I dashed the spectacles violently to the ground. I behaved in the absurd manner already detailed. I have said already that he had his weak points. I sail from this position a thousand miles east. I can't never set up nothing without no o's. I do not wish to spoil your appetite for dinner. I do not find that it altogether agrees with me. I can only observe that it is a pity he was not. I never heard of any thing so absurd in my life. I am never sure when he is telling me the truth. I thought the staircase would never have an end. I fancied that it stood on end with indignation. I give you the tobacco for the brandy and water. I betook myself to a stray newspaper in despair. I cannot pretend to recount all that he told me. I found that he had engaged passage for himself. I confess that I was very profoundly astonished. I could determine when he removed it altogether. I pirouetted out of the room in a Pas de Zephyr. I remained for some time absorbed in meditation. I cast a glance of contempt at the belligerents. I was not only pleased but _really_--instructed. I would call forthwith upon the General himself. I couldn't stand--so we quarrelled and parted. I described the monster (which I distinctly saw. I became seriously alarmed for the consequences. I--although this sounded very much like an oath. I had a chance to make any profound reflections. I believe there is nothing more to be explained. I do not mean to insinuate a charge of gluttony. I liked him as much for his terrible ill temper. I never tasted but one--that rascal Hippocrates. I perceive--a deplorable condition of ignorance. I use the word 'animal' in its widest sense. I had ventured to address him a direct question. I implore-- Is there--_is_ there balm in Gilead. I stand amid the roar Of a surf-tormented shore. I can not write-I can not speak or think-- Alas. I feel to be false--the less poetical the critic. I am now unable to obtain and quote from memory.

I remained in this state it is impossible to say. I succeeded in satisfying myself that it was not. I remained wrapped in the profoundest meditation. I had prepared a very strong perfectly air-tight. I repent the negligence or rather fool-hardiness. I soon began to reap the benefit of my invention. I now determined to keep a journal of my passage. I fastened another shelf--but made of thin plank. I was evidently approaching the surface below me. I am to form any idea of its personal appearance. I handed him the paper without additional remark. I had comparatively little difficulty in solving. I should have considered the solution as assured. I was not particularly attentive to what you did. I was aware that you could not have forgotten it. I interrupted your meditations to remark that as. I have drawn your attention--that peculiar voice. I gave a willing assent to this bold proposition. I now saw aright I could not and would not doubt. I was at some pains in detailing to you just now. I positively felt a _wish_ to explore its depths. I at once offered to purchase it of the landlord. I came to look upon it with unutterable loathing. I should be at a loss how otherwise to define it. I knew that I could not remove it from the house. I now proposed to myself a sojourn of some weeks. I might hearken to it with the more satisfaction. I WAS sick--sick unto death with that long agony. I had not counted upon the extent of the dungeon. I had fallen at the very brink of a circular pit. I cannot rest for the cry of these great agonies. I entered into a series of elaborate precautions. I feel that I am not awaking from ordinary sleep. I had turned to the right as I entered this road. I had nearly said for the pity--of my fellow men. I there so immediately and so recklessly plunged. I could recover the use of my senses he was gone. I averted my eyes had been sufficient to produce. I could bear those hypocritical smiles no longer. I threw myself hurriedly at the feet of Eleonora. I busied myself ostensibly with my usual studies. I determined to make my mind as easy as possible. I resolved to wait yet another twenty-four hours. I placed the slip of paper on the back of a book. I expected every instant that he would attack me. I perceived by the altered position of his eyes). I had been forced to drop the morsel of ham-skin. I am more inclined to wonder that I awoke at all. I contrived a comfortable bed in my hiding-place. I proceeded to equip myself with a false stomach. I had then ever known broke right on board of us. I relate these things and circumstances minutely. I obtained from them a promise to wait thus long. I now unfastened the handkerchiefs from the bush. I never knew it to be spelt otherwise in my life. I was fully conscious of my rudeness in so doing. I concealed nothing--nothing even of my weakness. I applied them gingerly in their proper position. I think it only makes the matter more remarkable. I spect he's gone and cabbaged 'em every one. I presume a counter-revolution was soon effected. I may as well call your attention to a few cases. I assured him I had an excellent pair of garters. I have neither temper nor time for specification. I undertook the siege of a less implacable heart. I will go and ask Pundit and be back in a minute. I trust he will remember to the day of his death. I really am ashamed of you--man of great courage. I don't know that I should have gone even then. I will just copy a page or so out of my Day-Book. I could anticipate no regeneration save in death. I designated minutely the course of the creature. I watched these gentry with much inquisitiveness. I found darker and deeper themes for speculation. I would not venture to try that experiment again. I was thinking how I should answer this question. I asked what was the name of the usurping tyrant. I regard him as the noblest poet that ever lived. I have drank of a water That quenches all thirst. I should let it be Light in the wilderness alone.

I thought sufficient for the execution of my plan. I directed my wife to make up as soon as possible. I can become a party to no such absurd proceeding. I became seriously anxious about getting him home. I was heated with exercise and sat near the table. I mean for the _outré_ character of its features. I suppose you have called about the Ourang-Outang. I not stand aghast at a warring of wind and ocean. I wished all this done that I might resign myself. I replaced the candelabrum in its former position. I prepared myself with a pair of green spectacles. I think them exceedingly entertaining and strange. I have spoken both of "sound" and of "voice. I should attempt to influence the patient's arm. I could not rid myself of the phantasm of the cat. I went so far as to regret the loss of the animal. I may say an _excellently_ well constructed house. I bring to mind the circumstances of that meeting. I grew aghast lest there should be nothing to see. I found beside me a loaf and a pitcher with water. I dropped my head back into its original position. I could not appreciate distinctly--it was obvious. I recollect that I have been subject to catalepsy. I believe that the world has never seen--and that. I was fastidious to an absurd degree of coxcombry. I heard all things in the heaven and in the earth. I made up my mind to take the life of the old man. I threw open the lantern and leaped into the room. I knew her not--or knew her no longer as Berenice. I--not for worlds could I have uttered a syllable. I could not help being interested in what he said. I fell in spite of every exertion to the contrary. I found it nearly impossible to connect any ideas. I should infallibly lose my way if I attempted it. I slept soundly and sweetly until nearly daybreak. I regained my hiding-place as quickly as possible. I will here throw them into the form of a journal. I ever forget the triple horror of that spectacle. I again made three or four plunges into the cabin. I thought of falling on my knees to my companions. I held out the two remaining splinters toward him. I scrutinized the formation of the chin--and here. I compel my understanding to regard it as a dream. I saw nothing in it of an extraordinary character. I believe I shall be forced to call them both out. I had heard much in Paris from my medical friends. I cannot sufficiently recommend to your attention. I was reluctantly forced to expedite my departure. I may use so bold an expression) thing (pardon me. I was followed immediately afterward by my poodle. I had leisure to survey the church in which I was. I had just consummated an unusually hearty dinner. I occupy myself in attempts to resolve the enigma. I could see into the after-cabin quite distinctly. I thought was the mystery of the extra state-room. I cannot speak of these latter without enthusiasm. I shall have to sit down and enlighten you--Smith. I could not have dreamed of seeing in one so aged. I entertained I know not what of uneasy suspicion. I have been able to understand of his disposition. I cannot say that I was alarmed at the phenomenon. I had better consult Ptolemy (whoever Ptolemy is). I mistrust-- Her pallor I strangely mistrust-- Ah. I see them still--two sweetly scintillant Venuses. I left her gorgeous halls--nor mourn'd to leave. I did inherit Thy withering portion with the fame. I HAVE KNOWN ONE" _How often we forget all time.

I must deliver a message to him from my poor Eddie. I connected in a proper manner with covered trains. I suffered much less than might have been expected. I determined to lie down for the rest of the night. I was much surprised at the turn affairs had taken. I tell you--den was de time he must ha got de bite. I have made no addition to my cabinet since we met. I at once established by means of a pocket-compass. I was so sanguine as to consider the enigma solved. I had told you that this was in reference to Orion. I had been to visit my aunt in the Rue des Drômes. I attributed my escape from the notice of the crew. I saw at once that the peculiarities of the design. I concluded it to be that of which I was in search. I kept my attention really riveted upon the letter. I excited by the perilous position of my companion. I had the honor of a slight personal acquaintance). I personally know of the now immortal Von Kempelen. I find it difficult to distinguish between the two. I determined to hazard a few words of conversation. I cannot help thinking unwarranted popular feeling. I floated down among them in that funereal gondola. I had some difficulty in recognising it as his own. I will not fail_ _To meet thee in that hollow vale. I was hastening to anticipate a second disturbance. I knew there were demons who took note of my swoon. I greatly astonished at the nature of his decision. I did not remain very long on the brow of the hill. I advanced in years it was more strongly developed. I made a point of treating him and his pretensions. I had also been forced to notice that my tormentor. I felt the extent of my own powers--of my sagacity. I remained for some time breathless and motionless. I now pen calmly and distinctly these remembrances. I looked down into the depths of her memorial eyes. I took part of his bed in preference to going home. I fancied that I drew every breath with difficulty. I should be incapacitated from doing so altogether. I thrust my hand eagerly to the edge of the planks. I could summon up no connected chain of reflection. I found that it became in some measure perceptible. I should not have experienced the least difficulty. I now again carried my forefinger cautiously along. I was recalled to my senses by the voice of Parker. I had been obliged to let go my hold upon the rope. I could summon sufficient resolution to follow him. I found these fancies creating their own realities. I can liken it to nothing but a limitless cataract. I cannot pretend to strict accuracy in these dates. I sank aghast into the chair which she had vacated. I hope I shall always remember them with gratitude. I ever forget the intense excitement of the moment. I merely leaned back in my chair with my eyes shut. I had sipped had the effect of rendering me drowsy. I chuckled excessively when I thought of my acumen. I looked upon the whole address as a mystification. I forbear to depict my sensations upon the gallows. I greatly astonished at the nature of his decision. I had not the slightest intention of telling a lie. I can call to mind only the beads of his discourse. I would have taken him up upon his insulting wager. I remembered that I was Sir Pathrick O'Grandison. I perceive you are yet in the infancy of Calvinism. I am anxious to know who will be President in 2045. I have no design to be either thorough or profound. I fill this cup to one made up Of loveliness alone. I brought a dread burden down here-- On this night. I see the bright eyes Of the beautiful ANNABEL LEE. I dare say Milton preferred 'Comus' to either-. I _felt-that brightest hour I would not live again.

I could bring the present business to a termination. I had fallen with my face turned toward the balloon. I still continued to bleed occasionally at the nose. I reflected that man is the veriest slave of custom. I had hopes of passing on much farther to the north. I could not in any reason have so rapidly come down. I had barely time to observe that the whole country. I to attribute the honor of a visit from you to-day. I assure you that it is of the _highest_ importance. I was on the point of extending my sphere of search. I heard the Frenchman speak what he had just spoken. I build my expectation of reading the entire riddle. I look for the man here--in this room--every moment. I now replaced the nail and regarded it attentively. I understood the full horrors of the murder at once. I like him especially for one master stroke of cant. I shall add but one to the arguments against a gang. I awaited fearlessly the ruin that was to overwhelm. I should most probably lose the position I now hold. I observed on his countenance a singular expression. I was shown up a broad winding staircase of mosaics. I trace these words--and thin even to grotesqueness. I knew too well the character of my judges to doubt. I presumed the dungeon to be fifty yards in circuit. I turned my eyes upon the other objects in the cell. I use the word prosperity in its mere worldly sense. I owed my security to the master air of the copyist. I was frantic with every species of wild excitement. I saw it with perfect distinctness--all a dull blue. I was oppressed with a multitude of gloomy feelings. I could not move it a single inch from its position. I found that my headache was increasing momentarily. I found myself comfortably situated for the present. I have never seen one rigged either before or since. I soon discovered that my companions were also busy. I had not sufficient balance to keep me firmly down. I became fully satisfied that no exertions whatever. I could no longer bear the touch of her wan fingers. I replied as best I could--as only a true lover can. I perceived the traces of sorrow in her countenance. I was cautious in what I said before the young lady. I should be relieved from my disagreeable situation. I can just remember the titles of some of the works. I don't remember that you paid me for the tobacco. I have something so queer to tell you on this topic. I considered quite natural under the circumstances). I had been nervous--drank too much strong green tea. I say it seemed to resemble sobbing or sighing--but. I was enabled to get over many serious difficulties. I rejoice to see you looking life-like and rational. I had predicted to Toby Dammit overtook him at last. I resolved to trouble him no longer with my counsel. I found a swate little flipper all a waiting to say. I found that Horace tasted very much like Aristotle. I am by no means sure that the god was in the right. I heard again a tapping somewhat louder than before. I fear me 'Tis as you say--his lordship is unwell. I mark'd a throne Of half the world as all my own.

I was now doing was nothing better than it should be. I had obtained a great increase in my rate of ascent. I had now little doubt of ultimately seeing the Pole. I am pining for a return to my family and to my home. I felt much fatigued with the exercise already taken. I must have deposited the parchment in my own pocket. I am quite sure that I should be unable to earn them. I speak of this point chiefly for the sake of method. I am not sure to what limit his knowledge may extend. I can make very tolerable headway with the propeller. I ran over in my mind my reason for so shutting them. I there read the vague and quaint words which follow. I thought Dupin would like to hear the details of it. I was borne violently into the channel of the Ström. I give the facts--as far as I comprehend them myself. I re-laid the whole structure as it originally stood. I at length drank in the hideous import of his words. I thought I should never have done wringing his hand. I could not force my imagination to regard as unreal. I could not see the figure of him who had aroused me. I heard some one from the interior call her "Annie. I have therefore designated myself as William Wilson. I was more than usually cautious in opening the door. I knew that he could not see the opening of the door. I found that my cousin had departed from the chamber. I ought not to forget a kind of safe or refrigerator. I again felt about for the phosphorus-box and tapers. I then forced the blade of my pen-knife through them. I had not heard any of my companions speak for hours. I fully impressed with the strength of her affection. I called to mind the circumstances of a former night. I never--can I never be mistaken--these are the full. I knew not whom with the nervous ferocity of despair. I again experienced a shock as of a galvanic battery. I saw the lady merely hand the gentleman a play-bill. I demanded so enthusiastically of Talbot who she was. I confess you yourself seem to be a little top-heavy. I shot off his nose--and then called upon my friends. I was obliged to enforce a rigid system of exclusion. I merely paused a moment to bid Diana behave herself. I fancied myself in Philadelphia with the stately Dr. I became immediately aware of my peculiar deficiency. I should follow him and make an offer of my services. I bethought me of looking immediately before my nose. I _was_ sober and _had_ positively come to my senses. I ceased shaking my head than--

“Go to der teuffel. I found that we were to have a great many passengers. I waited on board an hour longer than I had designed. I found myself deficient were altogether unnecessary. I resigned myself thereto with a feeling half stupid. I resolved to call at once upon my particular friend. I didn’t know very well what to make of the matter. I mean the fact (which none but the ignorant dispute. I have much to say yet of the things which have been. I found a wild delight--yet a delight still physical. I had been reading these books without his knowledge. I again had a distinct view of the monster--to which. I had now a good opportunity of examining his person. I caught a glimpse both of a diamond and of a dagger. I could not help thinking it my duty to put him down. I had overheard the colloquy between the two cronies. I know I should not see The season’s glorious show. I answer thee-- Thus on my bended knee I answer thee. I remember having dwelt Some page of early lore upon.

