This book is directly based on incidents of violence in recent American history, which are explicitly related in it.

And the LORD said unto Satan, Whence comest thou? Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, From going to and fro in the earth, and from walking up and down in it. And the LORD said unto Satan, Hast thou considered my servant Job, that there is none like him in the earth, a perfect and an upright man, one that feareth God, and escheweth evil? Then Satan answered the LORD, and said, Doth Job fear God for nought? Hast not thou made an hedge about him, and about his house, and about all that he hath on every side? thou hast blessed the work of his hands, and his substance is increased in the land. But put forth thine hand now, and touch all that he hath, and he will curse thee to thy face.

A man wakes not far from the eastern shore of the great nation to find his family has already departed the house their bank is set to seize from them. He thinks on this with the aid of his little remaining liquor and less food for four days and nights. He packs up, shaking, and sets off to the west.

The man went west to find something, not knowing what. These included communication and sensory difficulties, socialization delays, and repetitive behaviors. According to the autopsy reports, many of the victims were shot multiple times in the front or side, and from a short distance. He lay down in a grassy area and fell asleep.

The man had heard things. His aunt escaped the shooting uninjured because she was inside the house, while the neighbor's four-month-old daughter survived her gunshot wounds. Two of the women were sisters. The school was closed indefinitely following the shooting, partially because it remained a crime scene.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. Reaction to his memorial speech was largely positive, with some deeming it one of his best.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. A federal judge must approve an application before the government can seize the money. She found out about what was happening at 4:00 a.m. after the police told her to get out of her house with her hands up. Wait times were as much as six hours or more. On the first anniversary of the attack, a bicycle ride was held at 7:30 a.m.; dozens of local bicyclists, many of them police officers, rode 14 miles (23 km), with one mile representing each person killed in the attack. In addition to the shootings, the complex and highly planned attack involved a fire bomb to divert firefighters, propane tanks converted to bombs placed in the cafeteria, 99 explosive devices, and car bombs. He was living with three women in his house; they were mothers of four of his children, and one had another daughter living with her. Hasan had gone around the building and was out of sight, but still shooting. by the imam and other members. He shot the students and teacher in the classroom where he had formerly attended sessions.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. He said he couldn't think. Shot two of five people in a barber shop, sparing the other three. Was interviewed three times in connection with the two investigations.

The man went west to find something, not knowing what. Doors to the school were locked at 9:30 a.m. each day, after morning arrivals. In the aftermath, speculation occurred about the killers' motivation and whether the murders could have been prevented. He exhibited delusional behavior that caused the court to rule him incompetent for execution. The child described the shooter as a very angry man. After killing his final victim, the shooter moved to a cubicle area, where he discarded the shotgun. The judge sentenced the duo to attend a juvenile diversion program. The hostage, who had taken cover inside a stall with others, was injured by two bullets and struck with flying pieces of a wall that was hit by stray bullets. Two third-grade students, chosen as classroom helpers, were walking down the hallway to the office to deliver the morning attendance sheet as the shooting began.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. Their lawsuit alleges there were due process violations, intentional misrepresentation, assault and battery, gross negligence, and civil conspiracy.

The man remembered a lot of things. Had these bombs exploded with full power, they would have killed or severely wounded all 488 students in the cafeteria and possibly collapsed the ceiling, dropping part of the library into the cafeteria.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. He was sweating profusely... it was actually dripping off his hands.

The man may never have dreamed. She would produce tarot cards and pretend to read his future to pacify him and his bouts of violence, thus producing a temporary calming effect. The letter also contained a request for scanner and dispatch recordings.

There were known unknown the man of course knew about. Then went to his car, which was parked near the exit door, changed into protective clothing, and retrieved his guns. At 5:05 a.m., the police said a bomb squad had set off a controlled explosion.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. No one was found; the reports may have been from officers at the scene. She had tried to move but became light-headed.

The man knew that some things were fake, some facts. Investigators would later find that the shooters had enough ammunition to have killed them all. But here you can't even defend yourself. Hasan left the store, saying he needed to research the weapon. In 2001 he died one week after discontinuing dialysis. Four other employees and a female customer hid inside a basement utility room. They returned up the staircase and into the south hallway at 11:58 a.m. Said he is confident the responding officers did a good job, and decided to ask for help after a discussion with other police chiefs around the country who stressed the importance of a third-party review. During the shooting, some of the people who were trapped inside the club sought help by calling or sending text messages to friends and relatives. Stalked two sisters who lived in his neighborhood prior to the massacre. Hid behind the administrative counter. A gunman, dressed in tactical clothing, set off tear gas grenades and shot into the audience with multiple firearms. We are living a nightmare. The shootings occurred in two separate incidents. As the shooting continued outside, nurses and medics entered the building. The two families had not joined in a previous settlement with the other families. It's really outside of our scope. During and after the initial investigations, social cliques within high schools were widely discussed. He next shot and killed his sleeping son. He also had at least one .38 caliber pistol, police said. He is not known to have had any close friends in school. At approximately 8:55 a.m., the shooter went to the third floor via stairwell and concealed himself inside a bank of cubicles. He then put the .38-caliber revolver to his head and committed suicide. The settlement also covered eighteen people who were injured; their lifelong health care needs were included in the settlement. He encountered a barricaded door that prevented him from immediately accessing the floor. Police had established a command post two blocks from the restaurant. At 11:55 a.m., the two returned to the cafeteria, where they briefly entered the school kitchen. It is in very poor taste and the person concerned may want to consider getting some professional help.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. By 11:30 a.m., a spokesman of the sheriff declared the investigation underway.

