

Recount

Thanksgiving, 2016

Nick Montfort

See Random Poetry, Michael Murin, 1989, in Slovak, programmed in MUMPS

Also censusAmericans, Jia Zhang, 2015, a Twitter bot (@censusAmericans)

A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the police station. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit their clients. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the travel office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the clinic. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gym.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project.

A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the shop. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his post. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gym. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the law office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her rig, and kept on. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the motel.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dealership. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the farm. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hotel. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the travel office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae.

A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his boat. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the farm. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the dressing room. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the police station. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the travel office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the farm. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the military base where he was posted.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the tour bus. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the farm. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her rig, and kept on. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dealership. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to serve coffee. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his boat. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet.

A person not of binary gender voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue their hobbies.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the recording studio. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a residential housing project.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a new roadway. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A person not of binary gender voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the police station. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the law office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gym. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dealership. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the law office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dealership. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the salon. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the police station. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the clinic. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the tour bus.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to their construction site, in this case a public building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the shop. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to clean the building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the security desk. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the store. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to their corner office and PERT chart. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the clinic. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the shop. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to clean the building. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate her employer's garden. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the military base where she was posted. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the security desk. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the motel. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate her employer's garden. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to his rig, and kept on.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his rig, and kept on. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a high rise building. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to their corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the gallery. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to get ready for tonight's game. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the shop. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to their corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the fire station. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the farm. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dressing room. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to their office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the security desk. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the resort. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Gary

Johnson for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the factory. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to clean the building. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dressing room. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the security desk. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the farm.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the travel office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the boutique. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the boutique. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office and her CAD plans. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her post. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the boutique. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get ready for tonight's game. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the security desk. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the military base where she was posted. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate their employer's garden. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and her CAD plans. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the salon. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the clinic. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her post. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the tour bus. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hotel. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the farm. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the design firm. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A person not of binary gender voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the clinic. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A woman voted for

Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to a coffeehouse to write. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant.

A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the tour bus.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the fire station. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dealership.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her boat. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the boutique. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dressing room. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A person not of binary gender voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the boutique.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the military base where she was posted. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dealership. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the law office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dressing room. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the motel. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the clinic. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory.

A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the police station. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his beat. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class.

A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to their office and spreadsheet. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the motel. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hotel. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the recording studio. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the resort. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A person not of binary gender voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his post. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the security desk. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to their rig, and kept on. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his post. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the law office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the farm. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office and her CAD plans. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to clean the building. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the motel. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his beat. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the law office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dressing room.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her rig, and kept on. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to cultivate her employer's garden. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to their cubicle, their code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a high rise building. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the design firm. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the farm. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the law office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the dressing room. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the security desk. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her studio, to make some more artwork. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the motel. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dealership. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gym.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the travel office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to a coffeehouse to write. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the security desk. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the resort. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dealership. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the shop. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to clean the building.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the shop. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the farm. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the shop. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for

Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gym. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to clean the building.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the motel. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the motel.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the clinic.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen.

A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the sound stage. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to clean the building. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the motel. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the recording studio. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the fire station. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the law office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the dealership. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the sound stage. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the design firm. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the sound stage. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the dressing room. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a public building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to clean the building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to another media-industry meeting. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back for a day of logging. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the law office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gym. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gym. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the clinic. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the recording studio. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a public building.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the tour bus. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to a coffeehouse to write. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to cultivate her employer's garden. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the travel office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar.

A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the farm. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his rig, and kept on. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a residential housing project. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the boutique. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dressing room. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the boutique. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the law office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the gallery.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a new roadway. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the dealership. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class.

A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to cultivate her employer's garden. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the travel office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hotel. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to clean the building.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the big box store. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the law office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to mow the property's lawns. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the resort. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and her CAD plans. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the clinic.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the recording studio. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his post. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a high rise building. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the clinic. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the travel office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the shop.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the motel. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the sound stage. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get ready for tonight's game.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the travel office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the boutique. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a high rise building.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the clinic. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on his experiment and related research. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a high rise building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her rig, and kept on. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the big box store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the resort. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dressing room. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hotel. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical supply store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A person not of binary gender voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to their post. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the funeral home. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the farm. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, and then on to make repairs. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the security desk. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the funeral home. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the gallery.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her beat. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the fire station. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dressing room. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the shop.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to check on her experiment and related research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a public building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the design firm. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the tour bus. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to a coffeehouse to write.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A person not of binary gender decided not to vote, and then went back to their cubicle, their code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the military base where she was posted. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the fire station. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a high rise building. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue their hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the salon. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a massive infrastructural project. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the dealership. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the shop.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get ready for tonight's game. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to make repairs.

A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the law office, and from there to visit a client in jail. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the tour bus. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to relax.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the design firm. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to cultivate his employer's garden. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the big box store.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the medical office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dealership.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to clean the building. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the plant. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to staff the bar. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the gallery. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the design firm. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the fire station. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the funeral home.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a high rise building. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the motel. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the military base where he was posted. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the retirement home.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her truck, to wait on call. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to his rig, and kept on. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the boutique. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the plant. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and her CAD plans. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get the trash emptied and taken out. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the police station.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the security desk. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the boutique. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dealership. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the tour bus. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the medical office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the police station. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to relax. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the shop. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the salon. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the store. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get ready for tonight's game. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to serve coffee. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the office. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his rig, and kept on. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to her construction site, in this case a house in a development. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical supply store. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart.

A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the clinic.

A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the office. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the security desk. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to wait on tables. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a new roadway. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to their office and spreadsheet. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her corner office and PERT chart. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the big box store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the store. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the pharmacy. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the food court and put on a uniform. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the job site, looking over the work being done. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case an office building.

A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the resort. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the medical office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his cubicle, his code, and all the formulae. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the hospital. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A person not of binary gender couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to complete a project for class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get some studying done before class. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to relax. A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to her truck, and then on to a job in a nearby building.

A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A person not of binary gender voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his studio, to make some more artwork. A person not of binary gender voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to relax. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back into the community, to visit his clients. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to staff the bar.

A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A person not of binary gender who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the restaurant and into the kitchen. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the office. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the factory. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the office and his CAD plans. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to pursue her hobbies. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to her office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Jill Stein for president, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research.

A woman who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the hospital. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to staff the bar. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to her cubicle, her code, and all the formulae. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the big box store. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to get more materials ready, so that people could learn from them and use them for study and research. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to try to get organized. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to watch television. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to pursue his hobbies. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A woman voted for a write-in candidate or no candidate for president, and then went back to the hospital. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to his corner office and PERT chart. A man decided not to vote, and then went back home, to watch television. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the clinic. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back into the community, to visit her clients. A woman decided not to vote, and then went back to the restaurant to bus tables. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to campus and to the weekly schedule.

A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case an office building. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the medical supply store. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his office and spreadsheet. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to serve coffee. A man voted for Gary Johnson for president, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to check out the Internet. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to complete a project for class. A man who was eligible to vote simply didn't, and then went back to the dressing room. A man decided not to vote, and then went back to his truck, to wait on call. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to her rig, and kept on.

A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the plant. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the office. A woman voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A woman voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to the police station. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the police station. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back to the retirement home. A man voted for Hillary Clinton for president, and then went back to his construction site, in this case a house in a development. A man voted for Donald Trump for president, and then went back to the hotel. A woman couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to keep on cleaning. A man couldn't find the time to vote, and then went back home, to watch television.