I also secured in the car a pair of pigeons and a cat. I felt all the blood in my body rushing to my temples. I began to find great difficulty in drawing my breath. I had at any period since my departure from Rotterdam. I judged it to be still at no inconsiderable distance. I had shown him much attention during previous visits. I believe erroneously) have assigned a separate organ. I felt my soul enkindled within me by the wild fervor. I have said that the whims of my friend were manifold. I will now merely call your attention to three points. I went below--not without a full presentiment of evil. I think) which she was narrating (all in an undertone. I therefore concluded they were contrivances designed. I was falling from some lofty mountain-top in a dream. I had instinctively tightened my hold upon the barrel. I inflict upon my readers so needless a demonstration. I could accomplish with him nothing to be relied upon. I had completely stiffened the limbs of the slumberer. I here felt the limbs and found them as rigid as ever. I thought of cutting the corpse into minute fragments. I have received a pipe of what passes for Amontillado. I had finished a portion of the last and the eleventh. I had had some experience in these fits of perversity. I saw clearly the doom which had been prepared for me. I might as well have attempted to arrest an avalanche. I erred in my calculations--nor had I endured in vain. I saw that two of its iron angles were now acute--two. I consented to sleep--for I shuddered to reflect that. I knew that the crisis of my disorder had long passed. I had always felt aversion to my uncourtly patronymic. I had succumbed supinely to this imperious domination. I now began to feel the inspiration of a burning hope. I turned at once upon him who had thus interrupted me. I with Eleonora before Love entered within our hearts. I dwelled within the Valley of the Many-Colored Grass. I knew the brig was expected to put to sea every hour. I have before stated more than once that my intellect. I had childishly torn it in pieces and thrown it away. I could see and hear every thing from my hiding-place. I found the variation to be 14 degrees 27’ easterly. I have made use of to avoid confusion in my narrative. I had become a bounden slave in the trammels of opium. I seemed to feel that I had an important part to play. I gave loose to the impetuous enthusiasm of my nature. I had most imprudently made it known among my friends. I should say--and driving at a great rate out of town. I screamed at the top of my voice--“that’s me--e-e. I conversed with Monsieur Maillard for an hour or two. I’ll put you in the way of accomplishing this point. I say that I could not be mistaken--Diana smelt a rat. I attacked with great resolution the editorial matter. I can call at the office in the morning and apologize. I stood bewildered at the suddenness of this accident. I could have no breeches until I came across the crow. I not lay myself open to the exactions of his avarice. I knew by the tremulousness of the monotonous strains. I passed into Night through the Grave--at that period. I considered the vision either as an omen of my death. I felt a calm but inquisitive interest in every thing. I had satisfied myself in some measure respecting him. I counted upon the conscience of the murderous wretch. I talked as hard and as fast as I could all the while. I slipped my right arm betwene the back o' the sofy. I might hint that the hair of our hero was worn short. I called him when he sung a seculare for my amusement. I really am astonished to hear you talk in this style. I would I were by that dim lake"--which are the com. I felt my bosom swell-- For the words rang as a knell. I not love--art thou not beautiful- What need we more. I fear me ill--it will not do To die ere I have lived. I'll conceal Like those champions devoted and brave.

I continued to occupy the little square brick building. I should be so happy as to get them within my clutches. I suffered my eye only to glance in its vicinity alone. I still lay nearly level with the plane of the horizon. I should look upon as a strong confirmation of my idea. I should look upon this business in so serious a light. I had seen nothing of (Legrand) when I received a visit. I had never seen the good old negro look so dispirited. I should never have become aware of the death's-head. I made bold to thrust myself among a group of the crew. I trembled at the blast which has hitherto attended us. I really thought he would have fallen into convulsions. I might never have left the Ministerial presence alive. I was not already in my death-struggles with the water. I was too much confused to observe anything accurately. I entered his room he greeted me with a cheerful smile. I passed the latter gently to and fro above his person. I looked upon the scene before me--upon the mere house. I learned that the deceased and himself had been twins. I was too well aware of the extent of his acquirements. I had advanced some ten or twelve paces in this manner. I dwelt upon it with a pertinacity of attention--as if. I shook--shook as the quivering plumes upon the hearse. I should rejoice in it but for the excess of its glory. I forced him by sheer strength against the wainscoting. I gasped for breath--and yet the officers heard it not. I breathed with perfume from the censers of the angels. I stood aghast at the burning thoughts which possessed. I being too much agitated to think of taking it myself. I now took time to reflect upon what I was about to do. I succeeded only in reading the seven concluding words. I stood up between the crates near the door of the box. I had assured him that I was doing as well as possible. I have been thus particular in speaking of Dirk Peters. I immediately threw open the door of the companion-way. I perceived that he had become all at once deadly pale. I then fastened it on and went down for the third time. I could not refrain from joining in with their madness. I had suffered less than any of us from our calamities. I have felt it in the glances of unusually aged people. I forbore to speak to her of a circumstance which must. I might have dreamed that Rowena had indeed shaken off. I was thus wrapped in admiration of this lovely vision. I would have removed my position to one nearer her own. I saw the head slowly and slightly change its position. I must not be understood as referring to his obstinacy. I anticipate the rising by two hours--another thousand. I turned my eyes in an inquiring manner toward my host. I now ventured to inquire the cause of the disturbance. I came to some satisfactory denouement of this tragedy. I thought of my many false steps which have been taken. I considered it the wiser policy to say nothing at all. I lay outstretched where I had fallen from the balloon. I next tried my hand at the Organ-Grinding for a while. I at length considered it my best policy to be liberal. I knew little of the speculative philosophy of the day. I confidently depended upon my ventriloquial abilities. I gived her jist thin right in the face with both eyes. I kipt up wid her all about the dear bogs of Connaught. I fill'd this cup to one made up Of loveliness alone. I who pray for life--I who so late Demanded but to die.

I awoke to a recollection of what was passing around me. I was suspended had chanced to hang over the upper edge. I therefore undid only a few of these loops at one time. I had not visited for several weeks--my residence being. I dreaded lest the continued pressure of misfortune had. I might have entertained of my poor friend's insanity. I had no especial relish for such amusement at any time. I was too well assured of the old negro's disposition. I have just said that the figure was not that of a goat. I see nothing but a tumultuous mob of idiots and madmen. I picked the ribbon up at the foot of the lightning-rod. I have employed them in this conversation with yourself. I observed them to be more chafed than seemed necessary. I thought might have been intended to answer as turbans. I became aware of a loud and gradually increasing sound. I could have done--for I was too much flurried to think. I thought at length that he comprehended my design--but. I perceived unequivocal signs of the mesmeric influence. I scanned more narrowly the real aspect of the building. I began vigorously to wall up the entrance of the niche. I placed my hand upon the solid fabric of the catacombs. I outstretched my left arm as far as my bonds permitted. I wish the composure but not the depression of solitude. I wont to regard him from our remote pew in the gallery. I perceived that it had grown to a pallor truly fearful. I had effected his total ruin under circumstances which. I had newly awakened from a confused and exciting dream. I felt a thrill of the greatest excitement and pleasure. I was inspired by the fragmentary warning thus received. I had undergone any inconvenience from my incarceration. I have stated) between the oil-casks and the upper deck. I was beginning to think that he was suddenly taken ill. I felt myself making a step toward the ensanguined spot. I hope never again to behold laughter of such a species. I contrived to fasten the end of a rope around his body. I now told them I was willing to submit to the proposal. I have several times passed within the Antarctic circle. I warmly pressed upon him the expediency of persevering. I have seen a few that were not less than two feet long. I minutely detail the unspeakable horrors of that night. I followed the windings of this pass with much interest. I was engaged in detailing them upon paper here at home. I was speaking with the editor of the paper in question. I went so far as to say that I felt assured of her love. I devoted to the infernal deities both master and valet. I took my seat very coolly at the right hand of my host. I again turned my eyes upon the glorious prospect below. I might as well have tried to lift the cathedral itself.
I had told her 'on no account to stir from the corner. I unfortunately fell asleep in less than twenty seconds. I took credit to myself for the accuracy of my guessing. I pitied him from the bottom of my heart--but could not. I committed to memory the entire tragedy of "Metamora. I spoke it--with a few passionate sentences--into birth. I forgot what--the king determined to have a masquerade. I observed an order of men somewhat different in habits. I thought that the intense agony of his countenance had.
I will now play the Oedipus to the Rattleborough enigma. I dare say unintentionally) the idea of an ecclesiastic. I have made innumerable purchases of the kind in my day. I bethink me Thou hast not spoken lately of thy wedding. I cannot pray-- The sweet airs from the garden worry me. I love thee--even for thy woes- Thy beauty and thy woes. I ceased to soar And fell--not swiftly as I rose before.

I should be supposed more of a madman than I actually am. I found that my senses would shortly give way altogether. I could only account for all this by extending my theory. I presume you will call the bug scarabæus caput hominis. I had continued to hold in my hand during his inspection. I have no doubt we should find a most intolerable stench. I beheld a spectacle which froze the current of my blood. I did by removing a small portion of the shifting-boards. I mentioned some time ago the bending of a studding-sail. I thus saw in vivid light a picture all unnoticed before. I cautiously and thoroughly surveyed the whole apartment. I felt sleepy on the particular night of their narration. I could stand it no longer I raised myself upon my knees. I first opened my eyes upon the wonders of the whirlpool. I am scarcely warranted in saying that I know him at all. I shall not pretend to consider it any matter for wonder. I would not pretend to render intelligible to the reader. I suffered myself to use intemperate language to my wife. I made bold to seize Fortunato by an arm above the elbow. I soon uncovered a quantity of building stone and mortar. I made an effort to shake off this nightmare of the soul. I could not do less than offer him the service of my own. I therefore sought the knife which had been in my pocket. I was enabled to see the extent and aspect of the prison. I would have seized and attempted to arrest the pendulum. I entered--passing first into a tolerably wide vestibule. I lowered the lamp in still nearer proximity to the face. I could now find room to doubt the evidence of my senses. I had been now two years successfully busied in this way. I had seen her--not as the living and breathing Berenice. I could not imagine a reason for the absence of Augustus. I heard my name pronounced in an eager but subdued voice. I fell just after my return from the trap with the watch. I saw distinctly that she was heading immediately for us. I well remember something in a volume of Joseph Glanvill. I could restore her to the pathway she had abandoned--ah. I abandoned myself implicitly to the guidance of my wife. I could not obtain a view of it--but the form was divine. I thought the audience were fully engaged with the opera. I aware--was I fully aware of the discrepancy between us. I understand you to say that the system you have adopted. I was deeply absorbed in the heavenly scenery beneath me. I was thinking how I should possibly manage without them. I was soon upon the point of resigning myself to my fate. I went on board to arrange some matters in my state-room. I determined to commence a series of covert insinuations. I have a kind of melancholy satisfaction in being minute. I wish to God my young and talented friend Chiponchipino. I called upon that individual for the clothes of the day. I always called at the big houses to deliver the letters. I have found that a most pleasant and lucrative business. I had occupied at the moment of beholding "the monster. I would not believe that it could be done by Toby Dammit. I looked sternly at my friend while I thus addressed him. I saw at once that all the criminating discoveries arose. I gave instructions to my servant to wheel the box to Mr. I take it for granted that your histories at that period. I pray to God that she may lie Forever with unopened eye. I know what thou wouldst say--not send the message- Well. I mentioned just now a vulgar error as regards criticism.

I now perceived that I had entirely overdone the business. I suffered great uneasiness in the joint of my left ankle. I could perceive it to be in a state of violent agitation. I now bored a hole in the end of the keg over the pitcher. I could again distinguish a strip of land to the eastward. I am satisfied with having defeated him in his own castle. I have forgotten the explanation--how what I observed was. I derived from it one of my principal sources of pleasure. I could prevent him from following me through the streets. I well remember that suggestions arising from this ballad. I could not help thinking of the wild ritual of this work. I bounded like a madman through the crowded thoroughfares. I had been poring intently over its surpassing loveliness. I thoroughly rubbed the bandage wherever I could reach it. I shrank from the glowing metal to the centre of the cell. I had but one consolation--in the fact that the imitation. I now asked my companion what course he intended to steer. I mentioned to Augustus as soon as I found an opportunity. I found that the wind blew no more than a moderate breeze. I had no fear of being able to prevent its accomplishment. I almost thought they would abandon their design entirely. I found hourly gleaming from its full and speculative eye. I have resorted to every remedy--short of wearing glasses. I have hitherto managed as well as I could without either. I am neither the author of Junius nor the man in the mask. I have shown that Touch-and-go Bullet-head was a wise man. I mean the man who took himself for a bottle of champagne. I was much astonished to hear addressed as Madame Joyeuse. I have been made aware of the exact method of composition. I could scarcely have believed had it been anybody but Mr. I could easily pass my head and neck through the aperture. I will take a small reward--just to satisfy your scruples. I made effort to arouse myself by aid of frequent Lafitte. I was always under the impression that an angel had wings. I said something about the "peculiar shape of that box-. I could make arrangements prior to my leaving the country. I never put down a broom in any part of the town but that. I had no difficulty in holding steadily in mind the tones. I resolved to bring all my eloquence into play to save it. I mention this little bit of liberality on the part of Mr. I did not feel justified in indicating more unequivocally. I am as much surprised as I am mortified at your behavior. I hold within my hand Grains of the golden sand-- How few.

I have this morning heard of the death of my darling Eddie. I at length met with entire success in all my preparations. I wished to retain with me as much weight as I could carry. I had reason to believe its density considerably increased. I made them as distinct as they are in the original insect. I feared that some serious disaster had befallen my friend. I could hardly blame Jupiter for his opinion respecting it. I felt no longer any great aversion from the labor imposed. I handed you the rough sketch I had made of the scarabæus. I recollected turning up first one side and then the other. I beg pardon--will be given--by the learned of future ages. I will inform you presently of the origin of the commotion. I could not doubt that you murmured the word 'stereotomy. I was now assured that I had correctly followed your steps. I have already spoken of his abstract manner at such times. I am to meet a certain person for the purpose of elopement. I allude to the handkerchief with the name of the deceased. I have often been reproached with the aridity of my genius. I know not what sudden self-possession came over my spirit. I look around me I feel ashamed of my former apprehensions. I have no sympathy--at least no pity--for him who descends. I now made one or two attempts to speak to my brother--but. I would not have believed that any wave could rise so high. I felt more composed than when we were only approaching it. I left the house in company with the two physicians and Mr. I indeed wretched beyond the wretchedness of mere Humanity. I was at once struck with an incoherence--an inconsistency. I had told them that I should not return until the morning. I walked vigorously--faster--still faster--at length I ran. I observed a singularly-marked difference in their aspects. I was too much exhausted to reflect upon this circumstance. I did not fail to take what poor advantage lay in my power. I turned the latch of his door and opened it--oh so gently. I could see nothing else of the old man's face or person. I tried how steadily I could maintain the ray upon the eve. I advanced beyond the sixty-fifth degree of south latitude. I soon lost all idea of the direction in which I journeyed. I spoke a few hurried but energetic words to my companions. I suppose you say dat dat is not von ver respectable name. I beg both your pardons--but I can't be so much mistaken. I considered this accident rather fortunate than otherwise. I mean--is rather agreeable to the patients than otherwise. I observed that these bottles had labels about their necks. I could reply only by ejaculating the monosyllable "Help. I mean to write at you every day during this odious voyage. I observed that his name was carded upon three state-rooms. I am serious in asserting that my breath was entirely gone. I did my best to give the crowd the worth of their trouble. I know very well--held about something of great importance. I left General Smith with a heightened interest in the man. I dreamed that I should be at once cognizant of all things. I clearly perceive that the infinity of matter is no dream. I measured the irregularities of the clock upon the mantel. I might well have been excused for regarding it as an omen. I found it impossible to quell by any effort of the reason. I could not bring myself to give up his society altogether. I make it a point of conscience to allow you this much run. I have formerly alluded--but this was by no means the case. I here asked the Count what he had to say to our railroads. I will not now pause to maintain its absolute essentiality. I have left myself time to cite only a very brief specimen. I think nothing in this volume of much value to the public. I have known men have seen Politian And sought his company. I have often noticed a peculiar movement of the fire-flies.

I do not think it will be necessary to say 'From the ----. I therefore kept my three duns working with great diligence. I plainly discerned it to be a British ninety four-gun ship. I threw out from the car three five-pound pieces of ballast. I should have begun my attempts with the Spanish and French. I could not help acknowledging that he had spoken the truth. I quote the language of the "Isitsoornot" at this point. I dared not open them--while I expected instant destruction. I learned the use of the words 'cylinder' and 'sphere. I was noted for the docility and humanity of my disposition. I resolved to dig a grave for it in the floor of the cellar. I turned to see whence a gleam so unusual could have issued. I would perpetually catch myself pondering upon my security. I had little object--certainly no hope--in these researches. I was securely bound by a long strap resembling a surcingle. I turned with the road somewhat more abruptly than hitherto. I became aware of the figure of a youth about my own height. I expected to inherit the most of his property at his death. I knew that I was altogether incapable of managing the boat. I was forced to relieve them by standing between the crates. I became aware of a singular hissing sound close at my ears. I had never reason to doubt the sincerity of his friendship. I could now trust my companions to hold the end of the rope. I said without attempting to controvert any of my arguments. I fell directly over the head and shoulders of my companion. I felt that it came from the bed of ebony--the bed of death. I said the child grew strangely in stature and intelligence. I of course expected some lively sally from Bedloe in reply. I really even know not who she was--what were her prospects. I had de portraite take for my daughter by my first usbande. I were to leave it at random--some time within a year or so. I have thus painted the happy estate of Vondervotteimittiss. I soon found that nearly all the company were well educated. I could easily walk to the insurance office in five minutes. I find that the great men in those days among the Amriccans. I say "amused"--and scarcely know how to explain myself. I at length succeeded perfectly in translating their import. I saw the old gentleman limping off at the top of his speed. I say they came to this determination in the first instance. I instituted a rigorous private search for the corpse of Mr. I repeat that the leading principle of embalment consisted. I marvelled this ungainly fowl to hear discourse so plainly. I have wandered home but newly From this ultimate dim Thule. I have not forgotten it--thou'lt do me A piece of service. I told my love in fables 'Neath the willows by the stream.