The man thought to himself a good deal. Pleaded guilty to conspiracy, perjury, and two counts of making false statements.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. He has made the world weep. As a consequence, he withdrew even more and rarely socialized. Arrived at the departmental event at about 8:30 a.m. and left midway through it at around 10:30 a.m., leaving a backpack atop a table. After the massacre, many survivors and relatives of deceased victims filed lawsuits. Two charges were filed for each victim to expand the opportunities for prosecutors to obtain convictions. At least one fake explosive—a metal pipe stuffed with cloth made to resemble a pipe bomb—was thrown at the police during the pursuit. A recurring set of motifs was found, including self-portraits with firearms in which the perpetrator points his gun at the camera, then at his own temple, and then spreads his arms wide with a gun in each hand; the closeup and the wave goodbye at the end, as well as explicit statements of admiration and identification with previous perpetrators. To represent the victims killed in the shooting, the fountain also contains fourteen water jets and the plaque on the front of the base listing their names. Fortunately somebody else had a gun that was shooting in the opposite direction or it would have been much worse. He worked in this profession for two years, before opting to become a welder.

The man dreamed at night sometimes, or perhaps all the time, with a sliver of that dream sometimes cutting his consciousness in the morning. At the hearing, prosecutors offered their case as to why the trial should proceed, and defense lawyers argued that it should not.

There were known unknown the man of course knew about. He was said to confess to her. The suits are based on a claim that she did not properly secure her firearms, which allowed her son, a person with mental health issues, to gain access to them. At the age of 18, he began working as a common laborer, which he stayed as until his death.

The man thought to himself a good deal. He allegedly asked two students for their religion, shooting them after they gave him a response.

The man thought to himself a good deal. By 4:00 p.m., the sheriff made an initial estimate of 25 dead students and teachers. And another student were down at the end of the hallway still trying to secure as much of the school as they could. In the course of the walk, he told his wife his life was effectively over. Three more victims were injured indirectly as they tried to escape the school. Opinions vary concerning his job performance. Officials noted that there is nothing to suggest that he attempted to cover up his tracks by deleting files. And to be perfectly honest, that is what has driven me to this. The other three escaped uninjured. He even had the windows taped over with black plastic garbage bags to block out sunlight. A dive team was sent into the shallow edge of the lake to search for evidence; nothing relevant was found.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. His parents were not married. After the gunfire stopped, they were ordered to hold position instead of storming the bathroom, according to one of the officers. He requires a feeding tube, has severely impaired movement, and can no longer speak. Our family is grieving along with all those who have been affected by this enormous tragedy. The dead comprise ten women, seven men, seven girls, one boy, and an unborn child. onto the gun's receiver. At 8:34 a.m., the shooter went towards the west side of the building, where he encountered two men standing at a corner of the building in an alleyway. One also examined him to make sure he was not carrying a firearm. After leaving the cafeteria, the duo returned to the main north and south hallways of the school, shooting aimlessly. He placed a note on one of the chained doors, claiming that attempting to open the door would cause a bomb to explode. Was later taken down to the first floor for medical attention, recovering from his wounds. Officials found the bodies in the library by 3:30 p.m. His polite demeanor conveyed no sense of immediate urgency to the operator; therefore, the call was logged as a non-crisis inquiry, to be handled within 48 hours. He was initially mistaken for another police officer because of the tactical clothing he was wearing. One of their classes taught anger management.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. Fourteen people died at the scene, and six others received wounds requiring hospitalization. Maps of crime scene Before entering, the shooters threw two bombs into the cafeteria, both of which exploded. Walked through the main area, past the first set of bookcases, the central desk area and a second set of bookcases into the east area. Was shot eight times in the chest, arm, and abdomen and paralyzed below the chest, falling into unconsciousness. The renovations, costing approximately $44 million, will include a reflection area and new visitors' entrance, new flooring and furnishings and an updated cafeteria. They had two daughters together. We pray for their families and loved ones who are experiencing so much excruciating grief. Also according to the presentation, 500 interviews were conducted, 1,600 leads were followed up on, more than 950 pieces of evidence were collected, and more than 300 people were subpoenaed. The university first informed students via e-mail at 9:26 a.m., about two hours after the first shooting, which was thought at the time to be isolated and domestic in nature.

The man thought to himself a good deal. On that day he passed a background check and bought a .380 semiautomatic handgun.

The man may never have dreamed. Three 11-year-old boys rode their bikes into the west parking lot to purchase soft drinks. As a result, the officers headed up to the second floor, while the shooter remained on the first floor. Shortly thereafter, he was investigated for sexual assault and rape, and for a physical assault of his then-girlfriend, although these investigations did not lead to charges. Presented with developmental challenges before the age of three. They revealed the ways they hid their arsenals in their homes, as well as how they deceived their parents about their activities. These calls were made during the first ten minutes of the shooting, and had to be released in the form of transcripts after a judge deemed them too graphic to be released as audio recordings. One person was struck by a bullet that tore through an interior wall, while another was shot while trying to escape through a glass door near where the shooters had entered. Underlying psychological diagnosis at the time of the shootings remains a matter of speculation. He jumped on one and shook it, then shot in an unknown direction within that general area. He faces a maximum of 50 years in prison if convicted on all of the charges.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. Unfortunately, that question may never be answered conclusively, despite the collection of extensive background information on the shooter through a multitude of interviews and other sources. Shot a teacher and students from his former classroom.

There were known unknown the man of course knew about.

The man had many thoughts, few of them clear. Stock prices of firearms manufacturers rose the day after the shooting, as has happened after similar incidents. A bartender said she took cover beneath the glass bar. The investigation revealed that high-ranking county officials had met a few days after the massacre to discuss the release of the affidavit to the public. The latter ran into a science classroom and warned everyone to hide. Those communications are direct, private messages. It was presumed that he killed two of the four staff members involved in the altercation (the principal and the psychologist) and wounded the third (the lead teacher) in the attack; the fourth staff member was not at the school that day. In the speech, he addressed the topics of homegrown terrorism and gun control. He abandoned that vehicle and drove around, stopping in an isolated area.