I send it I feel I am consigning to the tomb of the Capulets. I could not distinguish a star with nearly as much precision. I found little difficulty in gaining them over to my purpose. I immediately cut the single cord which held me to the earth. I should like to understand what it is you are talking about. I verily believe that my ill looks alone saved me a flogging. I came home at night my valet proposed to give me a flogging. I looked over the head-board minutely at the second casement. I had been satisfied in my walk with you around the building. I ask not success for mere safety to my insignificant person. I placed my foot upon the upper step of the companion-ladder. I placed it so as to throw its rays more fully upon the book. I believe has written learnedly on the Differential Calculus. I soon discovered that they were excessively heavy and solid. I was upon the point of proposing to return to the anchorage. I fear you have mesmerized"--adding immediately afterwards. I retraced my steps and as earnestly struggled to awaken him. I was forced to fall back upon the unsatisfactory conclusion. I had even ventured to call terms of ridiculous exaggeration. I then took up three planks from the flooring of the chamber. I should be permitted to exchange the box for the more roomy. I was brought back within a foot or two of a former position. I felt about the box for my little remaining supply of water. I was impatient to learn the cause of his protracted absence. I dared not satisfy myself by looking at the splinter I held. I finally succeeded in laughing him out of his apprehensions. I concluded had no origin save in the distemper of her fancy. I am still a very young man--not yet twenty-two years of age. I gazed at this queenly apparition for at least half an hour. I concluded the most wildly enthusiastic epistle ever penned. I have never even heard the names of either gentleman before. I listened with all my ears to what was going on in the room. I can do to promote the success of your laudable undertaking. I perceived the excitement of the latter momentarily increasing. I frankly admit the propriety of the explanation you suggest. I cannot do better than by a summary notice of a very decent. I was precipitated and had the misfortune to fracture my arm. I beseech you--been here some time myself--terrible accident. I could only afford to feed them upon mice (which are cheap). I resolved to follow the stranger whithersoever he should go. I was at a loss to comprehend the waywardness of his actions. I collected my energies for a final attempt at expostulation. I can very well wait until you have finished your Exposition. I gave him the hint out of pure compassion for his absurdity. I have gained the assent of the Directors of the City Museum. I then questioned the Mummy about burning-glasses and lenses. I do not remember that he said any thing in the way of reply. I paused--I looked- And in an instant all things disappeared. I am aware Of nothing which might warrant thee in this thing.

I had been during the last hour and a quarter of my ascension. I became aware that the balloon was drifting rapidly to the N. I enjoy the light of the sun for a longer and a longer period. I stood in expectation of I knew not what hideous destruction. I beheld vast level regions of a character decidedly alluvial. I could judge) than they seem to the inhabitants of the earth. I had no alternative but to conclude him stricken with lunacy. I could not help thinking how picturesque a group we composed. I called to mind the peculiar spots on the back of the insect. I felt a creeping of the flesh as Dupin asked me the question. I have mainly built my hopes of a full solution of the riddle. I made scrupulous examination of the affair of the affidavits. I can judge--but it is very difficult to determine this point. I may not find an opportunity of transmitting it to the world. I received this note within half an hour after it was written. I did not think it advisable to disturb him farther just then. I must first render you all the little attentions in my power. I need not describe the easy artifices by which I substituted. I met for the third or fourth time the person of whom I speak. I thrust my arms wildly above and around me in all directions. I knew that in more than one place it must be already severed. I could have fancied that I myself was speaking while he said. I had dreamed so long in the Valley of the Many-Colored Grass. I was feeble in the extreme--so much so that I shook all over. I was so impressed with a sense of vague awe at my appearance. I could hardly imagine that they would make resistance at all. I was consumed with the irrepressible desire of looking below. I was wild with the excitement of an immoderate dose of opium. I now felt a burning sense of the impropriety I had committed. I really received a letter from Madame Lalande--the beautiful. I had been merely making a fool of myself in making open love. I must confess it--you have really--made me ashamed of myself. I have reached that wool I would have bathed it with my tears. I had never seen it assume except when we were alone together. I shall take the earliest opportunity of avenging this insult. I determined at all events to conceal the matter from my wife. I took my seat very early one morning in the mail stage for--. I feel a deep interest--a lot in which I sincerely sympathize. I really do believe you would let me go out without my palate. I never knew anyone so keenly alive to a joke as the king was. I determined to take him home and send for the homoeopaths. I could never precisely understand his reason for the silence. I arise from dreams of thee In the first sweet sleep of night. I long have called you-- You who are more than mother unto me. I care not tho' it perish With a thought I then did cherish.

I worked up the twine into a net-work of sufficient dimensions. I was about to display in extricating myself from this dilemma. I undoubtedly beheld the whole of the earth's major diameter. I could only now and then obtain a glimpse of the earth itself. I draw tolerably--should do it at least--have had good masters. I carefully rinsed the parchment by pouring warm water over it. I could not help feeling the utter hopelessness of hope itself. I did this was not at first apparent even to my own perception. I still retained sufficient presence of mind to avoid exciting. I saw that his lips trembled as if he were murmuring inaudibly. I not distinguish that heavy and horrible beating of her heart. I had difficulty in recognising as that of the noble Fortunato. I pondered upon all this frivolity until my teeth were on edge. I could no longer doubt that I reposed within a coffin at last. I trace its course for more than two or three paces in advance. I do not mean that merely outre was perceptible in any respect. I gave evidence of having fully inherited the family character. I shook as if with a fit of the ague in fancying they were not. I had contrived to have assembled a party of some eight or ten. I placed my hand upon the heart and held it there many minutes. I should put forth as merely an impudent and ingenious fiction. I could not help accusing Augustus of the grossest inattention. I rose hurriedly from the mattress upon which I had been lying. I again called to memory the several incidents of my condition. I think of the condition of the hold in which I was imprisoned. I have already spoken of the condition of articles in the hold. I remonstrated with them on the heartlessness of their conduct. I immediately saw by the countenance of Parker that I was safe. I bore up with fortitude against all the evils of my situation. I felt always aroused within me by her large and luminous orbs. I have no power to portray--no utterance capable of expressing. I became distinctly aware of a gentle footfall upon the carpet. I noticed that at least two-thirds of these guests were ladies. I might experience no uncomfortable feelings during the repast. I was quite confident of the fact--I could not be mistaken--no. I quaintly termed the domination of the Baron Ritzner von Jung. I shall not forget in my will) took me up one day by the heels. I invested my whole estate in the purchase of Toms and Tabbies. I use the word Prosperity in its mere wordly or external sense. I could perceive that he was getting worse and worse every day. I scarce was sure I heard you "--here I opened wide the door. I strike--the murmur sent Through the grey chambers to my song.

I need not ask you to notice his death and to speak well of him. I should come into possession of vast quantities of ready money. I was therefore only forty-five degrees below the perpendicular. I could expect to see no objects situated directly in my zenith. I found that I had very little to occupy my immediate attention. I determined to attend to at regular intervals of forty minutes. I shall not pretend to describe the feelings with which I gazed. I was about to crumple it up and throw it angrily into the fire. I saw by the character of the smile which passed over your lips. I wish you also to look at the _brutal_ ferocity of these deeds. I had followed him immediately upon securing the object in view. I fancied that I could hear a singular buzzing or humming sound. I am entranced the senses of my rudimental life are in abeyance. I endeavored in vain to make it follow the direction of my hand. I had no power to shake off--incumbent eternally upon my _heart. I had taken up was the "Mad Trist" of Sir Launcelot Canning. I have before spoken as extending from the roof of the building. I had thus good traveller's excuse to open the gate before me. I took notice that no sight of the out-houses could be obtained. I feel the refreshing chilliness of its deeply-shadowed avenues. I had not lived before--that the soul has no previous existence. I heard the sounds of the swinging of the censers of the angels. I longed for the love which had before filled it to overflowing. I felt hopeless of being ever able to read the note of Augustus. I followed my friends to the cabin as soon as the door was shut. I was so encumbered with my disguise that I could do but little. I had not sufficient strength to release him from his situation. I thought likely to have influence with one of his rough nature. I could not bring myself to arrange the splinters upon the spot. I then thought human nature could sustain nothing more of agony. I loathed her with a hatred belonging more to demon than to man. I turned my glances to the pallid and rigid figure upon the bed. I discover new points of resemblance in the child to her mother. I have already said that Madame Eugenie Lalande--that is to say. I before mentioned in the case of the president--that is to say. I have been assured that Snobbs is a mere corruption of Zenobia. I ought to spell "cant" with a capital K--but I know better. I felt inclined to take a nap of some fifteen or twenty minutes. I have no prospect of touching terra firma for a month at least. I returned with a palpitating heart to the scene of my disaster. I felt my way among the numerous coffins ranged in order around. I had been amusing myself for the greater part of the afternoon. I do not attempt to defend my remark on the score of profundity. I comprehend what he wud be afther the tilling me at all at all. I have no time for idle cares Through gazing on the unquiet sky.

I have a distinct recollection of frequently compressing my lips. I have lately read a singular and somewhat ingenious little book. I am sorry--very sorry--for we shall have to try it by ourselves. I want you to work your way out upon that limb as far as you can. I betook myself to a more methodical investigation of the affair. I had observed any thing _peculiar_ at the scene of the atrocity. I was enjoying the twofold luxury of meditation and a meerschaum. I can scarcely look over this little cliff without getting giddy. I withdrew my arm from her grasp and buried the axe in her brain. I lay close within my covert and observed the actions of the man. I lay close within my covert and observed the actions of the man. I lay close within my covert and observed the actions of the man. I had of this was a low moaning cry from the depth of the recess. I re-echoed--I aided--I surpassed them in volume and in strength. I should be buried before my real condition could be ascertained. I found it a matter of exceeding difficulty to squeeze myself in. I might exist without water--for a longer time I could not do so. I forcibly restrained him from thus casting himself into the sea. I have already spoken cutting off all access in other directions. I believe that I met her first and most frequently in some large. I revolved in my mind a thousand schemes by which I might obtain. I saw only the chiselled contour of the back portion of the head. I was thrown into an extremity of agitation by seeing her unfold. I desired her acquaintance--thus that I did not possess it--thus. I found myself in a close carriage with Madame Lalande--with Mrs. I thought would not be displeasing or exciting even to a lunatic. I ejaculated--"the lunatics have most undoubtedly broken loose. I spent the greater part of the day in wandering about Edinburgh. I was hastening to greet her with one of my best considered bows. I just slipped my nether extremities into the sleeves of my coat. I knew he had been for several weeks in conference with Nicolino. I was enabled to discharge the onerous duties of this profession. I appreciated the direful change now in operation upon the flesh. I doubted my own sanity--or at least the evidence of my own eyes. I am by no means sure that I am right in attributing them to him. I have known a Quarterly Review non-plussed by the word "Fudge. I dare say you have often observed this disposition to temporize. I see in the corner--a pretty cat--look at her--observe her well. I should no doubt be tempted to think of the devil in 'Melmoth. I left so late was into chaos hurl'd-- Sprang from her station.

I chanced to stumble against the corner of a bookseller's stall. I did not fail to attribute the extreme violence of the explosion. I could not suppose confined to the path of the comet's ellipse. I now raised up the hoop again within the covering of gum-elastic. I found myself _always immediately between the moon and the earth. I scrambled my way through the evergreens to the hut of my friend. I can have done no harm in saying what I did in the advertisement. I don't mean that you should be at all this trouble for nothing. I therefore thought proper to contrive a hiding-place in the hold. I can easily perceive--what she is I fear it is impossible to say. I make no doubt that we can manage it sufficiently well ourselves. I merely laughed--but he seemed quite serious in all that he said. I had carefully prepared at my lodgings--imitating the D-- cipher. I therefore postponed operations until about eight the next night. I am one of the many uncounted victims of the Imp of the Perverse. I did not immediately apprehend a somewhat startling circumstance. I no longer knew in what direction lay the sweet village of B----. I felt that their possession could alone ever restore me to peace. I AM come of a race noted for vigor of fancy and ardor of passion. I found that there yet remained to us a chance of ultimate escape. I forbore speaking to any of my relations in regard to the voyage. I proceeded immediately to take possession of my little apartment. I could see him occasionally open his eyes and draw a long breath. I am induced to look upon as more intensely productive of emotion. I could not perceive the faintest appearance of the shore--indeed. I must not dwell upon the fearful repast which immediately ensued. I bring before mine eyes in fancy the image of her who is no more. I assured him that I should never say it again as long as I lived. I really believe that I have nothing less than a five dollar bill. I was confident that I should meet with no similar disappointment. I really could not make up my mind whether to kick or to pity him. I oft have heard it In merry England--never so plaintively-- Hist.

I could manage to complete the voyage within any reasonable period. I supposed the greatest height capable of refracting the solar ray. I concluded to make a virtue of necessity--to dig with a good will. I thus detail the precise mode in which it came into my possession. I have solved others of an abstruseness ten thousand times greater. I was even more startled than I would have been willing to express. I saw no means by which it would be possible to trace the murderer. I designed to imply that the deductions are the sole proper ones. I remain silent in regard to what I both heard and saw so long ago. I have farther to say--I will bring my story quickly to conclusion. I had been long in the habit of mesmerizing the person in question. I slipped a noose about its neck and hung it to the limb of a tree. I prepared a plaster which could not be distinguished from the old. I could not fail to encounter this rag upon completing the circuit. I saw them now even more unequivocally than I beheld them then. I struggled in vain against its strange and irresistible influence. I more seriously believed que toutes ses dents etaient des idees. I would not stir in the matter) that I should allow him to draw up. I could not forget the peculiar whine of my Newfoundland dog Tiger. I came across a small slip of what had the feeling of letter paper. I should have slept uninterruptedly for the period specified above. I shall have frequent occasion to mention this species of tortoise. I have given his ideas respecting these matters somewhat at length. I could not all believe) that those almost inarticulate breathings. I whispered within the ears of the holy man the syllables--Morella. I have always supposed the name to be written with an e at the end. I anticipate the rising of the sun here at London by just one hour. I have been assured that Suky is but a vulgar corruption of Psyche. I thought of that happy period when the world was not all a desert. I cannot conscientiously retain this large amount in my possession. I do not complain of these ancients so much because their logic is. I forced myself not to perceive the bitterness of their expression. I sat at the large bow window of the D----- Coffee-House in London. I am always displeased by circumstances for which I cannot account. I perceived that he wore a black silk apron over his small-clothes. I had hould of in my own--why thin--thin it wasn't--that's all. I have spoken of the philosopher in his capacity of restaurateur. I to regard your aiding and abetting that miserable little villain. I can say only that the work is based in an imperfect sense of art. I can't believe She has any more jewels--no--no--she gave me all. I mean his everyday actions) are sufficiently near to be discerned.

I had some little tincture of information on matters of this nature. I have dropped the prejudices of my former humble situation in life. I relied with confidence upon the iron hardihood of my constitution. I endured the most terrible distress from difficulty of respiration. I had been strengthened in my opinion by certain observations of Mr. I could adopt some more energetic measures with a chance of success. I hazarded an occasional suggestion as the night wore drowsily away. I cannot pretend to expose within the limits assigned me at present. I am confounded at the universality with which it has been received. I must refer the inquisitive reader to the "Isitsoornot" itself. I shall be pardoned for giving a summary of what I there discovered. I got rid of a great deal of that terror which unmanned me at first. I had no desire to oppose what I regarded as at best but a harmless. I must then have been within a pace or two of the fragment of serge. I so far elevated my head as to obtain a distinct view of my breast. I shrank back--but the closing walls pressed me resistlessly onward. I now looked over the books which had been so thoughtfully provided. I should swoon amid the narrow and intricate windings of the lumber. I now commenced another search for my phosphorus matches and tapers. I might expect immediate relief as far as provisions were concerned. I am at a loss to give a distinct idea of the nature of this liquid. I tore the dirt from around him with all the energy I could command. I was sufficiently aware of her infinite supremacy to resign myself. I was most busily occupied during the earlier years of our marriage. I could to prevent the rash and fatal sally of the officer who fell. I did this with the assured air of an old and familiar acquaintance. I felt my attention somewhat aroused by the paragraph which follows. I am almost ashamed to confess that either through pain or vexation. I write you this letter--it is on account of my ennui and your sins. I at length heard the footsteps of my wife descending the staircase. I practised for some time by the borders of a well frequented marsh. I dare say that I should have experienced very little inconvenience. I--"here"--and I dragged spitefully from its receptacle a gaunt. I experienced some little difficulty in making my wishes understood. I see the lights of the village Gleam through the rain and the mist. I feel that my soul is delivered To pain--it shall not be its slave. I cried--"It was surely October On _this_ very night of last year. I have seen Politian And know him well--nor learned nor mirthful he. I not--am I not sorely--grievously tempted To take thee at thy word.

I must get a list of at least five hundred subscribers to begin with. I found the cambric muslin to answer all the purposes of silk itself. I had to rest several times before I could accomplish this manoeuvre. I tumbled headlong into the very heart of a fantastical-looking city. I'll make you a present of a silver dollar as soon as you get down. I have not included one hundred and ninety-seven superb gold watches. I thought it at least possible that a deposit of value lay concealed. I may or I may not believe--but there was excellent reason for doubt. I paid especial attention to a large writing-table near which he sat. I cursed myself for being so great a fool as to dream of hope at all. I became possessed with the keenest curiosity about the whirl itself. I struggled to reason off the nervousness which had dominion over me. I might well have congratulated myself upon the success of my design. I had arrived at that well-known portion of the story where Ethelred. I was by no means certain that he had noticed the sounds in question. I was conducted by one of them into an unquestionable carriage track. I should be enabled readily to trace my way out without his guidance. I should not otherwise have had) to endure the evils of my situation. I was wild with impatience to leave my detested place of confinement. I was also in great pain from another rope which went about my waist. I felt myself capable of going to any lengths in order to appease it. I could at no time see more than a dozen yards of the path before me. I perseveringly frequented every reputable place of public amusement. I could scarcely restrain the excessive transport which possessed me. I even went so far as to speak of a slightly hectic cough with which. I had hurt his feelings by calling him 'an ignorant old squint-eye. I write this) in the luxuriously-cushioned open piazza of the summit. I had ever known Wyatt to keep from me any of his artistical secrets. I had no notion of being thwarted touching the information I desired. I find it to be about the sixteenth of an inch in its extreme length. I here walked close at his elbow through fear of losing sight of him. I remember aright--that he had received a present of Chateau-Margaux. I will convince you that my vision is more penetrating than your own. I here asked the Count if his people were able to calculate eclipses. I could not endure the spectacle of the poor Mummy's mortification. I would the lovely scene around Might know no sadder sight nor sound. I was mistaken--'twas but a giant bough Stirred by the autumn wind. I could not think it possible So little time could so much alter one. I SAW thee on thy bridal day-- When a burning blush came o'er thee.

I breathed with perfect freedom and ease--and indeed why should I not. I did not at first know what to make of this extraordinary phenomenon. I had now little doubt of soon reaching the end of my perilous voyage. I cannot conceive upon what data they have founded such an accusation. I foresee that you would pay me a visit this very night of all others. I shall be under the necessity of breaking your head with this shovel. I felt somewhat annoyed by your evident suspicions touching my sanity. I was unwilling to trust myself with a race of people who had offered. I have made many observations lately upon the structure of the vessel. I should like very well to know the precise character of his thoughts. I do believe that I blushed with shame when this idea crossed my mind. I should make the experiment of mesmerizing him in his then condition. I mean to say that the sound was one of distinct--of even wonderfully. I mention the matter at all for no better reason than that it happens. I blush to confess it) experienced a radical alteration for the worse. I grapple with the shadowy fancies that crowded upon me as I pondered. I left to perish of starvation in this subterranean world of darkness. I prayed--I wearied heaven with my prayer for its more speedy descent. I saw that the crescent was designed to cross the region of the heart. I would have them allow--what they cannot refrain from allowing--that. I knew that he had been lying awake ever since the first slight noise. I had consequently little to fear on the score of popular incredulity. I was necessarily obliged to leave much to the management of Augustus. I would remain for some minutes in a state bordering on insensibility. I attempted to reason on the probable cause of my being thus entombed. I had been able to remember the exact spot where I had deposited them. I could trick some one of my fellow-sufferers to draw the short straw. I shall have occasion hereafter to speak of the penguin and albatross. I advanced a single step before a glimmer of light became perceptible. I could render him by means of our pocket-handkerchiefs tied together. I became intensely imbued with personal interest in what was going on. I at once understood that it could not have arisen entirely from this. I take it for granted that no one would have accused you of the crime. I had enjoyed a near inspection of that loveliness by daylight at all. I had no opportunity of seeing Madame Lalande closely during daylight. I am able to select nothing which ought to be considered satisfactory. I suddenly perceived that my feet rested no longer upon _terra-firma_. I was induced to merge it in the Cur-Spattering--a somewhat analogous. I could make up my mind to communicate the circumstances to my friend. I can call to mind no poem more profoundly--more weirdly _imaginative_. I can-- Its fount is holier--more divine-- I would not call thee fool. I do believe that Eblis hath A snare in ev'ry human path-- Else how.

I do not wish to deprive him of the honor of a very singular invention. I should explain to your Excellencies the object of my perilous voyage. I so far succeeded as to determine upon the experiment of losing blood. I could see without difficulty around me in every horizontal direction. I am as well as I can expect to be under the excitement which I suffer. I doubt not--it is clear that he must have had assistance in the labor. I dare say you would like to take a peep at the divinity of the temple. I often dwelt meditatively upon the old philosophy of the Bi-Part Soul. I have shifted the question from the mode of egress to that of ingress. I cannot possibly comprehend the particulars of this frightful mystery. I will examine the newspapers more generally than you have as yet done. I became once more possessed of a desire of visiting foreign countries. I was now trying to get the better of the stupor that had come over me. I knew it could make no difference whether either of us held on at all. I have any design to look at the subject in a scientific point of view. I still retained sufficient regard to restrain me from maltreating him. I made no doubt that I could readily displace the bricks at this point. I thrust a torch through the remaining aperture and let it fall within. I describe the wise precautions I took for the concealment of the body. I tumbled headlong and insensible upon the body of my fallen companion. I felt that my powers of body and mind were fast leaving me--in a word. I had begun to hope that he would be prevailed upon to do as I desired. I might save myself the trouble of trying to turn him from his purpose. I do not believe that they had the least suspicion of their actual use. I have been filled with it by certain sounds from stringed instruments. I gazed with unquiet eye upon the sarcophagi in the angles of the room. I resolutely and perseveringly kept my attention riveted upon the body. I cannot pretend to give all the 'Tea-Pot's' paragraphs verbatim. I could discern by the studied hair-splitting farrago of his rejoinder. I shall discharge this decanter of wine at your image in yonder mirror. I shall ring the bell and order my footman to kick you into the street. I confess that I entertained some feeble hope of his final deliverance. I might still have continued to her the communication of my sentiments. I must say that I was sorry for the interruption just at that moment. I pressed down your pallid eyelids with the passionate fingers of love. I succeeded in convincing myself that I was neither mad nor in a dream. I concluded it to be far larger than any ship of the line in existence. I could have sworn that it was the gritting of this vagabond's teeth. I made her a bow that wud ha' broken yur heart altogether to behold. I mean it is not every gentleman who knows how to choose a philosopher. I now attempt to trace The more than beauty of a face Whose lineaments.

I leave all the rest to the suggestions of your own tact and generosity. I have no doubt that leather and iron acquired durability in proportion. I then finally made up my mind to the course which I afterwards pursued. I nose dat--nose all bout dat--tis my lef hand what I chops de wood wid. I personally aided him in the arrangements for the temporary entombment. I had left no shadow of a clew by which it would be possible to convict. I had indulged more freely than usual in the excesses of the wine-table. I had made free use of the cordials with which Augustus had supplied me. I could see that neither Augustus nor Peters could determine how to act. I know not what of wild change in the personal appearance of the corpse. I not be entitled to demand of you a very--a very little boon in return. I not yet av ad de plaisir to meet vid him--neither me nor my companion. I am sorry that you could not have paid us a visit at an earlier period. I was seized with an uncontrollable desire to ascend the giddy pinnacle. I told him I would be tender of his feelings--ossi tender que beefsteak. I would scarcely be paradoxical to say that a flash of lightning itself. I could not have stirred with it a feather if my life had been at issue. I could not imagine a more graceful curve than that of the os femoris. I would indeed be the basest of men not to remember her well in my will. I say--and see that your trumpery be bright in color and just in weight. I had seen the apparition--I occupying the same seat at the same window. I might never have had it in my power to demonstrate to you what it was. I never saw any one so profoundly affected as “Old Charley Goodfellow. I might here--if it so pleased me-- dilate upon the matter of habiliment. I presume you are aware of the chief principle of the embalming process. I began to make other inquiries in regard to his astronomical knowledge. I could not love the less-- So lovely was the loneliness Of a wild lake.

I was constrained to perform the operation in the best manner I was able. I found myself listening on tiptoe for the echoes of the mighty cataract. I have already urged in regard to Encke’s comet and the zodiacal light. I will strain a point and give you a free passage upon back of the beast. I could have guided you on this route as well as the youngest of my sons. I am not sure from what point of view the writer in question surveyed it. I verily believe that his last moments would have been rendered wretched. I had been looking steadily at the top of this hogshead for some minutes. I hit upon what I considered a far better expedient than either of these. I had called it a favorite of Usher’s more in sad jest than in earnest. I mean the happiness experienced in the contemplation of natural scenery. I had thought of forcing the blade in some minute crevice of the masonry. I received it with a repugnance which gained strength as I grew in years. I was in the act of insisting upon a toast of more than wonted profanity. I attended a masquerade in the palazzo of the Neapolitan Duke Di Broglio. I undid it just so much that a single thin ray fell upon the vulture eye. I felt the blood congealing in my veins--my heart ceased utterly to beat. I was immediately put to bed--although life seemed to be totally extinct. I was in the habit of spending occasionally two or three weeks at a time. I perceived a slight erection of the hair extending completely across it. I perceived a faint glimmering of light in the direction of the steerage. I had taught him none of the usual tricks for which his breed are famous. I had got through the door and closed it effectually against his pursuit. I had for some time regarded as the most imminent was that of foundering. I was in a condition to have my own way by force if I found it necessary. I should have had little trouble in imagining him a hundred years of age. I can never forget the intense emotion with which I regarded this figure. I am happy to acknowledge as belonging of right to the celebrated Fether. I had the pleasure to find that I had still twenty-five minutes to spare. I’m out of breath-- quite a desperado--prodigies of valor--_never heard. I was saved from being a “respectable hardware and commission merchant. I who write shall have long since gone my way into the region of shadows. I belaved they wud ha’ cum’d out of her hid althegither and intirely. I am heartily sick of this life and of the nineteenth century in general. I have endeavored to convey to you my conception of the Poetic Principle.

I could discover no indication whatever of a decreasing rarity in the air. I saw nothing beyond what had been stated in the “Gazette des Tribunaux. I must suppose the ship to be within the influence of some strong current. I committed to memory its external appearance and arrangement in the rack. I approached him and found him in precisely the same condition as when Dr. I half smiled in my agony as I thought of such application of such a term. I speak were but faintly perceptible--having been impressed upon the firm. I casually learned that my namesake was born on the nineteenth of January. I at length grew restive in the extreme under his distasteful supervision. I do not remember the words (*4) Florem putares nare per liquidum aethera. I knew that it had formerly required but little or no effort to remove it. I have had reason both from my own experience and the assurance of others. I could have the advantages of breathing an atmosphere comparatively pure. I viewed myself in a fragment of looking-glass which hung up in the cabin. I had good reason to congratulate myself upon having made this experiment. I preserved with great care through a long series of subsequent adventure. I should undoubtedly have entered her box and accosted her at all hazards. I will sum up in a few words what constitutes the whole pith of the story. I gave my proboscis a couple of pulls and swallowed a half dozen of drams. I presume you are conversant with the soothing practice--with its details. I shall never forget the emotions of wonder and horror with which I gazed. I would be considerate and bear as lightly as possible upon his shoulders. I could hardly forbear laughing in his face while he proceeded to discuss. I was about to relinquish my hold and give up the ghost with a good grace. I have heard it asserted that when Yellow or (Pundit will have it) Violet. I did not receive the expected message from the captain for nearly a week. I wondered that he could have heart to put on even the semblance of mirth. I had to be sent home to my button-headed family in a high state of fever. I was not unconscious of those movements which displaced you from my side. I underwent what you undergo--yet the remembrance of it hangs by me still. I observed that they always removed or settled their hats with both hands. I saw clearly that it must have been deposited by the person who found it. I expected the two eyes o' me wud ha cum'd out of my head on the spot. I crave thy pardon--indeed I am not well-- Your hand from off my shoulder. I venture to dispute their authority would be overwhelming did I not feel. I have felt The letters--with their meaning--melt To fantasies--with none.

I was suddenly seized with a spasm which lasted for more than five minutes. I took that opportunity of observing the cat and kittens through the valve. I rap him up in de paper and stuff piece ob it in he mouff--dat was de way. I'd rudder not go fer trubble dat bug--you mus git him for your own self. I considered the manner in which the parchment had come into my possession. I should have commenced with a collation and analysis of the shorter words. I was then sure that you reflected upon the diminutive figure of Chantilly. I have already suggested the probability of his availing himself of a boat. I am not altogether mistaken) to a pink horse (with green wings) that went. I shook from head to foot as if I had had the most violent fit of the ague. I had thrown a quick glance around--and that one glance was all sufficient. I resolved to lash myself securely to the water cask upon which I now held. I arose to walk it would get between my feet and thus nearly throw me down. I was busied in earnest endeavors to alleviate the melancholy of my friend. I found an account of a nearly fatal illness that occurred to Madame Pilau. I am safe--I am safe--yes--if I be not fool enough to make open confession. I perceive that it was at all affected by the one prevalent malady--unless. I had not then discovered the remarkable fact that we were of the same age. I poured out my whole soul in tears at the feet of the ethereal Ermengarde. I concluded at once that he had devoured the whole of my supply of candles. I cannot speak calmly of this event--our hearts leaped up wildly within us. I had not yet abandoned all idea being able to get up something from below. I replied that I had entire confidence in his superior delicacy of feeling. I can fix it--here is a fifty on the Bank of North America--throw the book. I copy for your amusement the Knickerbocker inscription on the marble slab. I had nothing to do but to return home and digest my impatience at leisure. I had the good fortune to recollect that in the accentuation of this drama. I was mentally repeating some passages of the "Omnipresence of the Deity. I knew that here at least I should get something like definite information. I even went so far as to humor some of his less reprehensible propensities. I arrived behind the philosopher's chair as he was inditing the 'aulos. I say who have been so much among us that you speak Egyptian fully as well.

I finally succeeded in regarding the phenomenon in its proper point of view. I presume you expected to find a letter between the stamp and the signature. I scarcely gave a thought to the mere difficulty of developing their import. I made no doubt that here was the 'devil's seat' alluded to in the MS. I spoke to you until that of the _rencontre_ with the fruiterer in question. I submit to the reader some passages which embody the suggestion alluded to. I have copied them chiefly to show you the extreme remissness of the police. I was obliged to resolve all into the mere inexplicable vagaries of madness. I could take but imperfect note of time) before I again cast my eyes upward. I slid from the embrace of the bandage and beyond the reach of the scimitar. I rolled my eyes nervously around on the barriers of iron that hemmed me in. I say that there was much to wonder at in the mere excess of art manifested. I should have resented this galling language by immediate personal violence. I left it for ever for the vanities and the turbulent triumphs of the world. I could bring to recollection all the various circumstances of my situation. I was so entirely overcome by violent agitation as to be incapable of reply. I here heard I had never heard excelled in any private circle out of Vienna. I anticipate the rising of the London sun by no less than twenty-four hours. I had made casual acquaintance a few days before) that we should turn aside. I take it for granted that she is not particularly not dangerously affected. I will candidly confess that my feelings were now of the most singular--nay. I suffered myself to be placed between two gentlemen of colossal dimensions. I have good reason to believe that it effected the sale of three Petershams. I will do my friend the justice to say that he would as soon have laid eggs. I to think of your standing quietly by and seeing me thus unhandsomely used.

I am about to make an effort at re-establishing myself in the literary world. I had fully completed these arrangements and filled the chamber as explained. I cannot forbear giving a specimen of the general _philosophy_ of the volume. I was dying with impatience for a solution of this most extraordinary riddle. I say the singularity of this coincidence absolutely stupified me for a time. I doubted not for a moment that heat had been the agent in bringing to light. I felt that the society of such a man would be to me a treasure beyond price. I could merely agree with all Paris in considering them an insoluble mystery. I wish you to glance at the little sketch I have here traced upon this paper. I have no way of telling--but he can't be more than four or five years old. I say nothing more than what must be obvious to every dispassionate observer. I have to tell should be considered rather the raving of a crude imagination. I breathed there came to my nostrils the breath of the vapour of heated iron. I could have clasped the red walls to my bosom as a garment of eternal peace. I speak seemed born for the purpose of foreshadowing the doctrines of Turgot. I could not venture to make any disturbance by opening the trap or otherwise. I now found my whole stock of provisions reduced to a single gill of liqueur. I felt the carving-knife was shaken out from the waist-band of my pantaloons. I had not a shadow of hope that the vessel would hold together until morning. I can find no more suitable place than this for introducing an account of it. I beheld my well-grounded expectations take wings to themselves and fly away. I would not wish to dwell upon the wild meaning of the quietly uttered words. I never saw any set of reasonable people so thoroughly frightened in my life. I was preparing to launch forth a new and more decided epithet of opprobrium. I conceive to be a proper sense of delicacy forbade me to broach the subject. I felt grateful to the protuberance which had been the means of my salvation. I have seen refuted the dogma--that in man's physical and spiritual nature. I derived positive pleasure even from many of the legitimate sources of pain. I thought it an unusually singular thing that he did not continue to go over. I THE happiest day—the happiest hour My seared and blighted heart hath known.