The man knew what he knew. The killers had ceased shooting just minutes earlier. Reloaded and revisited several of the classrooms. An armored car and ambulances from local funeral homes were used to reach the wounded. In the hours and days following the shooting, makeshift memorials to those killed or injured began appearing in several locations on the campus.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. He attended a vocational school, but dropped out in his sophomore year. The scene was described as having a media circus atmosphere.

The man remembered a lot of things. Conspiracy theories circulated at the hospital where victims were being treated. Ten victims died at the scene and two more in local hospitals. , short for retaliate.

This man was given to thinking of events of national importance. See section below.) Anger over this reprimand, coupled with anxiety that he was likely to be fired, could have been possible motives behind the attack the following morning. First shot missed its intended victim, a bakery truck driver. Turned and fired a single shot into an open library staff break room, hitting a small television. You loved inducing cancer in my head, terror in my heart and ripping my soul all this time. During this exchange of gunfire, a second police officer was wounded. He next left the building to alert students in the library to evacuate. In 2010 another hearing was held on his competency; his attorney said his mental state had deteriorated significantly since 1982. Nose was bleeding heavily, which may have caused him to decide to leave the library. A group of soldiers and families have sought to have the defense secretary designate the shooting a terrorist attack; this would provide them with benefits equal to injuries in combat. The pair shot videos of doing target practice in nearby foothills, as well as areas of the high school they planned to attack. The court eventually consolidated these lawsuits and then dismissed them before trial on a defense motion for summary judgment; the plaintiffs appealed. Such offenders often self-radicalize from a volatile mix of personal distress, psychological issues, and an ideology that can be sculpted to justify and explain their anti-social leanings. Sensory-processing disorder does not have official status by the medical community as a formal diagnosis but is frequently one of the characteristics of autism. Shot through the door several times but failed to force his way in. This included a lack of access to counseling or antidepressant medication, the injured attempting to get surgeries approved and physical therapy covered, a lack of assistance in dealing with a complex compensation workers' program, and health insurers refusing to cover injuries because they occurred during an act of workplace violence. The affidavit was never filed.

The man thought to himself a good deal. Put herself between her students and the shooter, who then fatally shot her. The youths placed the duffel bags containing the bombs—set to explode at approximately 11:17 a.m.—inside the cafeteria before returning to their separate vehicles to await the explosion and shoot survivors fleeing the building. Technology companies oppose such legislation, arguing that it would unacceptably undermine security. The plaintiffs indicated they would appeal the ruling. The day before, he had killed a prostitute and her pimp, wounded two teenagers, and robbed a convenience store.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. Eight others were injured. Neither attempted to enter the bathroom. She died of her wound the next day, the only person fatally wounded who lived long enough to reach a hospital.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. Some initially mistook the attack as an active shooter drill; some previous such drills had taken place in the same banquet room. He bent down to look at them and dismissed them as pathetic. The two women's families had filed that particular lawsuit. He was considered a mama's boy and the subject of teasing. He said that he had only wounded some of the victims and police had killed them. Next went to another first-grade classroom nearby; at this point, there are conflicting reports about the order of events. He said women were snakes and always had derogatory remarks about them, especially after fights with his mother. Ultimately, about 300 officers and agents from city, county, state, and federal agencies responded to the active-shooter event, converging on the scene as people were being evacuated. He shot at them both, reportedly yelling that they would not tell anyone about this, before he fired. Fired 76 shots in the theater: six from the shotgun, 65 from the semi-automatic rifle, and five from the .40-caliber handgun.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. In 1970, he was arrested, but not prosecuted, for motor vehicle theft and vagrancy-prowling by auto.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. He blocked the connected door with his body to allow his class to escape.

There were known unknown the man of course knew about. In addition to the 14 killed, 22 others were seriously injured, either by bullets or other causes. His attorneys were to remain on the case but only if he asked for their help. 14 of the 23 people killed were women, as were many of the wounded.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. The elementary school may have been targeted because he could overpower people, a dynamic that is very important for mass shooters as they do not want to be thwarted. The city police were one of seven law enforcement agencies on the scene, and it is uncertain which agency fired what bullets. Killed 13 and injured three. The perpetrators moved between tables, shooting anyone who moved or made a sound. The gunfire lasted for around five minutes before both perpetrators were killed. The engraved markers are embedded in a semicircle of crushed gravel with a brick walkway for viewing. Shortly thereafter, he searched the kitchen area, discovering six employees.

The man had many thoughts, few of them clear. There were 13 fatalities, including the perpetrator. Declined due to its policy to never undermine the security features of its products. There's a nigger over here! Also began attending therapy classes with a psychologist. The attack was the culmination of more than a year of planning, firearms acquisition, and bomb building. Doctors have emphasized the importance for school faculty members to stay calm and assess injuries, but also discouraged the use of more invasive emergency procedures such as removing a bullet. A number of family members expressed support for the plans as necessary and long overdue, while a few doubted whether they would reduce gun violence. In addition to the 22 injured, one police officer was hospitalized with a bullet wound suffered during the gunfight; another officer was injured by flying glass or shrapnel.