I dare say they cared very little what became of either my soul or my carcass. I would have had no hesitation in attempting to get the lunatic home by force. I could not pretend to make them intelligible to the understanding of another. I sought eagerly the volume which discussed the paintings and their histories. I perceived that our boat was not the only object in the embrace of the whirl. I have thought that even these few details would have interest for the public. I endeavored to place each member of the company in mesmeric rapport with him. I but mention it to show the vivid force of the sensations which oppressed me. I perceive the futility of all attempt at cheering a mind from which darkness. I have previously hinted) with the gray stones of the home of his forefathers. I _now_ tell you that I heard her first feeble movements in the hollow coffin. I bowed in acknowledgment—for the overpowering sense of splendor and perfume. I tore a part of the hem from the robe and placed the fragment at full length. I endured there was no physical suffering but of moral distress an infinitude. I could call to mind neither the period at which I had fallen into the trance. I never yet knew the dog who was proof against such an appeal to his courtesy. I will be with you immediately—as soon as I can make my way through the hold. I sprung to my feet as if a musket bullet had suddenly struck me to the heart. I heard Captain Guy express his resolution of pushing boldly to the southward. I have already spoken of the singular stratification of these soapstone hills. I have before spoken of as the one through which we saw the patch of blue sky. I finally concluded that my senses were impressed by a certain air of gravity. I made every effort to force my way into closer proximity with Madame Lalande. I encountered shortly after leaving Talbot's hotel will be easily explained. I am done forever with billets doux and am never to be met without SPECTACLES. I am as positive that yesterday was Sunday as I am that I sit upon this chair. I will confine myself to the momentous details of my own lamentable adventure. I now discovered the literal import of that classical phrase) had not stopped. I hope you will be able to comprehend rather more distinctly than I do myself. I well knew with what facility he soared into the regions of the purely ideal. I had the high satisfaction of finding him lift me up by the nape of the neck. I can comprehend you thus far—that certain operations of what we term Nature. I saw the old man gasp as if for breath while he threw himself amid the crowd. I'll follow thee Like an avenging spirit I'll follow thee Even unto death. I thought it as well to include in the present book as to republish by itself. I would be as much ashamed of the world's good opinion as proud of your own.

I should have been unable to accomplish even as much as I had now accomplished. I recovered myself sufficiently to attend to the ordinary cares of the balloon. I beheld as much as a sixteen-hundredth part of the whole surface of the globe. I found that it would soon be positively necessary to make use of my condenser. I tried the experiment of throwing out a handful of feathers through the valve. I had noticed an angle of no more than about seven degrees and fifteen minutes. I would here observe that very much of what is rejected as evidence by a court. I could not make out what he meant—but soon a hideous thought flashed upon me. I made a kind of half effort to influence his right arm into pursuit of my own. I am above the weakness of seeking to establish a sequence of cause and effect. I accordingly obeyed forthwith what I still considered a very singular summons. I observed that the outlines of these monstrosities were sufficiently distinct. I alternately laughed and howled as the one or the other idea grew predominant. I had fallen into a trance while absent from home--while among strangers--when. I have been told that I should call it by no other appellation--my own disease. I live shall I forget the intense agony of terror I experienced at that moment. I struck my forehead violently against the sharp corner of an iron-bound crate. I ever see one particle of this after leaving the parallel of Bennet's Islet. I felt a numbness of body and mind--a dreaminess of sensation but this was all. I have never known the paternal name of her who was my friend and my betrothed. I have always understood that the majority of lunatics were of the gentler sex. I received a terrible beating--after which I rolled under a sofa and lay still. I tumbled headlong down the ample chimney and alit upon the dining-room hearth. I could not comprehend why there were three state-rooms for these four persons. I longed but was impotent to undeceive you--after some days there came upon me. I am naturally anxious that what I have written should circulate as I wrote it.

I have not forgotten how a 'good word in season' from you made 'The Raven. I would ask you (if I dared) to say something of these lines if they please you. I could suffer an escape of so much as would be requisite to prevent explosion). I think you had better not be too severe with the poor fellow--don't flog him. I perceived that the design was to drop a bullet from the left eye of the skull. I seemed to be upon the verge of comprehension without power to comprehend--men. I perfectly well know that you are innocent of the atrocities in the Rue Morgue. I have played him false--a fact of which I might keep him for ever in ignorance. I am not more sure that I breathe than I am that the letter is not at the Hotel. I commenced the passes which I had already found most effectual in subduing him. I remembered well that in no instance I had successfully resisted their attacks. I have mentioned some few of the more prominent and august calamities on record. I shuddered as I assigned to them in imagination a sensitive and sentient power. I was too greatly excited at the time to pay much attention to the circumstance. I had a right to expect so much--he was going--he would abandon me--he was gone. I proceed in utter hopelessness of obtaining credence for all that I shall tell. I was in momentary expectation that the negro would fall against the pea-jacket. I believe it was not long after Captain Patten's visit that Captain Colquhoun. I represented to the captain that we might easily make this group on our return. I had imbibed a taste and now they came back to me as if in the dotage of grief. I could not have been more surprised at the sound of the trump of the Archangel. I listened in an extremity of astonishment which I need not attempt to describe. I prevented him from helping himself too freely to the liquors upon the table. I cannot exactly comprehend--puts me at once into a pitiable state of agitation. I will myself induct you into the full joys and wonders of your novel existence. I regret that its length renders it unsuitable for the purposes of this lecture.

I should arouse both master and valet to the expediency of removing the treasure. I cannot help admiring the animal for the excellent use he is making of his feet. I do not expect you to believe one half I say--I would be a fool indeed if I did. I have before observed that it is by prominences above the plane of the ordinary. I wish merely to caution you against the whole tone of L'Etoile's suggestion. I thought his unceasingly agitated mind was laboring with some oppressive secret. I indulged a vague hope that the excitement which now agitated the hypochondriac. I hid myself among the water-lilies that I might discover the actions of the man. I might possibly be fool enough to confess the murder of which I had been guilty. I had regarded as fabulous and frivolous in the tales respecting the Inquisition. I could no longer doubt the doom prepared for me by monkish ingenuity in torture. I took a frenzied pleasure in contrasting its downward with its lateral velocity. I was immersed in a cataleptic trance of more than usual duration and profundity. I had not ventured to stir any of my limbs--but now I violently threw up my arms. I was never kinder to the old man than during the whole week before I killed him. I first saw an account of this matter in the "Tour" of Prince Puckler Muskau. I therefore struggled alone in my endeavors to call back the spirit ill hovering. I was a second time aware of some vague sound issuing from the region of the bed. I dare venture to record this apparent impossibility as a matter of serious fact. I really believe it would have received little if any abatement had the features. I shall feel at your appearance should unfortunately bring me back again to life. I make no doubt that a track of some sort must have existed in very remote times. I began in a tone of the deepest indignation--"monster and double-winded idiot. I am aware that some grinders have actually afforded to "go on" for this sum.

I should meet with atmosphere essentially the same as at the surface of the earth. I have been guilty in the death of the creditors upon my departure from Rotterdam. I relate it will be seen that between the fate of the unhappy Mary Cecilia Rogers. I forego this rapturous delight for that of a whole century of ordinary existence. I had found the spell of the picture in an absolute life-likeness of expression. I packed up some bundles of such merchandise as was most precious and least bulky. I deliberated about casting it in the well in the yard--about packing it in a box. I had no reason to believe that (with the exception of the matter of relationship. I began to suppose that I must have slept for an inordinately long period of time. I grew deadly sick--my vision failed--even the glaring eyeballs above me grew dim. I had expected (for I remembered very nearly the spot in which I had placed them). I had survived my confinement for so long a period breathing so oppressive an air. I got below I commenced disguising myself so as to represent the corpse of Rogers. I now called to mind that three of us had entered the fissure from the main gorge. I had been troubled--of a chronic rheumatism--of a twinge of hereditary gout--and. I might have her (plum and all) whenever I could badger my grand-uncle Rumgudgeon. I shall mention only two more--the tone transcendental and the tone heterogeneous. I learn that when this species of telegraph was first put into operation by Horse. I cannot very well express to you the effect of this intelligence upon the people.

I have much--very much which it would give me the greatest pleasure to communicate. I'm berry sartain dat Massa Will bin bit somewhere bout de head by dat goole-bug. I have said enough to convince you that ciphers of this nature are readily soluble. I have just spoken with that _very peculiar_ shrill (or harsh) and _unequal_ voice. I perceived that what seamen term the _chopping_ character of the ocean beneath us. I had contemptuously destroyed--_a brute beast_ to work out for _me_--for me a man. I at once concluded that my excited fancy had deceived me)--it appeared to me that. I had not believed their author acquainted--afforded me little matter for surprise. I resolved to make him feel the whole extent of the malice with which I was imbued. I called the Mighty Ruler of the Universe to witness the pious solemnity of my vow. I have just related would have effectually cooled my incipient passion for the sea. I examined them closely to ascertain if they emitted any light from the state-room. I felt of being able to accomplish one of these two purposes in the last emergency. I had taken this axe into the forecandle and laid it in one of the larboard berths. I have myself seen several which would weigh from twelve to fifteen hundred pounds. I remember he had given some directions about it just before our making the island. I been so fortunate as to have one with me--but I had not--and was thus in despair. I would prefer not taking the other bottle at present--and once in the affirmative. I had to press forcibly upon the lid to keep it down while I secured it with nails. I need scarcely observe that a poem deserves its title only inasmuch as it excites.

I was harassed beyond endurance by the adventitious miseries attending my situation. I had already clutched one of the valve ropes with the view of attempting a descent. I nevertheless did not think it expedient to attempt getting on my feet immediately. I had been surprised by the united velocities of their descent and my own elevation. I now carefully replaced this head portion in the indentation whence I had taken it. I would really give fifty thousand francs to any one who would aid me in the matter. I have no doubt he took excellent care--although this is a point I cannot determine. I had scarcely more difficulty in maintaining my hold and footing in this situation. I find it impossible to comprehend--"the truly _substantive_ vastness of infinity. I knew the steady philosophy of the man too well to apprehend any scruples from him. I particularly inquired if he had at any time met in London the Marchesa di Mentoni. I have not known that into the pit it was the object of the burning iron to urge me. I spurned even the common restraints of decency in the mad infatuation of my revels. I had at length effected the manoeuvre of getting Glendinning as my sole antagonist. I not told you that what you mistake for madness is but over-acuteness of the sense. I had come to the resolution of making myself heard at all events by those on board. I could restrain him from plunging into the sea with the view of swimming toward it. I splashed the water vigorously with both hands and feet as I swam towards the hulk. I was of soon arriving at land of some description upon the course we were pursuing. I saw that she must die--and I struggled desperately in spirit with the grim Azrael. I could in no manner define their unusual meaning or regulate their vague intensity. I call to mind the precise words of the dear promise you made to Eugenie last night. I am thunderstruck at the extent of your information--I am positively--upon my soul. I was actuated by that habitual prudence which has ever been my predominating trait. I feel a degree of proud satisfaction in permitting the reader to judge for himself. I burn to know the incidents of your own passage through the dark Valley and Shadow. I will be minute in relating all--but at what point shall the weird narrative begin. I observed that the upper and lower tiers of wings were connected by a strong chain. I knew By that infinity with which my wife Was dearer to my soul than its soul-life.

I nebbber did see sick a deuced bug--he kick and he bite ebery ting what cum near him. I became quite vexed at you for insisting that my drawing resembled a death's-head. I found that the man-animals in general were a nation of the most powerful magicians. I could not help smiling at the simplicity with which the honest Jonas Ramus records. I always attributed my failure at these points to the disordered state of his health. I should fail in any attempt to convey an idea of the exact character of the studies. I had the family vault so remodelled as to admit of being readily opened from within. I had been coolly anticipating--he proposed to double our already extravagant stakes. I found the undertaking even a more serious task than my fears had led me to imagine. I came directly upon it (having squeezed my way through innumerable narrow windings). I should make no attempt at forcing my way out at least under existing circumstances. I had been prevented from feeling by the immersion I had undergone since drinking it. I snatched from the scrutiny of the world a being whom destiny compelled me to adore. I paid these people no attention whatever--I just stepped into the shop of an artist. I saw clearly that something of a whimsical nature was upon the tapis with my friend. I at length regained sufficient temper to listen to his very extraordinary discourse. I might as well here observe that this confirmation of my lady's partiality for Mr. I remained motionless (all my limbs were dislocated and my head twisted on one side). I am aware that by many I shall be held to blame for speaking in a manner so cursory. I presume that all the entire mummies that come to hand are of the race of Scarabaei. I cannot better introduce the few poems which I shall present for your consideration. I fell gently To sleep on her breast-- Deeply to sleep From the heaven of her breast. I think not so--her infelicity "Seemed to have years too many"--Ah luckless lady.

I verily believe the idiots supposed that I had entered into a compact with the devil. I felt irresistibly impressed with a presentiment of some vast good fortune impending. I could not suppose him capable of constructing any of the more abstruse cryptographs. I should be profoundly astonished at finding so eminent a chemist as Professor Draper. I am detailing a chain of facts--and wish not to leave even a possible link imperfect. I had knocked down with a blow from the pump-handle at the commencement of the attack. I saw distinctly that no little impression had been made upon the mind of Captain Guy. I was suddenly aware of a concussion resembling nothing I had ever before experienced. I found it impossible to comprehend him either in his moral or his physical relations. I should meet the board of directors of the company and settle the terms of a renewal. I solemnly assure the reader that these extracts are taken at random from my Day-Book.

I had actually attained an elevation of seventeen miles above the surface of the earth. I journeyed far down away into another country where it was all one dim and vague lake. I had no hesitation in attributing her uneasiness chiefly to a difficulty in breathing. I have only to use it properly and I shall arrive at the gold of which it is the index. I observed the remnants of the hull of what appeared to have been a ship's long boat. I can call to mind no similar occurrence producing so general and so intense an effect. I never yet encountered the mere mathematician who could be trusted out of equal roots. I could reason myself into sufficient courage to sit up and look out into the distance. I called to mind the great variety of buoyant matter that strewed the coast of Lofoden. I studied him in his own works as well as in those of his European and American echoes. I had scarcely stepped from my wooden bed of horror upon the stone floor of the prison. I had begun to consider whether the numerous little glades that led hither and thither. I had to endure only the knowing and strangely sarcastic smiles of my namesake himself. I fell back with a shudder upon the couch from which I had been so startlingly aroused. I bethought me that there might be some difficulty in obtaining access to the premises. I could not at first precisely ascertain to what degree the occurrence had affected me. I perceived the huge jaws at the extremity of the proboscis suddenly expand themselves. I giv'd it such a nate little broth of a squaze as made it all up into raspberry jam. I am at a loss to know how or why it was that we pursued neither the one nor the other. I shall just step over to Ponnonner's and get embalmed for a couple of hundred years. I IN youth I have known one with whom the Earth In secret communing held--as he with it. I could not love except where Death Was mingling his with Beauty's breath-- Or Hymen.

I proceeded forthwith to adjust around the car the apparatus belonging to the condenser. I felt that you could not avoid casting your eyes upward to the great nebula in Orion. I repeat that the circumstance of the articles in question having remained undiscovered. I am indebted altogether to the "Isitsoornot" for the means of correcting the error. I had no intention of alarming you unnecessarily--but you should use all proper caution. I might have had courage to end my misery at once by a plunge into one of these abysses. I busied myself in endeavors to account for the error I had committed in my measurement. I supposed to be the pictured image of a huge pendulum such as we see on antique clocks. I could see him distinctly by the light of the moon--his face was paler than any marble. I thought I had never seen a nicer little room than the one in which I now found myself. I could grope my way through the confused mass of lumber among which I now found myself. I was too well aware that we were far from any land to indulge in a hope of that nature. I was habitually fettered in the shackles of the drug) I would call aloud upon her name. I had felt that some palpable although invisible object had passed lightly by my person. I exclaimed with an energy that had nearly drawn upon us the observation of the company. I found the exactions of the profession somewhat too much for my delicate state of body. I labored under the disadvantage of having no monkey--and American streets are so muddy. I had imbibed a prescience of our Fate from comparison of China the simple and enduring. I contending that a popular sentiment arising with absolute spontaneity- that is to say. I I imagine--I have some faint--some very faint idea--of the remarkable honor-" "Oh. I have been happy--tho' but in a dream I have been happy--& I love the theme-- Dreams.

I should behold the rising luminary many hours at least before the citizens of Rotterdam. I had no hesitation in supposing it to be the southern disk of the ices of the Polar Sea. I disentangled this little tuft from the rigidly clutched fingers of Madame L'Espanye. I wish to call your attention to the distinction which is made between 'drowned bodies. I have before suggested that a genuine blackguard is never without a pocket-handkerchief. I now began to feel ashamed of the contemptuous familiarity with which I had treated him. I distinctly recollected that there were _some_ of them which were not disfigured at all. I am almost ashamed to own--that the terror and horror with which the animal inspired me. I said these words I busied myself among the pile of bones of which I have before spoken. I felt every fibre in my frame thrill as if I had touched the wire of a galvanic battery. I felt the sharp teeth pressing vigorously upon the woollen which enveloped my neck--yet. I could plainly see the effects of the conversation in the countenances of those present. I felled Parker with a blow on the head from the pump-handle which I had brought with me. I must still be allowed to feel some degree of gratification at having been instrumental. I was still more earnestly bent on prosecuting the voyage to the southward without delay. I deserved to be so cursed with the removal of my beloved in the hour of her making them. I listened in an agony of superstitious terror--but there was no repetition of the sound. I trembled not--I stirred not--for a crowd of unutterable fancies connected with the air. I call him a young gentleman--there was something which perplexed me in no little degree. I proceeded down one of the populous and very pleasant streets of the now deserted Edina. I hurled after the scoundrel these vehement words of Demosthenes-- Andrew O'Phlegethon. I have it--a painting or so--and this is what he has been bargaining about with Nicolino. I fancied I could distinguish the precise moment when he fairly disengaged the lid--also. I had seen and heard--and I can scarcely explain what feeling of repugnance it was which. I hurried up to him and found that he had received what might be termed a serious injury. I and my ANNABEL LEE-- With a love that the wingéd seraphs of Heaven Coveted her and me.

I thought it prudent not to exacerbate the growing moodiness of his temper by any comment. I hope you have not been so foolish as to take offence at any little _brusquerie_ of mine. I was silly enough to pay the full Amontillado price without consulting you in the matter. I have described the brook as meandering very irregularly through the whole of its course. I then gave the same appearance to my hands by drawing on a pair of white woollen mittens. I have searched every library in Europe for the works of Doctor Tarr and Professor Fether. I shall content myself with a compendious account of some of the more "modern instances. I intend to believe nothing henceforward that has anything of the 'singular' about it. I jist took hould of the ind of her little finger in the most dillikitest manner in natur. I could not do a wiser thing than just eat a mouthful of supper and go immediately to bed.

I meditated upon these the more intense grew the interest which had been excited within me. I made every endeavor to conciliate the three creditors who had given me so much annoyance. I have been misled by some circumstance into which he will not take the trouble to inquire. I should never be able to tell my old companions on shore about the mysteries I should see. I have had several conversations on this subject with an old school-master of the district. I know not how or why it was--its evident fondness for myself rather disgusted and annoyed. I threw on my clothes with haste (for I felt that I should sleep no more during the night). I was wide awake when I screamed--but they restored me to the full possession of my memory. I invited a small party of the most dissolute students to a secret carousal in my chambers. I gazed around me with a startled and ardent eye--that I loitered away my boyhood in books. I had a confused recollection of having put them carefully away just before falling asleep. I could not sufficiently rejoice that I had persisted in bringing him with me from the box. I reached a conclusion which wrought in me great wonder why I had not arrived at it before. I never before so particularly observed as when I uttered the four last words of my remark. I think the notion that no poet can form a correct estimate of his own writings is another.

I proceeded--with what caution--with what foresight--with what dissimulation I went to work. I could think of none which would account for his suffering me to remain so long a prisoner. I had been hitherto so confused in mind as to have overlooked this consideration altogether. I could not fail to observe a similar increase in the nervous irritation of her temperament. I joined the society it was my endeavor to introduce a better style of thinking and writing. I exerted all the power of my lungs to make that predicament known to the æronaut overhead. I should be sorry to discuss in a tone of unsuitable levity--occurred in the summer of 18--. I never heard--yet it were well Had I but heard it with its thrilling tones In earlier days.

I continued for a long time to wander about the most obscure streets without object whatever. I should have been made aware of it by any internal evidence of an inversion--that is to say. I had slept off the fumes of the night's debauch--I experienced a sentiment half of horror. I ever yet in the contemplation of the certainly glowing yet too concrete reveries of Fuseli. I hearkened to its reverberations as it dashed against the sides of the chasm in its descent. I have now to tell is of my own actual knowledge--of my own positive and personal experience. I read no "Night Thoughts"--no fustian about churchyards--no bugaboo tales--such as this. I did for seven long nights--every night just at midnight--but I found the eye always closed. I thought it barely possible that the written side might have some unevenness on its surface. I believe the name 'Hop-Frog' was not that given to the dwarf by his sponsors at baptism. I can never forget the more than mortal agony which was depicted in that ghastly face of his.

I would not suffer my thoughts for any length of time to dwell upon these latter speculations. I had no hope that either cat or kittens would ever live to tell the tale of their misfortune. I should rather have looked to see the things all lying on the ground and trampled under foot. I will tell you a story that will convince you I ought to know something of the Moskoe-ström. I need not go over the details of Von Kempelen's confession (as far as it went) and release. I noticed that in less than a minute afterward his corpse had all the stern rigidity of stone. I presume that no member of the party then present had been unaccustomed to death-bed horrors. I paused to think--what was it that so unnerved me in the contemplation of the House of Usher. I felt that thus only should I look upon it--such was the character of phantasm which it wore. I saw that some ten or twelve vibrations would bring the steel in actual contact with my robe. I had done for the comfort of her spirit she would watch over me in that spirit when departed. I could not refrain from saying to him on this head had the effect of inducing him to push on. I at length succeeded in nerving myself to the task which duty thus once more had pointed out. I felt a forbidden spirit enkindling within me--would Morella place her cold hand upon my own. I had attained that point of the ravine in the mountains at which I had encountered the hyena. I concealed nothing--felt that I had a right to conceal nothing--from her confiding affection. I mention his weakness I have allusion to a bizarre old-womanish superstition which beset him. I returned to my boudoir--there to ponder upon some method of eluding my wife's penetration. I determined to make my wife believe that I was suddenly smitten with a passion for the stage. I'll be darned if I don't have to make thee a present of a big box of the Chateau-Margaux.

I had indeed spent some money and great labor in adapting the apparatus to the object intended. I now thought it possible that the coating of dirt might have something to do with the failure. I have had means of information about this matter--means of which you could never have dreamed. I just copied into the middle of the blank sheet the words-- "Un dessein si funeste. I knew what he meant by that one word well enough--I knew what he wished to make me understand. I tell you is truth--I began to reflect how magnificent a thing it was to die in such a manner. I repeat that in landscape arrangements alone is the physical nature susceptible of exaltation. I not now dying a victim to the horror and the mystery of the wildest of all sublunary visions. I lowered him down over the edge of the precipice until the handkerchiefs were stretched tight. I daily discovered in the conceptions of the child the adult powers and faculties of the woman. I actually hesitated about accepting the legacy with the useless and annoying proviso attached. I deviate slightly from the general usage among gentlemen in similar cases of personal affront. I awoke just in time to perceive that a rat had ran off with the lighted candle from the stand. I cannot say but that I preferred the travelling by the slow train of a hundred miles the hour. I should have credit for this arrangement--a far wiser one than that of La Fontaine and others.

I intended each of the smaller casks to occupy respectively during the inflation of the balloon. I should have rejoiced at any interruption which might have enabled me to get the wanderer home. I at once looked upon the figure of the animal as a kind of punning or hieroglyphical signature. I reflected that it had been a point with the writer to run his words together without division. I hear the shouts of the herald proclaiming his approach in the pompous phraseology of the East. I felt that this whole train of thought would necessarily pass through the mind of the Minister. I need not tell you how sceptical I have hitherto been on the topic of the soul's immortality. I feel that the period will sooner or later arrive when I must abandon life and reason together. I was more intent on observing the arrangements of the dwelling which had so much interested me. I must have felt with the energy of a man what I now find stamped upon memory in lines as vivid. I might at length pass onward to the goal of a wisdom too divinely precious not to be forbidden. I am the husband of Madame Lalande--of Madame Stephanie Lalande--with whom my good old relative. I could not bring myself to believe that _the remarkable_ something to which I alluded just now. I propounded those questions the solution of which had become a matter so essential to my peace. I am burning with anxiety to hear the details of that stupendous event which threw you among us. I then observed upon the countenance of the singular being whom I had watched so pertinaciously. I entertained a suspicion which was none the less strong because I kept it altogether to myself. I made sich an illigant obaysance that it wud ha quite althegither bewildered the brain o' ye. I now recollect The words you used were that the Earl you knew Was neither learned nor mirthful.

I had forgotten that Shakespeare will not flourish for seventeen hundred and fifty years to come. I have been warned of the danger which would result from giving him reason to suspect our design. I became aware that a building of some kind lay at the foot of a gentle declivity just before me. I could see nothing distinctly on account of the mist which occupied all the little valley below. I would here imply by the word--"romance" and "womanliness" seem to me convertible terms. I suppose you can't tell how long you have been buried--only three days--this is the twentieth. I do not remember that any navigator speaks of having seen them weighing more than eight hundred. I mean that it was impossible to form a guess respecting his age by any data personally afforded. I consoled myself with the reflection that the tide of ill luck would not run against me forever. I observed that he now took the course in which had gone the greater number of the audience--but. I don't send an order to town this very afternoon for a double box of the best that can be got. I am by no means certain that the true limits of the critical duty are not grossly misunderstood.

I should readily be enabled to condense it in sufficient quantity for the purposes of respiration. I knew he would feel some curiosity in regard to the identity of the person who had outwitted him. I have already described the unnatural curiosity which had taken the place of my original terrors. I was not long in perceiving that if man is to be intellectually convinced of his own immortality. I must have returned upon my steps--thus supposing the circuit nearly double what it actually was. I shrank involuntarily from their glassy stare to the contemplation of the thin and shrunken lips. I shall not have a chance of coming down again for some time--perhaps for three or four days more. I could perceive in the countenances of my companions that they had made up their minds to perish. I cannot but lament the most unfortunate and bloody events which immediately arose from my advice. I could no longer doubt that we had been precipitate in our preparations--that Rowena still lived. I said and what I had not the courage to say--between what I did and what I had half a mind to do. I had now passed my fifth olympiad) five years in prospect are very much the same as five hundred. I discovered the interesting girl to whom Monsieur Maillard had presented me in the little parlor. I was startled by something very cold which pressed with a gentle pressure on the back of my neck. I gleaned from what he said that he was the genius who presided over the _contretemps_ of mankind. I cannot get over a kind of giddiness whenever a balloon passes us in a current directly overhead. I had just then most at heart--I mean the mysterious circumstances attending the Bugaboo war--and. I more heartily despise than your eccentric fools who prate about method without understanding it. I found the necessary outlay of capital too great to permit of my "going on" under a shilling.

I spent hour after hour in reflecting upon the most convenient method of putting an end to my life. I now too late discovered the great rashness of which I had been guilty in discharging the ballast. I perceived a great portion of the earth's visible area to the eastward involved in thick shadow. I called to mind the poor fellow's speech about the beetle's being "the index of his fortune. I could perceive no mode in which any one of them could be brought to bear upon the matter in hand. I shall never--I know that I shall never--be satisfied with regard to the nature of my conceptions. I _did_ escape--and as you are already in possession of the mode in which this escape was effected. I lay at length and glanced upward) there poured down noiselessly and continuously into the valley. I thus peered down from under the fog canopy could not have been more than four hundred yards long. I recognise the first ambiguous monitions of the destiny which afterwards so fully overshadowed me. I perceived that we were even singularly alike in general contour of person and outline of feature. I have already more than once spoken of the disgusting air of patronage which he assumed toward me. I shall have frequent occasion to mention him hereafter in the course of my narrative--a narrative. I now steadied myself as well as possible so as to have a good view of all that was passing within. I found my imagination growing terribly excited by thoughts of the vast depths yet to be descended. I remembered where was deposited a decanter of light wine which had been ordered by her physicians. I perceived symptoms of even more than the general interest in the countenance of one of the party. I tell you distinctly that I am going to punish you for all your impertinences by being as tedious. I again repaired to the list--but here I saw distinctly that no servant was to come with the party. I niver could rade the copperplate printin on account of being lift handed) was all about Mounseer. I had not made an end of my queries before the silent member again touched me quietly on the elbow. I have dreamed of joy departed-- But a waking dreams of life and light Hath left me broken-hearted.

I should have added that she put them out at compound interest until they amounted to seventy-seven. I could not see how this could have been ascertained at all in the immediate vicinity of the vortex. I was disappointed to find that the wreck of a Dutch merchant ship overtook it and went down before. I had myself no power to move from the upright position I had assumed upon first hearing the shriek. I could not help perceiving the absence of the paddings which I had so carefully prepared--and then. I could not bring myself to abandon an animal who had now been twice instrumental in saving my life. I then say that I longed with an earnest and consuming desire for the moment of Morella's decease. I felt the full force and truth of all that has been said or sung concerning "love at first sight. I had not happened to hear my old mother talk about setting me up on my own hook in the grocery way. I could not have completed my third snore when there came a furious ringing at the street-door bell. I scarcely more than muttered "Other friends have flown before-- On the morrow _he_ will leave me. I have often thought I could distinctly hear the sound of the darkness as it stole over the horizon. I see The wantonest singing birds Are lips--and all thy melody Of lip-begotten words-- 2 Thine eyes.

I shall now proceed to lay before you the result of an attempt so apparently audacious in conception. I knew that you could not say to yourself 'stereotomy' without being brought to think of atomies. I will forthwith entertain you (and him if he pleases) with the sequel of this very remarkable story. I quivered in every nerve to think how slight a sinking of the machinery would precipitate that keen. I now met with no important difficulty in proceeding along the line until I finally reached the nail. I had used that I should never have been able to get upon it but for the timely assistance of Peters. I discovered the bows of two canoes projecting from behind a large rock which ran out into the water. I strained my vision to detect any motion in the corpse--but there was not the slightest perceptible. I grieve that I can only speak with that species of indefinite definiteness which mathematicians are. I have reached these lands but newly From an ultimate dim Thule-- From a wild weird clime that lieth. I imagine to myself the scowl of your spiritual eye upon the profanity of that scurrilous Ursa Major.

I revolved carefully over in my memory the wild and sometimes unintelligible reasonings of the writer. I could not help thinking that the subject admitted room for doubt and great latitude for speculation. I presume you have at last made up your mind that there is no such thing as overreaching the Minister. I felt that I tottered upon the brink--I averted my eyes-- There was a discordant hum of human voices. I had been subject to attacks of the singular disorder which physicians have agreed to term catalepsy. I will relate one of these adventures by way of introduction to a longer and more momentous narrative. I could distinctly perceive his eyes fastened upon me with an expression of the most deadly animosity. I have tried in vain to detect the irregularity and to trace home my own perception of "the strange. I loved her with a love more fervent than I had believed it possible to feel for any denizen of earth. I took it for a rumbling in my ears--such as a man sometimes experiences when getting very drunk--but. I had a reason of my own for knowing that she couldn't git down the stares althegither and intirely.

I had not believed it possible that a cloud of this nature could be sustained at so great an elevation. I knocked off the neck of a bottle which I drew from a long row of its fellows that lay upon the mould. I must believe that my first mental development had in it much of the uncommon--even much of the outre. I suppose all at the table were too much fatigued themselves to notice our jaded appearance--of course. I have since found that this species of partial oblivion is usually brought about by sudden transition. I believe that not one of us had at this time the slightest suspicion of the good faith of the savages. I may mention a singular coincidence of sound attending the names of some of my immediate predecessors. I claim'd and won usurpingly-- Hath not the same fierce heirdom given Rome to the Caesar--this to me.

I can conceive nothing more sublimating than the strange peril and novelty of an adventure such as this. I felt entire confidence in his having made a satisfactory investigation--so far as his labors extended. I have previously alluded as observable only in particular moments of the highest artificial excitement. I made use of every opportunity to strengthen the lashings which held me to the remains of the windlass. I forgot everything but the presence and the majestic loveliness of the vision which confronted my gaze. I feel I have only to suggest this little point to you once more to make sure of your full acquiescence. I should have gone to work in getting up the impostos on the lintels of even the little palace at Carnac.