The man thought to himself a good deal. We are in a state of disbelief and trying to find whatever answers we can. One student in his classroom was killed. Was brought before a general court-martial on four charges: assault on his wife, aggravated assault on his stepson, two charges of pointing a loaded gun at his wife, and two counts of threatening his wife with an unloaded gun. The bomb threat was never called in. Had previously been diagnosed with a severe anxiety disorder. She also called him several times during the standoff, but he did not answer. Was hit by wood splinters but was not seriously injured. We have cooperated fully with law enforcement and will continue to do so. Leaders from many countries and organizations throughout the world also offered their condolences through the weekend after the shooting. During this period, various appeals were being heard by state and federal courts. It caused a fire, which was put out by a teacher hidden in an adjacent room. Was harassed by neighborhood teens, who thought he was homosexual and used to make fun of him. They were not directed by such groups and were not part of any terrorist cell or network. Seventeen of the victims were killed inside the restaurant and four in the immediate vicinity. A bullet hit a fire sprinkler pipe, causing water to pour down the banquet room, making it difficult to see. Struggled with gambling and bad grades, and he lost his scholarship in 1963. Was initially charged with murder, though the charge was later reduced to manslaughter. Always a reserved man, he had turned into a recluse in the three months before his spree.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Reloaded at least three times before police arrived and he had a brief shootout with them. Walked down the steps toward the cafeteria. The pair kept videos that documented the explosives, ammunition, and weapons they had obtained illegally. Some mistook the sound of shots for the noise from a nearby construction site, or an anti-war protest.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. He remained standing for a few seconds before turning around and leaving. Reached the observation deck first. Chose not to testify. One of the bullets penetrated the tank, but the fuel did not ignite or explode because there was a very low probability that a bullet could ignite it. The pair hoped that, after detonating their home-made explosives in the cafeteria at the busiest time of day, killing hundreds of students, they would shoot survivors fleeing from the school. He served eight years in prison for these offenses. Thirteen people were killed in the attack.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Exiting the elevator on the 27th floor, he hauled the dolly and equipment up a flight of stairs to a hallway, from which another flight led to the rooms skirted by the observation deck. Twenty-three firearms, a large quantity of ammunition, and numerous high-capacity magazines capable of holding up to 100 rounds apiece were found in the suite. It was closed again in 1975 following four suicides. Police assumed that the reason behind these killings was a failed sex-for-money deal. Like so many of you, we are saddened, but struggling to make sense of what has transpired. His motive is unknown. One victim was killed when he happened to block the door to a pharmacy. His mother told friends her son started getting upset at middle school because of frequent classroom changes during the day. Let these recommendations strengthen that resolve. He was shot twice by a male civilian as he exited the church. This tactic calls for a four-person team to advance into the site of any ongoing shooting, optimally a diamond-shaped wedge, but even with just a single officer if more are not available. They are bonded together in the hopes that the community, in a tragedy like this, will stick together, like they did. Neighbors reported loud music from the apartment around midnight on the night of the massacre, and one went to his door to tell him she was calling the police; she said the door seemed to be unlocked, but she chose not to open it. During the shooting, many of those in attendance managed to escape the room and flee deeper into the building, while those who remained hid underneath tables or in bathrooms, closets, and cupboards. It's not a game, it's a tremendous loss of life. We'll get the guys in white hats! Though laws were passed that made it a crime to buy guns for criminals and minors, there was considerable controversy over legislation pertaining to background checks at gun shows. A responding police officer received a minor eye injury when a bullet hit his helmet. Security-camera video footage was recovered from the nightclub as part of the investigation. At 10:12 p.m., two officers on the 31st floor reported the sounds of gunfire on the floor above them. Fake news websites and far-right activists published misleading stories and conspiracy stories about the incident.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. They could have focused on their own safety, on their own wellbeing. He fired at the police once with a handgun as he lay wounded on the ground, injuring an officer before the gun malfunctioned. Who's a fag now?! González said that he had been given that name by officials. There were 75 named recipients in total, though the two police officers injured in the shootout with the perpetrators declined their share of the compensation.

Without outward sign of it, the man sometimes had a swirl of thought. The shooter turned the gun on himself a half-hour later.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time.

The man dreamed at night sometimes, or perhaps all the time, with a sliver of that dream sometimes cutting his consciousness in the morning. At the time of the incident, he was working for the contractor at the base. The naming and determination of how each fund would be directed was being developed with the victims' families. Appears to have had no contact with mental health providers after 2006. The university was suddenly on the defensive. General court-martial guilty plea made it illegal for him to own, buy, or possess a firearm or ammunition. His victims ranged in age from 18 months to 74 years old. We have a lot of mental health problems in our country, as do other countries, but this isn't a guns situation ... we could go into it but it's a little bit soon to go into it.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. The upgraded equipment included bulletproof helmets and heavier bulletproof vests. A total of 603 calls to 9-1-1 were made by victims, family members and friends of victims, bystanders, and rescue workers during the entire shooting. He had to step over bodies to enter the building's north entrance. Over the next 96 minutes he shot and killed thirteen people (including one unborn child) and injured thirty-one others; an additional victim died in the hospital, while a final victim died in 2001 from the lingering effects of his wounds. All three were popular athletes. It took 57 minutes to get the last of the injured to a hospital. He intended to flank the sheriff's deputy who had first stopped. Personal weapons bought on base are required to be secured at all times and must be registered with the provost marshal.

The man thought to himself a good deal. The massacre sparked debate over gun control laws, high school cliques, subcultures, and bullying. Gun sales spiked after the shooting, with the number of background checks for people seeking to purchase a firearm in the state increasing to 2,887, up 43% from the previous week. Several organizations have hosted annual blood drives on or near the anniversary date of the shooting as a tribute to the victims. That guy's going to shoot you. Parents of some of the victims filed several unsuccessful lawsuits against video game manufacturers.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. Some reports portray him as an erratic, irritable worker; others claim he performed well and was being picked on by management. Exited out of the driver's front door, stood between the two open doors, and opened fire on the same vehicle. Taking the shortest route, he drove his motorcycle over grass between the athletic fields and headed toward the west entrance. Across the street he saw a 17-year-old newspaper boy being dragged and went to break up what he thought was a fight.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. Our hearts go out to the families and friends who lost loved ones and to all those who were injured. Our hearts and prayers are with them. By that afternoon he was disoriented, his speech was disjointed, he couldn't even figure out how to open his cereal box. Stared at the people on the floor, pointed the gun at a boy seated there, but did not fire at the boy, who ultimately survived. He quickly shot and killed 23 people, and wounded 27 others. The report said he would whip himself into a frenzy, a behavior consistent, possibly, with a need to contain anxiety-producing impulses and thoughts. The governors of several states also ordered flags to be lowered to half-staff in their states as well. 100 workers occupied the small facility at the time of the attack. He also fired at several people on at least five separate occasions, wounding one woman in the shoulder as she ran up a stairwell. He noticed a soldier outside the south doors of the building and went to help.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. And we pray for those who were injured and for those whose lives are changed forever because of what they witnessed and experienced.

This man was given to thinking of events of national importance. Was then directed to seek medical attention for himself.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. They walked toward the west entrance, throwing pipe bombs, very few of which detonated.

The man had heard things. It took three minutes and 32 seconds for the first police unit to respond to the shooting following the initial 9-1-1 emergency call. There he shot his uncle, two cousins, a neighbor, and said neighbor's infant daughter, all of whom were sitting on the porch of his uncle and aunt's house. The soldier severely cut his hand breaking the glass. He frequently washed his hands and changed his socks 20 times a day, to the point where his mother did three loads of laundry a day.

The man may never have dreamed. Get out of here. He was held without bail. Initially, officials thought three soldiers were involved in the shooting; two other soldiers were detained, but subsequently released. Had killed his mother and wife in their home the night before. Both cases were closed after finding nothing that warranted further investigation. At least one patron tried to help those who were hit. His destructive fantasy was now becoming an obsession. All three youths were shot and wounded. No individual was injured in this exchange. Insisted on testifying. The couple divorced in 1976. Only at the end of the interrogation did they discover he had a gunshot wound in the left thigh, which he kept secret. Three men attempted to stop one of the shooters, but all were shot; it was unclear if any of them survived. Was able to hold the door closed until most of his students escaped through the windows, but he died after being shot multiple times through the door. , to which she replied yes, before getting killed.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. In only twelve minutes he shot and killed 13 people and wounded three others. Later, such characterizations were considered incorrect. Form was among those investigated. Islamophobia is being spread around the world. During much of his middle school and high school years, he received therapy and special education support. They fired three shots in return, hitting him once in the right side. This law would have largely affected students 21 years or older since younger people are not allowed to purchase handguns. Although in general the killings were premeditated, the victims seemed to have been chosen at random.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. They had killed 10 people in the library and wounded 12. One person shielded herself by hiding inside a bathroom and covering herself with bodies. He avoided attracting attention and was uncomfortable socializing. Prior to the kickoff, thirty-two orange balloons were released in memory of the victims. Several theaters subsequently held tighter security on allowing unaccompanied singles to see films. Police officials described these adjustments as minute changes that are common in complex investigations. Several makeshift memorials were built and torn down. To be inarticulate about your goals, even to not understand them, does not negate their existence. Some believed he was playing a prank, while others thought he was part of a special effects installation setup for the film's premiere or a publicity stunt by the studio or theater management. Fell to the ground, shot several times in the legs and upper body. The report went on to say his severe and deteriorating internalized mental health problems... combined with an atypical preoccupation with violence... (and) access to deadly weapons... proved a recipe for mass murder. When they could not break the chains, an officer shot out a deadbolt lock leading into a laboratory; they then moved to a nearby stairwell. Our family is so very sorry for my brother's unspeakable actions. Six firearms were recovered from the crime scene: five handguns and one long gun. His attendance was intermittent, and he stopped coming altogether. According to the federal form required to record firearms transactions, a discharge under dishonorable conditions not only refers to a dishonorable discharge, but also a bad conduct discharge adjudged by a general court-martial.

The man remembered a lot of things. Hasan said having a beard was part of his religious belief. The pair subsequently committed suicide. He had serious brain damage and an eye injury from a shotgun blast to the head, and underwent three brain surgeries.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. He was the only teacher to die in the shooting. The release of photographs, film, video, digital or other visual images depicting a homicide victim is prevented if such records could reasonably be expected to constitute an unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy of the victim or the victim's surviving family members. They shot toward students standing close to a soccer field but did not hit anyone.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. In a backpack, he carried several chains, locks, a hammer, a knife, two handguns with nineteen 10- and 15-round magazines, and nearly 400 rounds of ammunition.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. Was shot a second time and died.

The man had many thoughts, few of them clear. He had trouble getting along with his neighbors, and his interactions with them deteriorated in the three months before his spree. the shooter's use of the pistol during the alleyway shooting led police officials to initially believe the possibility of a second gunman involved. The bomb detonated inside the trailer but no one was injured. They manned traffic stops and guarded a makeshift morgue.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. They locked themselves in and remained there until they were freed, at approximately 3:30 p.m. Eventually chose to discontinue therapy. They walked back toward the windows facing the outside staircase. Fled immediately, and escaped through the library's main entrance.

The man had many thoughts, few of them clear. There, both boys attended mandated classes and talked with diversion officers. Wounded, he retreated to the bathroom. More than a third were shot in the head, and most had multiple bullet wounds and were likely shot more than 3 feet (0.91 meters) away. It happens all the time! First shot and killed the professor, then continued firing, killing nine of the thirteen students in the room and injuring two others. At the time of the shooting, officials did not know where his father was. The two walked out of the library at 11:36 a.m., ending the hostage situation there. Nearby, two women tried to hide beneath a booth. He added, the police department has done such an incredible job, and we'll be talking about gun laws as time goes by. Military weapons are used only for training or by base security.