I am led to attribute these frequent escapes to the only natural cause which can account for such effect. I was finally disengaged from my perilous situation and taken on board--for the body proved to be my own. I had no doubt whatever that the want of water or the confined atmosphere of the hold had driven him mad. I endured at any period of this fearful drama while I occupied myself in the arrangement of the lots. I am indebted for memoranda of many subjects which would otherwise have been crowded from my remembrance. I design here to give a history of the calamitous events which have so lately occurred within its limits. I grant you that in Fum-Fudge the greatness of a lion is in proportion to the size of his proboscis--but. I am by no means sure that a pumpkin pie a la Desoulieres would not have been very capital eating indeed. I CANNOT just now remember when or where I first made the acquaintance of that truly fine-looking fellow. I am the same philosopher who wrote each of the three hundred treatises commemorated by Diogenes Laertes. I have therefore herein combined 'Al Araaf' and 'Tamerlane' with other poems hitherto unprinted.

I observed now that even the lightest vapors never rose to more than ten miles above the level of the sea. I mention it at all but to define the day of the last conversation I there held with my singular namesake. I at length hit upon the idea of working upon the superstitious terrors and guilty conscience of the mate. I was never made aware of her entrance into my closed study save by the dear music of her low sweet voice. I sufficiently recovered my senses to comprehend the terrific predicament in which I stood or rather hung.

I finally succeeded--partly by selling enough of my household furniture to satisfy a moiety of their claim. I have shown how it is that the body of a drowning man becomes specifically heavier than its bulk of water. I found myself emerging from total unconsciousness into the first feeble and indefinite sense of existence. I said her knowledge was such as I have never known in woman--but where breathes the man who has traversed. I was indeed the first adventurer--the very first and sole adventurer who had ever penetrated its recesses. I remarked before that in proportion to the poetical talent would be the justice of a critique upon poetry.

I had in contemplation merely a stroll with the individual in question--it would not be my policy to bid St. I now bitterly repented my folly in quitting a comfortable home to peril my life in such adventures as this. I will therefore put you upon an expeditious and decisive plan of obtaining this very necessary information. I set foot in Paris ere I had fresh evidence of the detestable interest taken by this Wilson in my concerns. I was just in that condition of mind which prepares a young and susceptible man for any act of extravagance. I would have the judicious reader pause before accusing such asseverations of an undue quantum of absurdity. I cannot conclude these details of some very singular passages in a life at all times sufficiently eventful. I easily understood as belonging to the race of swell pick-pockets with which all great cities are infested.

I shall have leisure to refresh my memory in regard to the astrology which I learned at Salamanca when young. I first beheld this apparition--for I could scarcely regard it as less--my wonder and my terror were extreme. I could bring myself to admit the identity of the wan being before me with the companion of my early boyhood. I could induce my poor companions to believe that this sad reverse in our prospects had actually taken place. I feel how much even of incipient madness might have been discovered in the gorgeous and fantastic draperies. I indeed ignorant of the flowers and the vine--but the hemlock and the cypress overshadowed me night and day. I am about to make will add another to the already almost innumerable instances of the truth of the position. I spoke of my fear that she might quit the city before I could have the opportunity of a formal introduction. I accomplished was the demolition of the crystal which protected the dial of the clock upon the mantel-piece. I reach'd my home--my home no more-- For all had flown who made it so-- I pass'd from out its mossy door.

I need hardly be at the trouble of explaining the nature or the intensity of the gratification thus derivable. I first observed an alteration in his conduct while rubbing in the phosphorus on the paper in my last attempt. I alluded to the romantic circumstances of our first meeting--even to the glances which had passed between us. I made my retreat from the house in a very bitter spirit of animosity against the whole race of the Bas-Bleus. I was saying that I am not at all pushed for time--that the business upon which I took the liberty of calling.

I been absorbed in reflection) the extraordinary manner in which the speaker had chimed in with my meditations. I unwittingly daubed with a tar-brush the edges of a neatly-folded studding-sail which lay near me on a barrel. I presume because their language formed the connecting link between that of the horse and that of the rooster). I had been pondering made its way slowly into the darkness from out the light at the western end of the island. I gazed directly upward at it (for its position was immediately over my own) I fancied that I saw it in motion. I added no brief appendix to the long catalogue of vices then usual in the most dissolute university of Europe. I confess that I felt myself bursting with indignation at the timid and ill-timed suggestions of our commander. I give the words of an acute and intelligent Parisian--"_ne demeure qu'un seul fois dans un corps sensible. I think it much safer upon consideration to say as little as possible about an affair so delicate--so delicate. I resolved to prosecute immediate inquiry among my acquaintances touching the Brevet Brigadier General himself. I have said that Ellison was remarkable in the continuous profusion of good gifts lavished upon him by Fortune. I mean the most liberal public or recognized conception of the idea involved in the phrase "poetic sentiment.

I might have your counsel and assistance in furthering the views of Fate and of the bug"-- "My dear Legrand. I went as passenger--having no other inducement than a kind of nervous restlessness which haunted me as a fiend. I did not abandon the search until I had become fully satisfied that the thief is a more astute man than myself. I have given the king a pinch or two in order to wake him up so far that he may stop making that horrible noise. I will not deny that when I called to mind the sinister countenance of the person whom I met upon the staircase. I may assign to you something that shall have at least the faint aspect of a cause for my wearing these fetters. I had the greatest difficulty in bringing to recollection the various circumstances connected with my situation. I laughed with a long and bitter laugh as I found no traces of the first in the channel where I laid the second.

I had imagined that the habitual endurance of the atmospheric pressure at the surface of the earth was the cause. I repeat--it is exceedingly hard to comprehend how the articles could have remained in this thicket undiscovered. I feel that I have been guilty of great indiscretion in withholding from you and the king (who I am sorry to say. I speak I regarded them only as prophetic glimpses of a destiny which I felt myself in a measure bound to fulfil. I hardly know why she was chosen in preference to other good vessels belonging to the same owners--but so it was. I was obliged to abandon all hope of it until such time as Talbot should think proper to return from the country. I had no doubt that she had captivated my friend's heart by the more enduring graces of the intellect and soul. I shuddered at self-murder as the most decided of atrocities while the tabby cat purred strenuously upon the rug. I have noticed that the effect of our speeches is not always proportionate with their importance in our own eyes.

I underwent contributed also to render me nearly incapable of making any exertion for the preservation of my life. I have in mind that the shadows of the trees which fell upon the lake remained not on the surface where they fell. I wouldn't mind giving my individual check for fifty thousand francs to any one who could obtain me that letter. I reined my horse to the precipitous brink of a black and lurid tarn that lay in unruffled lustre by the dwelling. I cannot better describe than as the unformed half of that idea of deliverance to which I have previously alluded. I no longer dared trust myself out of the immediate presence of those who were aware of my proneness to catalepsy. I remained three days and nights (as nearly as I could guess) in my hiding-place without getting out of it at all. I experienced a sudden rush of blood to my temples--a giddy and overpowering sense of deliverance and reanimation. I considered the sound as more nearly resembling that which proceeds from an empty barrel beaten with a big stick. I now began very clearly to perceive that the object before me was nothing more nor less than my new acquaintance.

I was sorely put out by the absence of all else--of the body to my imagined instrument--of the text for my context. I could not remember--and it was they who had buried me as a dog--nailed up in some common coffin--and thrust deep. I have since frequently examined my conduct on this occasion with sentiments of displeasure as well as of surprise. I determined to make the experiment and passed my finger very carefully over the side which first presented itself. I could not have been more thoroughly astounded--astounded only--not offended or disgusted in the slightest degree. I now said to myself--"something he wishes not to be put in the hold--something to be kept under his own eye--ah. I will not be bound to say that I ever heard him make use of such a figure of speech as "I'll bet you a dollar. I will expound to you--as I alone can--the secret of the enginery that effected the Rattleborough miracle--the one.

I despair of conveying to the reader any distinct conception of the marvels which my friend did actually accomplish. I broke my way from the ball-room into a small ante-chamber adjoining--dragging him unresistingly with me as I went. I must besides do the driver the justice to state that he did not forget to throw after me the largest of my trunks.

I say that these--which are the laws of mesmerism in its general features--it would be supererogation to demonstrate. I am that perverseness is one of the primitive impulses of the human heart--one of the indivisible primary faculties. I saw--what I heard--what I felt--what I thought--had about it nothing of the unmistakable idiosyncrasy of the dream. I felt a very pardonable pride--believing that I could trace a descent from the immortal author of the "Chronicles. I observed that the aperture through which I had thrust my head was an opening in the dial-plate of a gigantic clock.

I could easily perceive that the balloon now hovered above the range of great lakes in the continent of North America. I had probably not been deceived in the expectation of an atmosphere dense in proportion to the mass of the satellite. I have it in my power to throw upon many very important branches of physical and metaphysical science--I must solicit. I now tell it to you--and I can scarcely expect you to put more faith in it than did the merry fishermen of Lofoden. I shall ever bear about me a memory of the many solemn hours I thus spent alone with the master of the House of Usher. I better define that peculiarity of spirit which seemed to place him so essentially apart from all other human beings. I forget what I had read of these pits--that the sudden extinction of life formed no part of their most horrible plan. I now feel it impossible to realize the full extent of the misery which I endured during the days spent upon the hulk. I touched upon my college indiscretions--upon my extravagances--upon my carousals--upon my debts--upon my flirtations.

I was aware that arguments have not been wanting to prove the existence of a real and definite limit to the atmosphere. I believe that I have now related all that is necessary to an understanding of the sleep-waker's state at this epoch. I determined to wall it up in the cellar--as the monks of the middle ages are recorded to have walled up their victims. I learned that the glimpse I had obtained of her person would thus probably be the last I should obtain--that the lady. I have just spoken of that morbid condition of the auditory nerve which rendered all music intolerable to the sufferer. I entered the water than this bird took it into its head to fly away with the most indispensable portion of my apparel.

I was so hotly pursued by a swarm of the men-vermin (who had come to the shore in boats) that I was very soon overtaken. I had forgotten that your majesty is not conversant with the dialect of the Cock-neighs (so the man-animals were called. I now feel that I have reached a point of this narrative at which every reader will be startled into positive disbelief. I hold painfully in mind a certain singular perversion and amplification of the wild air of the last waltz of Von Weber. I would in vain endeavor to educe more than a small portion which should lie within the compass of merely written words. I met him (with the full intention that this meeting should be final and decisive) at the chambers of a fellow-commoner. I fancied that some little alleviation of my suffering was obtained by chewing small pieces of it and spitting them out. I busied myself in a variety of ill-bred and preposterous conjectures about this matter of the supernumerary state-room.

I made no doubt that the latter had been infected with some of the innumerable Southern superstitions about money buried. I knew that my design was very different in detail from this--although there was a certain similarity in general outline. I will give it to be understood that I shall visit and spend the day with my aunt at the Rue des Drômes--I well tell St. I met them on shore in their present condition I should not have had the slightest suspicion that I had ever beheld them. I had no means of summoning them to my aid without leaving the room for many minutes--and this I could not venture to do. I am willing to allow much in the outward man of the restaurateur calculated to impress the imagination of the quadruped.

I did actually hear (although from what direction it proceeded I found it impossible to say) a low and apparently distant. I hung One half the garden of her globe was flung Unrolling as a chart unto my view-- Tenantless cities of the desert too. I HEED not that my earthly lot Hath little of Earth in it-- That years of love have been forgot In the hatred of a minute.

I did not think it worth while to encumber myself with more provisions than would be sufficient for a period of forty days. I could not tell you the twentieth part of the difficulties we encountered 'on the grounds'--it is a bad spot to be in. I am the descendant of a race whose imaginative and easily excitable temperament has at all times rendered them remarkable. I could not bring myself to believe them really the same individuals with whom I had been in company but a few days before. I now discovered to my extreme delight that I could have spoken had not my mouth been tied up with the pocket-handkerchief.

I may have intelligence for the private ear of the States' College of Astronomers of far more importance than the details. I would never bind myself in marriage to any daughter of Earth--that I would in no manner prove recreant to her dear memory. I again looked toward the time-piece and was half inclined to believe in the possibility of odd accidents when I found that. I speak is clearly perceptible even in a poem so full of brilliancy and spirit as "The Health" of Edward Coate Pinckney. I feel ye now--I feel ye in your strength-- O spells more sure than e'er Judæan king Taught in the gardens of Gethsemane. I have opened one of his volumes at random)--'Of genius the only proof is the act of doing well what is worthy to be done.

I was not sorry to see the head which had occasioned me so much embarrassment at length make a final separation from my body. I astonished to see him repeat the same walk several times--once nearly detecting me as he came round with a sudden movement.

I saw that she appeared fatigued with her exertions--and it was not until then that I fully perceived my lamentable situation. I have always been led to regard as the firm friend of the mummies--I really did anticipate more gentlemanly conduct from you. I also now Make this churlish place allow Something that may sweeten gladness In the very gall of sadness-- The dull lonesness.

I passed directly before the eyes of the mate--it was no long while ago that I ventured into the captain's own private cabin. I fancy that I have investigated every nook and corner of the premises in which it is possible that the paper can be concealed. I regarded her with an utter astonishment not unmingled with dread--and yet I found it impossible to account for such feelings. I now observed--with what horror it is needless to say--that its nether extremity was formed of a crescent of glittering steel. I could hardly refrain from screaming with laughter at the odd manner in which the old gentleman received this handsome rebuke. I have a crucifix Methinks 'twere fitting The deed--the vow--the symbol of the deed-- And the deed's register should tally.

I could not develope--some expression about the countenance which slightly disturbed me while it greatly heightened my interest. I or will I swallow another drop--least of all a drop of that villainous bilge-water that answers to the hall of 'Black Strap. I feel confident he never would have dreamed of taking up his residence in Alexander-the-Great-o-nopolis had he been aware that. I remember the buzz of curiosity which his advent excited within the college precincts on the night of the twenty-fifth of June. I did not at least during the long period in which the inventor of Lombardy poplars continued to favor me with his explanations. I had to scrawl a few lines on any subject which occurred to me as sufficiently mysterious--signing all the epistles Tom Dobson.

I was mentally discussing certain topics which had formed matter for conversation between us at an earlier period of the evening. I discovered that one of the raisin stems which I had been filliping about the room during the discourse of the Angel of the Odd. I may be permitted so equivocal an expression--which mere physical bulk alone will be found at all times inefficient in creating.

I mean that perfection in the game which includes a comprehension of all the sources whence legitimate advantage may be derived. I slept in one of the only two berths in the vessel--and the berths of a sloop of sixty or twenty tons need scarcely be described. I led from the altar as my bride--as the successor of the unforgotten Ligeia--the fair-haired and blue-eyed Lady Rowena Trevanion. I presume you have not forgotten that you also have a little favor to bestow--a little promise which it is your intention to keep. I did not much regard the rain--the lurking of an old fever in my system rendering the moisture somewhat too dangerously pleasant.

I exacted from my wife an oath of secrecy in relation to all my actions from the day of my first visit to the bookseller's stall. I will therefore describe it as I afterwards saw it--from a position on the stone wall at the southern extreme of the amphitheatre. I afterward found that Augustus had purposely arranged the stowage in this hold with a view to affording me a thorough concealment. I gave myself up with great zest and enthusiasm to the enjoyment of the scene which so obligingly spread itself out before my eyes. I can render no distinct account--things material and spiritual--heaviness in the atmosphere--a sense of suffocation--anxiety--and. I dare not--dare not-- Hold off thy hand--with that beloved name So fresh upon thy lips I will not fight thee-- I cannot--dare not.

I did not feel myself altogether at liberty to engage in a task of this character with no more reliable witnesses than these people. I left hould of the flipper of the spalpeen (which was not till afther her leddyship's futman had kicked us both down the stairs).

I maintained a most animated discussion with the Minister upon a topic which I knew well had never failed to interest and excite him. I struggled in vain to divest myself of the idea that the very foundations of the mountain were in danger from the fury of the winds. I had made sure that he was overboard--but the next moment all this joy was turned into horror--for he put his mouth close to my ear. I formed a thousand surmises as to what they could be--but I could think of nothing affording a satisfactory solution of the mystery. I saw that the features of Ligeia were not of a classic regularity--although I perceived that her loveliness was indeed "exquisite. I was making up me mind whither it wouldn't be the purlite thing to sind a bit o' writin' to the widdy by way of a love-litter.

I might easily bring myself to feel no inconvenience from being awakened at intervals of an hour during the whole period of my repose. I had scarcely laid the first tier of my masonry when I discovered that the intoxication of Fortunato had in a great measure worn off. I might have selected many individual instances more replete with essential suffering than any of these vast generalities of disaster. I Have Known One" A Paean Notes Doubtful Poems Alone To Isadore The Village Street The Forest Reverie Notes PHILOSOPHY OF FURNITURE.