This man was given to thinking of events of national importance. Feeling uneasy, walked away. Dialed 9-1-1 and hid under the library's administrative counter. While on the first floor, the shooter moved around randomly before turning around and heading towards the front entrance. Police said he was not considered a suspect, and he was not taken into custody. Myers' four-year-old son was in the house, but survived unharmed. He had been trying to get custody of their son.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. Four hours later, police pursued their vehicle and killed them in a shootout, which also left two officers injured. His face splashed across every screen, his name across the lips of every person on the planet, all in the course of one day. The various bullet holes were repaired and the tower was reopened in 1968. No one in that classroom was wounded or killed. At approximately 12:00 noon, ten people left the building, with another ten following approximately forty minutes later. Had noted on his site that he had made pipe bombs, in addition to a hit list of individuals (he did not post any plan on how he intended to attack targets). According to his wife, he sat quietly beside the telephone for several hours, awaiting the return call, before abruptly walking out of the family home and riding to an unknown destination on his motorcycle. Unlike many previous school shootings, both shooters committed suicide, which made the massacre particularly difficult to assess.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The school cafeteria, their primary bomb target, with its long outside window-wall and ground-level doors, was between their parking spots. I won't be back. He once threatened her at gunpoint over a speeding ticket, and later threatened to kill her and her entire family. According to one source, she texted him back at one point saying that she loved him. Initially, some of them thought the gunshots were firecrackers or part of the music. In accordance with law, the names of victims and witnesses were redacted or withheld. The fence will feature a commemorative screen-wrap with local artwork that would serve as a memorial to the victims and survivors of the shooting. According to press reports, he seemed dazed and largely unaware of his surroundings.

The man had heard things. One of them said he would sometimes become drunkenly loud and belligerent, and at other times would drink in a corner by himself. The report stated that he 'descended' into a world where his only communication with the outside world was with members of a cyber-community, a small community of individuals that shared his dark and obsessive interest in mass murder. At 10:40 p.m., a member of the bomb squad, who was attempting to dispose of an un-detonated pipe bomb, accidentally lit a striking match attached to the bomb by brushing it against the wall of the ordnance disposal trailer. Contacted hotel dispatchers over his radio, informed them of the ongoing shooting, and told them to call the police. They could be described as both violent and non-violent.

The man may never have dreamed. Both armed, they climbed to the top of the outdoor west entrance steps, placing them on a level with the athletic fields west of the building and the library inside the west entrance, directly above the cafeteria.

This man was given to thinking of events of national importance. The total count of deaths was 12 students and one teacher; 20 students and one teacher were injured as a result of the shootings. Of the other eight victims, two families chose not to file claims, while two remain unresolved. and opened fire.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. She lay still in the hallway and then, not hearing any more noise, crawled back to the conference room and pressed her body against the door to keep it closed.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. We too are asking why.

There were known knowns familiar to the man, as to anyone who thought. From this vantage point, the cafeteria's west entrance was located at the bottom of the staircase, next to the senior parking lot. He had to remove the belt from the door and went outside as others were arriving. In return, the weapons charges were dropped. She hid with the children for approximately 40 minutes, at which point law enforcement came to lead them out of the room. Investors expect gun sales will increase over concerns that such an event could lead to more stringent gun-control legislation and a rush of customers wishing to defend themselves against future attacks. According to witnesses, he did not make any homophobic comments during the shooting. The report concluded that the toll could have been reduced if the university had made an immediate decision to cancel classes and a stronger, clearer initial alert of the presence of a gunman. He had a brief shootout with police, and refused their orders to surrender, fatally shooting himself. But they didn't.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Immediately following the shootout that killed the perpetrators, investigators in armored vehicles at the perpetrators' townhouse considered ordering an evacuation, but instead ordered the neighborhood to shelter in place and cordoned off the area. Thirteen of the bodies were still inside the high school as investigators photographed the building. A second teacher, who was a substitute kindergarten teacher, was wounded in the attack. In the end, he pleaded guilty to aggravated assault and was sentenced to five years probation, but the judgment of his guilt was withheld by the court subject to the successful completion of probation. Prompted by the incident, the federal government passed the first gun control law in more than a decade. They swept the school for other shooters at least four times. Leaving his contact details with the receptionist, he was assured the clinic would return his call within hours. According to a city spokesman, all 9-1-1 calls made during the shooting have now been released to the public. The duo proceeded toward the south hallway, where they shot into an empty science room. Graduated in 2009 with a 2.32 grade-point average and a ranking of 260 out of 393 students in his class. Defense attorneys were concerned that his defense strategy would lead to him receiving the death penalty. His death was ruled a homicide. The sheriff's department confirmed that a man and a woman were killed. I didn't like life too much.

The man took things a day at a time and thought about things a thing at a time. A total of 232 other calls are still being withheld by the city.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. At 10:55 p.m., the officers finished evacuating guests. The alert system was first activated in 2008 when an exploded cartridge from a nail gun produced sounds similar to gunfire near a campus dormitory. This transfer brought each fund to the level of full endowment, allowing them to operate in perpetuity. Relatives described him as a recluse with no friends. May have researched the possibility of attacking other outdoor concerts. After robbing the convenience store, he visited his mother's grave one last time, and then called his supervisor that he wouldn't come to work because he had something else to do.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. He was shot eight times and killed in the resulting shootout, which involved at least eleven officers who fired a total of about 150 bullets. I will not give him credit for this horrific act of cowardice. Initially pleaded not guilty to all of the charges against him. Eight other students were injured, some with multiple gunshot wounds. An official statement was released, saying there were 15 confirmed deaths and 27 injuries related to the massacre.

The man had regrets; he was trying to see if, through thinking on matters, he could develop something other than regrets. And when it did, they could have taken shelter by themselves. Charges were filed for 13 counts of willful and malicious slayings with malice aforethought and three counts of atrocious assault and battery.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. Police said this was the worst mass shooting event in the state's history.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The couple was not completely successful in destroying their personal electronics, including mobile phones and hard drives, prior to the attack. After eating dinner, he, his wife, and their two daughters (aged 12 and 10) cycled to a nearby park. The dynamics and the size of this investigation requires us to go through voluminous amounts of information in order to draw an accurate picture. The shooters moved to the center of the library, where they continued to reload their weapons at a table there. immediately prior to her murder. An increased suspicion of goth subculture subsequently manifested. The memorial consists of 21 hexagonal white marble pillars ranging in height from one to six feet, each bearing the name of one of the victims. Paton said the videos serve the perpetrators by distinguishing themselves from their classmates and associating themselves with the previous perpetrators. Bullets were also found in at least three cars parked outside the school, leading police to believe that he was firing at a teacher who was standing near a window. Said he saw one of the boys throw a pipe bomb, which only partially detonated. According to relatives, he never managed to get over the fact that he had killed his friend. According to witnesses, he appeared to be wearing a costume, like other audience members who had dressed up for the screening. Began to write in a journal, in which he recorded his thoughts and plans. Cautiously, fearing the shooters' return, 34 uninjured and 10 injured survivors began to evacuate the library through the north door, which led to the sidewalk adjacent to the west entrance.

Survivors of the shooting have received death threats on social media; they have also been accused of being paid actors.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The shooting resulted in calls for more gun control measures. Texted back asking her if she had seen the news. Rescues of people trapped inside the nightclub commenced and continued throughout the night. Based on preliminary reports, this was a very deranged individual with a lot of problems over a very long period of time. He also heard many people yelling and many gunshots over the intercom while he, his classmates, and his teacher took refuge in a closet in the gymnasium. He had two wounds in the abdomen and a wound to the scalp. Began shooting people seated in the restaurant as he walked toward those under the tables. After engaging in a shootout with police, he committed suicide inside the building. Having called the police station, he was instructed to go to the campus and direct traffic. A call for additional ammunition for police officers in case of a shootout came at 12:20 p.m.

The man went west to find something, not knowing what. An investigator later testified that 146 spent shell casings were recovered inside the building. All three pleaded guilty.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Increasingly lived in an alternate universe in which ruminations about mass shootings were his central preoccupation. Rifle then jammed briefly, at which point he switched to using a handgun. He was arrested twice in 1965 for vagrancy, and twice again in 1966, once for attempted robbery and a second time for assault after he attacked a construction worker who owed him a quarter. Fourteen of the children were dead at the scene; one injured child was taken to a hospital for treatment, but was later declared dead. Was described as reclusive and belligerent, with an explosive temper. The three friends had been ascending the staircase directly below the shooters. At 5:30 p.m., additional officers were called in, as more explosives were found in the parking lot and on the roof. The estimate was ten over the true count, but close to the total count of wounded students.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. At some point, he threatened his mother with a wrench, and she left for a friend's home. As he looked for a way into the tower, a student offered to help, saying he had a rifle at home. Plans were to completely renovate the building and for it to no longer contain classrooms.

The man knew what he knew. There were already two students dead and ten wounded.

The man remembered a lot of things. He was eventually diagnosed with paranoid schizophrenia by psychologists, and found to be insane, making him immune to criminal prosecution. The response to how gun laws affected the shooting was divided. Gruder said the notoriety of the home had made it essentially unsaleable. Shortly before 11:00 a.m., the event went on an unscheduled break due to a technical problem. Later, he committed suicide by shooting himself in the head. Additionally, law enforcement officers fired a total of 141 rounds during exchanges of gunfire with the shooters. The maximum sentence is 25 years in prison plus a $500,000 fine. Then, as police vehicles, ambulances, fire trucks, and reporters came to the school, bombs set in the boys' cars would detonate, killing these emergency and other personnel.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. She later testified that she would have liked to have had her gun, but said, it was a hundred feet away in my car (she had feared that if she was caught carrying it she might lose her chiropractor's license). Next to some of the names was the word retal. He had so much ammunition in his car that he appeared to have intended to kill many more people.

Without outward sign of it, the man sometimes had a swirl of thought. In many of these calls, people who were trapped inside bathrooms, kitchens, and an upstairs office were questioning why police had yet to enter the nightclub. He seemed annoyed by us, and he seemed like he wanted to exert some authority. The police brought his mother to their base to talk with him. Noticed a student hiding nearby and asked him to identify himself. The poorly constructed devices failed to explode. Observers noted this was consistent with investigators' concluding he had acted alone.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The perpetrators fired at least 81 rounds. In 2000 federal and state legislation was introduced that would require safety locks on firearms as well as ban the importation of high-capacity ammunition magazines. During the last year of his life, he was doing construction maintenance at a brewery. Confessed to the shooting but pleaded not guilty by reason of insanity. About 20 minutes into the film, he left theater 9 through an emergency exit door beside the movie screen, with direct access to the lightly used parking area at the back of the complex, while propping the door slightly open with a plastic tablecloth holder. He hung up, got more ammunition, and went to a vacated rental house. This was approximately five minutes after the last shot was heard. There were no further injuries after 11:35 a.m. He decorated his bedroom with military items, and set up a target range in his basement. Never entered her classroom.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Initial news reports and witness accounts following the attack led to a search for up to three shooters, but police eventually determined that there were only two since only two firearms were used in the attack according to ballistics evidence. Struggled toward the science area, and a teacher took him into a classroom where 30 students were located. Several victims had tried to stanch their bleeding with napkins—often in vain. At the time of his sentencing, he became the sixth person on military death row.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. Investigators did not find a suicide note or any messages referring to the planning of the attack.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. This comprised 154 shots from the rifle and two shots from the 10mm pistol. At 4:30 p.m. the school was declared safe. It took 4 hours for the standoff to end. The couple had amassed a large stockpile of weapons, ammunition, and bomb-making equipment in their home.