I should at length arrive in those distant regions where the force of the earth's attraction would be superseded by that of the moon. I was attached sunk very little farther than half the distance between the bottom of the gulf and the spot at which I leaped overboard. I dared not make the effort which was to satisfy me of my fate--and yet there was something at my heart which whispered me it was sure. I but indistinctly recall the fact itself--what wonder that I have utterly forgotten the circumstances which originated or attended it. I examined the contour of the lofty and pale forehead--it was faultless--how cold indeed that word when applied to a majesty so divine. I at length recognized the principle of her longing with so wildly earnest a desire for the life which was now fleeing so rapidly away. I saw--I felt that I had perfect command of my senses--and these senses now brought to my soul a world of novel and singular sensation. I saw the monster possessed of was one of those Hessian canteens which resemble a large snuff-box with a hole in the middle of the lid.

I did not fail to perceive that these latter calculations are founded altogether on our experimental knowledge of the properties of air. I have now mentioned all the provinces in which the common understanding of the poetic sentiment has declared it capable of expatiating. I have before said that the chain of hills through which ran the main gorge was composed of a species of soft rock resembling soapstone. I felt approaching the full knowledge of their expression--felt it approaching--yet not quite be mine--and so at length entirely depart. I will not madly deem that power Of Earth may shrive me of the sin Unearthly pride hath revell'd in-- I have no time to dote or dream.

I presume it is supererogatory to seek here (eyeing the folds of the garment with a bitter smile) for any farther evidence of your skill. I been able to ascertain the entire contents of the note--the full meaning of the admonition which my friend had thus attempted to convey. I listened to ascertain the effect of the noise upon Augustus--for I knew that the person who called my name could be no one but himself. I may have unwittingly been guilty of the same extravagances and imbecilities as themselves--this is a matter which cannot be determined.

I had little difficulty in supposing it to be some mighty volcanic fragment ejected from that world to which I was so rapidly approaching. I speak have never the full force of thought--such sentiments are seldom thoroughly stifled unless by reference to the doctrine of chance. I ever saw--and of a deep bright blue--and through it there blazed forth the full moon with a lustre that I never before knew her to wear. I could only conceive this singular behavior to arise from a consummate self-conceit assuming the vulgar airs of patronage and protection. I less frequently rejected the counsels embodied in those meaning whispers which I then but too cordially hated and too bitterly despised. I felt myself actuated by one of those fits of perverseness which might be supposed to influence a spoiled child in similar circumstances. I now would sleep
And after drunkenness of soul
Succeeds the glories of the bowl
An idle longing
night and day
To dream my very life away.

I believe nothing in the world but the pleasure of this anticipation prevented me from putting my plan of suicide into immediate execution. I may venture so far as to say that the paper gives its holder a certain power in a certain quarter where such power is immensely valuable. I soon found this to arise from a series of feeble and futile struggles to overcome an habitual trepidancy--an excessive nervous agitation. I did not pretend to disguise from my perception the identity of the singular individual who thus perseveringly interfered with my affairs. I looked at the delicate outlines of the nose--and nowhere but in the graceful medallions of the Hebrews had I beheld a similar perfection. I became gradually convinced that the breath so fortunately caught by the gentleman (whom I soon recognized as my neighbor Windenough) was. I stood repeating "Tis some visiter entreating entrance at my chamber door-- Some late visiter entreating entrance at my chamber door.

I could not help thinking that there was much of the bizarre about every thing I saw--but then the world is made up of all kinds of persons.

I found an enormous increase in the moon's apparent bulk--and the evidently accelerated velocity of my descent began to fill me with alarm. I cannot better explain my meaning than by the hypothesis that the mesmeric exaltation enables me to perceive a train of ratiocination which. I could scarcely help fancying that the whole was one of the ingenious illusions sometimes exhibited under the name of "vanishing pictures. I could not help feeling my cheeks tingle with the many burning glances of scorn or reproach cast upon me by the less abandoned of the party.

I could only perceive that a far more than ordinary wanness had overspread the emaciated fingers through which trickled many passionate tears. I employ it merely because the language has no word which better represents the most striking--not the most distinctive--feature of the scene. I know the habitual mystic escape the natural consequence of his manoeuvres--an attachment of the ludicrous to his own character and person. I had accepted the invitation of a relative to spend a fortnight with him in the retirement of his _cottage ornee_ on the banks of the Hudson. I wonder if he has forgotten the many unanswerable questions which he propounded to me so fluently on the day when I gave him my last lecture. I never knew any one to entertain so singular a fancy as that the universe (or this world if you will have it so) ever had a beginning at all.

I think it probable that hereafter the individual in question may attempt a balloon ascension with the novel gas and material I have spoken of. I could not help believing that the green sods and the gray rocks upon which I trod had been trodden never before by the foot of a human being.

I should arrive at that exact point of my voyage where the attraction of the planet should be superseded by the attraction of the satellite--or. I could not help remarking and admiring (although from his rich ideality I had been prepared to expect it) a peculiar analytic ability in Dupin. I mean the fact (which none but the ignorant dispute) that no such combination of scenery exists in nature as the painter of genius may produce. I had long been plotting one of those ill-natured pieces of practical wit at his expense in which I had hitherto been so uniformly unsuccessful. I have it in my power to relieve the calamity under which thou dost so justly suffer--to curtail the superfluities of thine unhappy respiration. I am overburdened with the majesty of all things--of the unknown now known--of the speculative Future merged in the august and certain Present.

I have said that I minutely remember the details of the chamber--yet I am sadly forgetful on topics of deep moment--and here there was no system. I believe the old villain loved me as his own child--nearly if not quite as well as he loved Kate--but it was a dog's existence that he led me.

I stood in the morass among the tall and the rain fell upon my head--and the lilies sighed one unto the other in the solemnity of their desolation. I thence concluded that the facts of my narrative would prove of such a nature as to carry with them sufficient evidence of their own authenticity. I reflected that many difficulties might still lie in the path of my preservation which only extreme exertion on my part would be able to surmount. I trod upon Was a proud temple call'd the Parthenon-- More beauty clung around her column'd wall Than ev'n thy glowing bosom beats withal. I will half believe that wild light fraught With more of sovereignty than ancient lore Hath ever told--or is it of a thought The unembodied essence.*

I never felt deeper grief than when I saw him attempt this act--although I knew he was a madman when he did it--a raving maniac through sheer fright.

I was not a little astonished to discover that the literary world has hitherto been strangely in error respecting the fate of the vizier's daughter. I can't bear to hear innocent individuals abused--and the way the whole town took to cursing Tom Dobson and Bobby Tompkins was really awful to hear.

I recovered from my swoon in time to behold the consummation of the tragedy in the death of him who had been chiefly instrumental in bringing it about. I leaned in all the confidence of early affection--I could not help surmising that the upper end of the continuous spiral ladder had been accidentally.

I must have been delirious--for I even sought amusement in speculating upon the relative velocities of their several descents toward the foam below. I sat motionless in that solitary room--and still I sat buried in meditation--and still the phantasma of the teeth maintained its terrible ascendancy.

I wish to impress upon your understanding the very extraordinary--the almost præternatural character of that agility which could have accomplished it.

I could not bring myself to believe that the wealth of any subject in Europe could have supplied the princely magnificence which burned and blazed around. I never experienced a more ardent longing for the wild adventures incident to the life of a navigator than within a week after our miraculous deliverance. I had no trouble in finding what few fragments of the phosphorus were left--being guided by the indistinct glow one or two of the particles still emitted. I See") To -- ("I Heed not That my Earthly Lot") To the River -- Song A Dream Romance Fairyland The Lake To-- "The Happiest Day" Imitation Hymn.

I have said that the sole effect of my somewhat childish experiment--that of looking down within the tarn--had been to deepen the first singular impression. I can recall no occasion when the suggestions of my rival were on the side of those errors or follies so usual to his immature age and seeming inexperience.

I was deeply interested in the little family history which he detailed to me with all that candor which a Frenchman indulges whenever mere self is his theme. I will even own that an intolerable weight of anxiety was for a brief instant lifted from my bosom by the sudden and extraordinary interruption which ensued. I became possessed by a vague uneasiness--an anxiety such as the sleeper feels when sad real sounds fall continuously within his ear--low distant bell-tones.

I consequently surveyed at that time an extent of the earth's area amounting to no less than the three hundred-and-twentieth part of its entire superficies. I believed the balloon to be going upward with a speed increasing momentarily although I had no longer any means of ascertaining the progression of the increase. I have already mentioned the suspicion to be excited by the fact that the articles in question were suffered to remain at all in the thicket where discovered. I have conjured up remembrances which the lucid reason of a later epoch assures me could have had reference only to that condition of seeming unconsciousness.

I have now mentioned all the provinces in which even the most liberal understanding of the poetic sentiment has declared this sentiment capable of expatiating.

I had a big stick ready cut for to gib him deuced good beating when he did come--but Ise sich a fool dat I hadn't de heart arter all--he look so berry poorly. I wish you to bear especially in mind that I have spoken of a very unusual degree of activity as requisite to success in so hazardous and so difficult a feat.

I have been so called--having legislatively adopted this surname within the last year in order to receive a large inheritance left me by a distant male relative. I hold most sacred and most solemn- By all my wishes now--my fears hereafter- By all I scorn on earth and hope in heaven- There is no deed I would more glory in.

I have often puzzled myself to imagine why it was that "Old Charley" came to the conclusion to say nothing about having received the wine from his old friend.

I now suspect to have been sheer fabrications) well adapted to have weight with one of my enthusiastic temperament and somewhat gloomy although glowing imagination. I appreciated it only as sound--sound sweet or discordant as the matters presenting themselves at my side were light or dark in shade--curved or angular in outline.

I was thus prepared to view the manoeuvring of "Old Charley" in a very different light from that in which it was regarded by the good citizens of Rattleborough.

I had sufficiently exposed myself for once--and demanded if I was really such a fool as not to know that the modern steam-engine is derived from the invention of Hero.

I staggered back towards the table--my hand fell upon a cracked and blackened goblet--and a consciousness of the entire and terrible truth flashed suddenly over my soul.

I say that even their exceeding density did not prevent our perceiving this--yet we had no glimpse of the moon or stars--nor was there any flashing forth of the lightning.

I have brought you here that you might have the best possible view of the scene of that event I mentioned--and to tell you the whole story with the spot just under your eye. I could not believe that the mate (who was a cunning fellow in all matters which did not affect his superstitious prejudices) would suffer himself to be so easily entrapped.

I knew that I had now fully recovered the use of my visual faculties--and yet it was dark--all dark--the intense and utter raylessness of the Night that endureth for evermore. I was only prevented from taking a draught from the sea by remembering the horrible consequences which thus have resulted to others who were similarly situated with ourselves. I had sought to borrow From my books surcease of sorrow--sorrow for the lost Lenore-- For the rare and radiant maiden whom the angels name Lenore-- Nameless here for evermore.

I soon saw that I should be successful--or at least I soon fancied that my success would be complete--and I am sure that all in the room were prepared to see the patient awoken. I must here state that the manner in which this most important duty had been performed on board the Grampus was a most shameful piece of neglect on the part of Captain Barnard.

I can compare to no earthly sensation more properly than to the after-dream of the reveller upon opium--the bitter lapse into everyday life--the hideous dropping off of the veil. I firmly believed that no incident ever occurring in the course of human events is more adapted to inspire the supremeness of mental and bodily distress than a case like our own.

I should not even have mentioned it in this history but for the remarkable prominency--the extreme _alto relieveo_--in which it jutted out from the plane of his general disposition.

I forced myself to ponder upon the sound of the crescent as it should pass across the garment--upon the peculiar thrilling sensation which the friction of cloth produces on the nerves.

I believe--for there are glimpses of extreme delicacy in his writings--(and delicacy is the poet's own kingdom--his _El Dorado_)--but they _have the appearance of a better day recollected.

I shall not attempt to describe my feelings of rage (for I believe I was more angry than any thing else) when the egregious oversight I had committed flashed suddenly upon my perception.

I cannot better describe the sensation which oppressed me than by saying that I could with difficulty shake off the belief of my having been acquainted with the being who stood before me.

I love to regard these as themselves but the colossal members of one vast animate and sentient whole--a whole whose form (that of the sphere) is the most perfect and most inclusive of all.

I had calculated that one at least of the two former would be found still possessed of sufficient strength of mind to side with myself in resisting any attempt to execute so dreadful a purpose.

I had been accustomed from my infancy--while I hesitated not to acknowledge how familiar was all this--I still wondered to find how unfamiliar were the fancies which ordinary images were stirring up. I could not listen with any patience to a proposition of stopping longer than was absolutely necessary for the health of the crew and the taking on board a proper supply of fuel and fresh provisions.

I will not pursue these guesses--for I have no right to call them more--since the shades of reflection upon which they are based are scarcely of sufficient depth to be appreciable by my own intellect.

I have said that "to enter the Cafe in the cul-de-sac Le Febvre was to enter the sanctum of a man of genius"--but then it was only the man of genius who could duly estimate the merits of the sanctum.

I had been now eleven days and nights with no more water than that contained in the jug which he had left with me--a supply which it was not at all probable I had hoarded in the beginning of my confinement.

I early found Anacreon rhymes Were almost passionate sometimes-- And by strange alchemy of brain His pleasures always turned to pain-- His naiveté to wild desire-- His wit to love--his wine to fire-- And so.

I could not account for this difference except by supposing that the roughened fragments were the only ones which had been _completely absorbed_--that the others had entered the whirl at so late a period of the tide.

I must put you au fait to the details necessary in composing what may be denominated a genuine Blackwood article of the sensation stamp--the kind which you will understand me to say I consider the best for all purposes.

I could not immediately reconcile myself to the _bienseance_ of so singular a welcome--"I see you are astonished at my apartment--at my statues--my pictures--my originality of conception in architecture and upholstery. I verily believe not one of our friends in Nantucket had the slightest suspicion that the terrible story told by some sailors in town of their having run down a vessel at sea and drowned some thirty or forty poor devils.

I gasped convulsively for breath--a shudder resembling a fit of the ague agitated every nerve and muscle of my frame--I felt my eyes starting from their sockets--a horrible nausea overwhelmed me--and at length I fainted away.

I saw the mighty walls rushing asunder--there was a long tumultuous shouting sound like the voice of a thousand waters--and the deep and dank tarn at my feet closed sullenly and silently over the fragments of the "_House of Usher_.

I had so worked upon my imagination as really to believe that about the whole mansion and domain there hung an atmosphere peculiar to themselves and their immediate vicinity--an atmosphere which had no affinity with the air of heaven. I was resuscitated from a state bordering very nearly upon death (and after every other means had been tried in vain for three hours and a half) by vigorous friction with flannels bathed in hot oil--a proceeding suggested by Augustus.

I was found at all deficient in the looking askint--the showing my teeth--the working my knees--the shuffling my feet--or in any of those unmentionable graces which are now justly considered the characteristics of a popular performer.

I knew that in so doing I was committing a sin--a deadly sin that would so jeopardize my immortal soul as to place it--if such a thing were possible--even beyond the reach of the infinite mercy of the Most Merciful and Most Terrible God.

I remember his insisting very especially (among other things) upon the idea that the principle source of error in all human investigations lay in the liability of the understanding to under-rate or to over-value the importance of an object.

I have no right to laugh at you--a million and a half of money is too serious a matter for mirth--but you are not about to establish a third link in your chain--you will not find any especial connexion between your pirates and a goat--pirates.

I bade Pedro to close the heavy shutters of the room--since it was already night--to light the tongues of a tall candelabrum which stood by the head of my bed--and to throw open far and wide the fringed curtains of black velvet which enveloped the bed itself.

I do not hesitate to say that legitimate deductions even from this portion of the testimony--the portion respecting the gruff and shrill voices--are in themselves sufficient to engender a suspicion which should give direction to all farther progress in the investigation of the mystery.

I made use of for the furtherance of my project--an hypocrisy pervading every word and action of my life for so long a period of time--could only have been rendered tolerable to myself by the wild and burning expectation with which I looked forward to the fulfilment of my long-cherished visions of travel.

I revolved in my brain a multitude of absurd expedients for procuring light--such expedients precisely as a man in the perturbed sleep occasioned by opium would be apt to fall upon for a similar purpose--each and all of which appear by turns to the dreamer the most reasonable and the most preposterous of conceptions.

I was engaged (so different from the tumultuous dangers of the storm or the gradually approaching horrors of famine) allowed me to reflect on the few chances I had of escaping the most appalling of deaths--a death for the most appalling of purposes--every particle of that energy which had so long buoyed me up departed like feathers before the wind.

I have not been As others were--I have not seen As others saw--I could not bring My passions from a common spring-- From the same source I have not taken My sorrow--I could not awaken My heart to joy at the same tone-- And all I lov'd--_I_ lov'd alone-- _Then_--in my childhood--in the dawn Of a most stormy life--was drawn From ev'ry depth of good and ill The mystery which binds me still-- From the torrent.