The man remembered a lot of things. All the students in this room were evacuated safely. In these journals, the pair documented their arsenal with video tapes they kept secret. Between 10:26 and 10:30 p.m., an additional eight officers arrived at the 32nd floor. Media organizations are challenging the sealing of the court file.

The man may never have dreamed. Worked with him one-on-one in a poetry tutorial and feels he didn't get the help he needed.

The man knew what he knew. I didn't hear him say a word, he just turned and fired. Hesitated, then told him to leave. In 2004, the company laid off five percent of its workforce. Some schools implemented school door numbering to improve public safety response.

The man dreamed at night sometimes, or perhaps all the time, with a sliver of that dream sometimes cutting his consciousness in the morning. Media will get the name confirmed in time ... but you will never hear us use it. The time between the call being answered and the shooters entering the library was four minutes and ten seconds.

The man had heard things. Returning to the shooting scene, he advised a wounded student to stay down and be quiet. No witness recalled seeing the duffel bags being added to the 400 or so backpacks already in the cafeteria. Announced their intent to oppose the order, citing the security risks that the creation of a backdoor would pose towards their customers. Because most of the restaurant's windows had been shattered by gunfire, reflections from shards of glass made it difficult for police to see inside. I just want them to know they do not grieve alone. Hasan was allegedly asked how he intended to use the weapon, but simply repeated that he wanted the most advanced handgun with the largest magazine capacity. Was found to be criminally insane, and died in 2009 after a lengthy illness at the age of 88, following 60 years of confinement. No words can truly express how heartbroken we are. During this second assault, he had fired at least 174 rounds, killing thirty people and wounding seventeen more. Their goal was $10,000 with the event; more than $47,000 in cash, plus donations of caskets and concrete vaults for each of the victims, brought the total value of donations to more than $100,000. None were owned by his mother. The award was previously denied due to the categorization of the event as workplace violence.

Certain things he had heard and learned resonated in the otherwise routine and still mind of the man. Following the shootings the tower observation deck was closed.

The man knew that some things were fake, some facts. Three wounded patients were evacuated to the hospital, where two children were later declared dead.

The man had heard things. Formal identification of the dead had not yet taken place, but families of the children thought to have been killed had been notified.

There were known unknown the man of course knew about. The couple had no children. However, around the same time, he furiously derided him in his journal, stating that he believed himself to have the right to steal something if he wanted to. As before, no one was hit. Asked again whether they were going to kill him. Patrons trapped inside called or texted 9-1-1 to warn of the possible presence of explosives. While she was closing a door further down the hallway, she was hit in the foot with a bullet that ricocheted. Since the prosecution had sought the death penalty, his defense team sought to prevent this.

The man remembered a lot of things. The sheriff decided to mark the entire school as a crime scene; thirteen of the dead, including the shooters, were still inside the school at the time. The shooters walked to the opposite side of the library, to two rows of computers.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The new school is on the site of the building where the shooting took place, which was demolished and rebuilt with a state grant of around $50 million. Stood and ran back down the hall into the library, alerting the students inside to the danger and telling them to get under desks and keep silent. They sawed the barrels and butts off their shotguns to make them easier to conceal. She survived, although she would be hospitalized longer than any other survivor. He fired more than 200 rounds, police said at a news conference. In total, there were over 200 gunshot wounds. Both of the shooters were classified as gifted children who had allegedly been victims of bullying for four years.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. Over thirty people were wounded; some from gunshots, others from falls or other injuries incurred during the incident, and many suffered psychological trauma or shock. He was regularly seen there They moved away from the table and went toward the library's main counter. Each of these people had so much love, talent and gifts to offer, and their lives were cut short by a horrible and senseless act.

The man knew that people said things, sometimes for no reason. The bags holding the bombs were first visible on the fresh security tape, but they were not identified as suspicious items. It was said he threw two canisters emitting a gas or smoke, partially obscuring the audience members' vision, making their throats and skin itch, and causing eye irritation.

The man thought to himself a good deal. Was found dead from a self-inflicted gunshot wound, in the first-floor classroom with his victims. After sleeping until 8 am he got up, dressed in his best suit and ate breakfast with his mother.

The man went west to escape something, but he did not escape the country or himself. By 5:00 p.m., the names of many of the dead were known.

To forget that which had been taken away, the man thought on what he knew and had. Approached another table where two girls were hiding. They gave their lives to protect the precious children in their care. She then met privately with some faculty and survivors, including three who were wounded. Lay in the library, keeping track of time by the sound of the school's bells until police arrived.

The man knew what he knew. Many have characterized the attack as terrorism.

Just with what was in his head about the facts of the matter, the man could have written a book. The memorial contains the bronze statue of a man and a woman standing atop the fountain's center base and holding the ribbon of the bow attached to the base. He was dressed in black and wore a gas mask, a load-bearing vest (not to be confused with a bulletproof vest), a ballistic helmet, bullet-resistant leggings, a bullet-resistant throat protector, a groin protector, and tactical gloves.
